Expenses for Child Care and Disabled Dependent Care

GREENSBORO — Employed women and widowers may deduct amounts they spend up to a maximum of $900 for child care expenses for certain dependents on their 1967 Federal income tax returns if they itemize their deductions, J. E. Wall, District Director of Internal Revenue for North Carolina said this week.

The expenses for the care of certain disabled dependents may also be deducted.

The deduction may be taken by a woman, whether single, married, widowed, divorced or deserted. A man is eligible only if he is widowed, divorced, legally separated from his wife, or if his wife is incapacitated or institutionalized.

Those expenses are deductible for two types of dependents: (1) children under 13, and (2) someone who is physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself, regardless of age. The disability may be temporary or permanent.

Costs for the care of these dependents are deductible if the care permits the taxpayer to be gainfully employed or to seek employment.

The deduction is limited to what is actually spent, and may not exceed $600 in the case of one dependent or $900 in the case of two or more dependents.

The requirements which must be met to claim this deduction are:

1. Married women must file a joint return with their husbands and reduce the deduction by the amount that their combined adjusted gross income exceeds $6,000. (This rule does not apply, however, if the husband is incapable of self-support due to mental or physical cause.)

2. Deductions are not allowed for the care of anyone whom the taxpayer is not entitled to claim as a dependent.

3. If the person receiving the payments performs other duties, only the part paid for child care may be deducted.

Book Review

"No more convincing testimony to the life work of George Hunton could be found than the full-blown participation of the Catholic Church August 28, 1963, in the March on Washington for Civil Rights and Jobs." — Roy Wilkins, Executive Director, NAACP.

"All of Which I Saw, Part of Which I Was" (Doubleday, Apr. 14) is the autobiography of George K. Hunton who, for 3 decades, has been involved in the fight for racial equality. With the noted Jesuit, Father John LaFarge, Mr. Hunton founded the Catholic Interracial Council and became one of the leaders of a movement that touched the whole gamut of activities where the Negro was discriminated against — labor, education, sports, justice, and culture. During the course of his work, Mr. Hunton became well-acquainted and worked closely with such leaders of the civil rights movement as Thurgood Marshall, A. Philip Randolph, and Roy Wilkins.

In "All of Which I Saw, Part of Which I Was," Mr. Hunton is outspoken in his denunciation of groups and individuals who failed to live up to their responsibilities as Catholics and as citizens.

George K. Hunton was born in Claremont, New Hampshire in 1888. He attended Holy Cross College and graduated from Fordham Law School in 1910. His first job was in Harlem as an employee of the Legal Aid Society. Mr. Hunton has lived most of his life in Brooklyn, New York.

Among numerous other books, Gary MacEoin is also the author of "What Happened at Rome?" which received the Catholic Institute of the Press annual award for 1966.

SERVE YOURSELF A SALAD (Coffee-Lemon Salad Dressing) Colorful and attractive fresh fruit salad in "natural" bowls is enhanced by creamy Coffee-

Lemon Salad Dressing. Instant decaffeinated coffee provides the flavor secret to this smooth-textured, uniquely flavored dressing. It goes so well with most fruit salads and is a cinch to make with instant decaffeinated coffee.

NO PROBLEM WITH COFFEE

Time For You To Entertain Guests at Home?

Miss Entertainer, reach for instant decaffeinated coffee and prepare a surprise for the occasion. First tell your guests, "Serve yourself a salad"; the ooh's and ah's will surely come once you have led them to the table. When they see the lovely bowls of fresh pineapple filled with colorful cubes of pineapple and assorted melon, they will eagerly follow your orders.

Allow them a minute or two to feast their eyes upon this delicious combination of fresh fruit before you let them in on the big surprise.

The big surprise? Delicious, creamy salad dressing made with instant decaffeinated coffee. Coffee-Lemon Salad Dressing is a cinch to make; just blend together instant decaffeinated coffee, whipped or sour cream, salad oil, confectioners' sugar, and lemon juice. It's surprising how the coffee flavor brings out the best in fruit salads. The unique coffee flavor of the dressing accents the fresh bright taste of the fruit. The dressing will be especially attractive if served in a melon bowl and will lend a festive aid to the occasion. Be sure to have plenty of hot or iced instant decaffeinated coffee on hand to serve along with the salad. Your guests may drink as much as they choose no matter what the hour because there is no caffeine to worry about, just real coffee flavor to enjoy. The next time you plan to serve salad, whether to friends or family, top it off with smooth-textured Coffee-Lemon Salad Dressing and wait for the compliments.

Dr. Helen Edmonds to Speak At St. Paul's College Monday

LAWRENCEVILLE, Va.—As the featured speaker for its annual observance of Women's Week, April 16-21, Saint Paul's College here has invited a distinguished alumnus, Dr. Helen degree from Ohio State University, and the Ph.D. degree, also from Ohio State. She did post-doctoral research at the University of Heidelberg, West Germany.

The best work is done in poise. Efficiency brings ease, certainty, and self-assurance. —Kleiser

DR. EDMONDS

G. Edmonds, dean of the graduate school at North Carolina College at Durham.

The widely traveled educator and lecturer will address an all-college assembly in Kirby Auditorium on Monday morning, April 17, at 10 o'clock.

Another principal event during the observance week will be the inaugural Freshman Parents Day, set for Sunday, April 16. Parents of first-year undergraduates will register in the morning, attend a special service in Memorial Chapel at eleven, be honored luncheon guests at one in the Mary E. Johnston Dining Hall-Student Union, and be feted at a five o'clock reception hosted by SPC President Earl H. McClenney and Mrs. McClenney.

Women's Week activities are being arranged by a committee headed by Mrs. Sadie S. Floyd, dean of women. The all-day freshmen parents is being coordinated by Edward I. Long, dean of students and administrative assistant.

Other events during the week will be: Monday, seven-thirty, charm clinic conducted by Mrs. N. J.; Wednesday, banquet for women of the college — guest speaker, Miss Barbara Tinsley of Richmond, co-president of the Richmond Education Association; and Friday evening, semi-formal dance in the Chicago Building.

The featured speaker for Women's Week, Dr. Edmonds, holds high school and junior college diplomas from Saint Paul's, a bachelor's degree from Morgan State College, a M.A.

Rigsbee Tire Sales, Your Pirelli Tire Dealer Announces...

PIEDMONT SPORTS CAR CLUB

APRIL SLALOM

Sunday, April 9, 12:30 P.M. — Lakewood Shopping Center

"Come to enter or to watch"

PIRELLI The World's Greatest Radial Ply Tire

The perfect tire for all European and most Domestic Cars Pirelli does not make any so called second or third line tires. Each of its tire products is the realization of a complete concept of performance, whether it be the kind of traction that gives lightweight cars a solid grip on the road, or the speed safety formula that expert drivers have come to depend upon in "slides" and "drifts." In every case it is the specific care and driving pattern that should determine the proper tire equipment. Bob Salmon at Rigsbee Tire Sales is a tire expert, a man who will be glad to help you work out a prescription that's right for your car. Drive in and talk with him soon... he can tell you how each of the Pirelli tires differs in rubber compounds, casing construction, tread pattern and performance characteristics.
