

DISCUSS LIFE IN WATTS—(Washington)—Hollywood writer Budd Schulberg (C), and 2 products of the Writers Workshop he started in Watts, Johnnie Scott (L) and Harry E. Dolan (R) appear before the Senate Government Operations subcommittee. Scott who tried to make it at Harvard and failed, said that "one does not ever really escape from the ghetto." Dolan and Scott agreed that as in August 1965 when the riot exploded, Watts is pretty much the same.

Mrs. Elizabeth Koontz NCTA-NCEA Speaker

GASTONIA—Mrs. Elizabeth "Libby" Koontz of Salisbury, was guest speaker recently at the Masonic Temple for the banquet jointly sponsored by the NCEA - NCTA Classroom Teachers Department. Mrs. Linda Rader, president of the NCEA-CTA presided and introduced the guest speaker while Mrs. Mattie T. Lakin, President of the NCTA - Association of Classroom Teachers of the Gastonia City unit presented the guests present for the historic occasion.

Mrs. Koontz, immediate past president of the National Education Association Department of Classroom Teachers and the first of her race to head the international organization of 800,000 members stressed the national theme: "Professional Unity—Our Commitment." Her crowded audience appeared delighted with her presentation and gave her a tremendous ovation.

A coordinating group of the two organizations worked out the details of the banquet and presented an affair that was attended by the Gastonia City and the Gaston County Unit as well as other special guests from nearby cities. Mrs. Koontz was house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glendell Brooks upon arrival in the city from an engagement with a New York Group of teachers.

Following the banquet she was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. James S. Miller of Belmont. Mrs. Miller is Southwestern N. C. District President of the Association of Classroom Teachers.

Mrs. Koontz was so dynamic and effective as President of the NEA-DCT that she has been urged to be a candidate for the position of Vice-President of the NEA during the Minneapolis, Minnesota Convention next July.

At present she is secretary and member of the Board of Directors of the Investment Corporation for the NEA Mutual Fund and is a life member of the NEA.
