Charles Evers Is Candidate for Lower House

JACKSON, Miss.—The Evers for Congress campaign was kicked off at a rally held here Friday night, Feb. 2. Previously, Charles Evers, NAACP field director for Mississippi since 1963, had requested, and had been granted, a leave of absence to enter the race for the vacancy created by the election of the incumbent John Bell Williams as governor of the state.

In response to Mr. Evers' request, Mr. Wilkins granted "leave without salary until conclusion of the campaign" and wished him "good luck in this effort in behalf of the citizens of Mississippi." Following receipt of this telegram, Mr. Evers announced his candidacy here on Jan. 25.

The NAACP field director was the unanimous choice of Negro leaders in the state's Third Congressional District. He will be opposed in the race by five white candidates. The special election is scheduled for Feb. 27. If no candidate receives a majority of the votes there will be a run-off election between the top two candidates two weeks later.

The Negro vote in the 12-county district is estimated at 76,000 and the white at 125,000. "I know all the Negroes See EVERS page 8A

NEW YORK—The time for black and white educators to talk together about the problems of big-city schools is over. Perhaps what was the final curtain crashed down on the dialogue last month at a conference of 70 leading educators at Harvard University, when some 25 Negro participants denounced the "racist talk" of white speakers and exited to their own private caucus during the rest of the conference.

The Negro educators drew up a document declaring that white society "is bent on genocide of all black people." The caucus also said it was determined to "battle with whatever weapons... to wrest control... from the hands of those in power." The dissident black educators outlined the framework for a national organization to gain absolute community control of black schools, and they rejected educational subsystems as being "irrelevant."

UNCF Receives Record Sum During 1967

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The United Negro College Fund today announced that it received the record sum of $4,629,731 during 1967.

Dr. Stephen J. Wright, president of the Fund, reported that total income obtained during the campaign year represented a gain of more than $600,000 over 1966 and the largest annual increase in the Fund's 24-year history.

The increase in campaign income will go largely to help meet skyrocketing educational costs, and to help educate the larger number of Negro youth enrolled this year in the Fund's member colleges.

One of the most significant aspects of the campaign, Dr. Wright observed, was the fact that the Fund's appeal achieved record level in several large communities where riots occurred during 1967. "It appears that a great many individuals quickly responded to the Fund's appeal."
