NAACP Urges Investigation of Miss. Bombing

NEW YORK — G. B. Current, national director of branches and field administration for the NAACP, has sent a telegram to Attorney General Ramsey Clark asking an investigation of a bombing in Hattiesburg, Miss.

The bomb had been planted in a 1962 Corvair owned by Kaley Duckworth who is a member of the NAACP and director of a Project Head Start Center. Mr. Duckworth was taken to Forest General Hospital in Hattiesburg with a fractured jaw and finger. There had been no known threats against him although there had been numerous threats against the NAACP. Also injured by the blast was Mrs. Lillie M. Hullum who was in the car with Mr. Duckworth.

In his telegram, Mr. Current said, "We hope Justice Department will investigate thoroughly all extremists in local community, who could possibly be connected with this dastardly act." Further, Mr. Current requested that "full protection be granted to Dr. C. E. Smith (NAACP branch president) and family as well as other members of the NAACP who are being harassed by unknown persons who disagree with this organization's projections and activities."

Dr. Smith said Mr. Duckworth had served as a guard at his home and at churches used for civil rights activities. The blast from the bomb splintered the steering column and broke the windshield of Mr. Duckworth's car. He had won it just a few days before at a benefit raffle for a high school band.
