tempted to commit" acts of which he is accused "unless it is proved beyond a reasonable doubt that he did not intend any of the results aforesaid."

The government of South Africa originally had placed 37 Ovambo tribemen, most of whom are reported to be members of the Evangelical Lutheran Ovambokavango Church, on trial. One died in prison and another was acquitted.

The United Presbyterian Commission last month voted to contribute $10,000 to the defense of the accused South West Africans. Funds toward their defense also have been approved by other church groups including the Methodist Board of Missions and the Lutheran World Federation.

The United Nations General Assembly by a 110-2 vote last Saturday called for an end to the Pretoria trial, and approved by 93-2 a request that the U.N. Security Council use its enforcement powers to make South Africa give up its de facto role of South West Africa. The United States co-sponsored the former measure but abstained in the latter.

U.N. Resolution 2145, which Dr. Smith referred, was passed in October, 1966 and declares that the South African mandate over South West Africa is ended and that U. N. reserves to itself the governing of that territory.

"The present trial under the Terrorism Act exhibits, with unbelievable presumption, the extremes that vested South African government interests have adopted to defend and extend their rule over the black majority," Dr. Smith wrote. "...We appreciate your forthright stand on the trial in Pretoria, and assure you of our full support in your efforts on behalf of human justice."

She will remain in Durham until Sunday morning, January 7, at which time she will sing three special numbers in the University Service of Worship in the Duke Chapel.

As reigning prima donna of the State Opera of Hamburg, as resident soprano of the Royal Opera of Stockholm, and as celebrated star at La Scala, Milan, and at the Liceo in Barcelona, Miss Dobbs is well established as one of the world's great artists. Of particular interest to Duke students and Durham residents is the fact that two of her sisters live in Durham, and one of her nieces is a member of the Duke Chapel choir.

Miss Dobbs first entered international competition in Geneva, where in the world's leading International Music Competition, she won the coveted first prize over hundreds of singers from throughout the world. Following this, she appeared in Luxemburg, Paris, and London. She won immediate acclaim in each place. She made her debut at La Scala, Milan, as the first Negro ever to sing in that opera house. Then came in rapid succession the Metropolitan Opera in New York and other great opera houses of the world. Each winter she tours the United States, singing concerts chiefly in colleges and universities.

Rayes have appeared following her concerts everywhere. Chyenne, 1965: "Mattilda Dobbs is the best singer we have had in 33 years of Community Concerts."

HOLD THAT HAIRDO!

Droopy, hard-to-manage hair can be one of the most frustrating beauty problems. You shampoo it, set it, brush it into your favorite style, then it immediately collapses. What a dispirited hairdo needs is Adorn, the self styling hair spray with extra-holding power specially formulated for hard-to-control hair. There are all sorts of tricks you can use to rescue a droopy hairdo. Transform lank locks into a happy flip by first spraying lavishly, then with a comb, whip up the ends with short, choppy strokes. Or, glamorize longish hair from a down-do into an up-do by spraying first, then backcombing gently to make a puffy pillow. Smooth over this cushion with top hair and scoop up the hair in back into soft loopy curls. Hold the tall atomizer can about seven inches away from your head as you spray. The fine mist leaves your hair soft, mildly fragrant and completely free from dullness or flakiness.
