City Slums

• The unemployment rates of Negroes in these areas were higher than the worst national rates for the entire labor force recorded since the Great Depression.

• Nearly one-third of the Negro boys and nearly half of the Negro girls "who were actively seeking work were unable to find jobs."

• Poverty area dwellers, especially Negroes, were concentrated in less secure, less desirable and less rewarding jobs than those in more affluent parts of the city.

• 76 percent of the Negro male workers were employed as operatives, laborers and service workers compared with only 29 percent of the white male workers.

• Nearly 4 times more Negro men aged 25-54 (5 percent) than white men were reported unable to work because of long-term illness or disability.

• The labor force participation rate for Negro women age 16 and over was considerably greater than that of their white counterparts (46.3 to 36.5 percent).

As of March 1966, the article notes, a minimum of 290,000 more jobs would be required to reduce the jobless rates of poverty areas to the level of white residents in non-poverty areas.

Another 90,000 jobs would be needed, it adds, to accomplish the same for Negro residents of non-poverty areas.

PHYSICIAN URGES GYNECOLOGY FOR LITTLE GIRLS AT MED. MEET

NEW YORK—(WMNS) — A little girl, even as big one, may need a gynecologist's attention from time to time and there is no good reason for denying it to her. This observation was made at a recent meeting here by Dr. Vincent J. Capraro, assistant clinical professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Noting that young children, too, can contract vaginal infections and can have any one of a number of gynecological problems, the physician urged prompt attention to these ills. If a mother is reassured that her little girl will not be damaged in any way she, in turn, can be reassuring to her child who will then accept examination without any trauma resulting. Sometimes little girls, for reasons known only to themselves, will insert foreign bodies such as clips, crayons, small toys into their vaginas and these of course must be removed as promptly as possible by a doctor.

An adolescent girl may need gynecological help for reassurance concerning physical development, menstrual problems, and for a variety of other conditions she may be disturbed about.

39 4-H Boys and Girls to Attend National Meet

Some 39 North Carolina boys and girls, each one a state winner in a 4-H project or activity, will board planes on November 25 for trips to Chicago and the 45th National 4-H Club Congress.

The Tar Heel delegation will be joined at the Conrad Hilton Hotel by some 1,600 boys and girls—all winners—representing all 50 states, Canada and Puerto Rico.

Congress activities begin at once with registration and get acquainted parties, but the formal program actually begins on Sunday, Nov. 27, and continues until a final banquet and farewell party on Thursday night, Dec. 1.

Dr. T. C. Blalock, state 4-H leader at North Carolina State University, says the Congress is an annual event planned by the National 4-H Service Committee in cooperation with the Extension Service of the land-grant universities, and more than 57 individual and business firms which support the 4-H program.

The Congress theme is "Pursuit of Excellence." Prominent government, education and business leaders will meet with the delegates to provoke a greater depth of challenge in setting high standards for a better tomorrow.

During the action-packed week more than 218 youths selected for superior achievement and leadership ability will be designated national winners of $500 educational scholarships.

Three boys and three girls will be named to receive the highest honor bestowed during the Congress: The Presidential Silver Tray award. These champions are the top pairs in achievement, citizenship and leadership programs.

Donors of funds for the trips and scholarships are business firms and foundations. They contribute more than a million dollars each year, according to the National 4-H Service Committee which receives the funds to administer for awards and other program aids.

It takes real sportsmanship for the wife of a clever man to laugh at the same joke at six dinner parties during a single winter.
