Marshall Gets Homecoming Kenya Greeting

NAIROBI, Kenya—U. S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall received an enthusiastic "homecoming welcome" by his "soul brothers and sisters" in Nairobi.

Marshall, the first Negro to serve on the U.S. Supreme Court, was an official member of U.S. delegation touring Africa with Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

A large crowd of Kenyans, who were on hand at the airport to greet Vice President Humphrey, cheered loudly when the Vice President introduced Mr. Marshall.

Many Kenyans remember the work Marshall did as a legal advisor to Kenyan Nationalists at the London Constitutional Talks that paved the way for Kenya's independence. Marshall and Kenya President Jomo Kenyatta are personal friends.

In each of the nine African countries visited by the Vice President, Marshall has spent considerable time meeting with law students and local justices.

In his meeting with students at the Kenya School of Law, Marshall said he had noticed great changes in Kenya since his last visit in 1963, especially in the effort to strengthen the judicial system.

He told the students that the surest path to social progress is through the rule of law, not violence.

"In Africa and in our country," Marshall declared, "we shall continue to seek freedom: freedom of the individual, freedom of the individual from any unjust restraint from any governmental agency of any kind, freedom of the individual from persecution — legal or otherwise. In any Democratic form or system of government, the courts, right up to the Supreme Court, are made the final guardians and protectors of every single individual's human rights."

Marshall indicated that upon his return to the States he would make certain reports and recommendations on what can be done in Africa to develop a strong judiciary.

Local 183 VP Says American Tob. Co. Strike 100 Percent

Joe Alston, vice president of Local 183 of the Tobacco Workers International Union, stated here Tuesday "The strike by Local 183, of the Tobacco Workers International Union at the American Tobacco Company in Durham, is still 100% effective." Alston stated further that "the spirit of the striking employees is very good and contrary to reports by management there are no production employees crossing the picket lines." Alston added, "if any cigarettes are being made it is on a very small scale and this is being done by supervisory personnel only. The members of Local 183 are standing firm and will do so until the company agrees to pay a living wage and agrees to give union more protection against machine speed increases which could turn a wage increase into a decrease in take home pay, by a shorter work week."

Alston told a Carolina Times representative that "Local 183, in Reidsville reported to our strike headquarters this morning that only about 15 per cent of the employees there are working with 21 employees less working today than yesterday."

Vets Questions And Answers

Editor's Note: Below are authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to some of the many current questions from former servicemen and their families. Further information on veterans benefits may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—I am attending business school under the G.I. Bill. Recently I received a monthly attendance certificate card to fill out. I was under the impression that these monthly certification cards had been discontinued.

A.—Monthly certification cards are still required of those veterans in training programs other than in college.

Q—I was retired from service for disability and now the VA has awarded me compensation. Can I draw both?

A.—No. You may receive which ever is the greater amount or you may waive a portion of retirement to receive compensation.
