Vets Questions and Answers

Q—I recently got out of a Veterans Administration hospital after being confined there more than a month for treatment for a disability not related to my military service. Is it true that I am entitled to payment from VA for this period since I was hospitalized for more than 21 consecutive days?

A—If, as your letter indicates, you were hospitalized and treated by VA for a non-service-connected disability, you are not eligible for the compensation that is paid for the temporary 100 per cent rating given by VA to all veterans hospitalized more than 21 consecutive days for treatment of a service-connected disability.

Q—I had active military service from May to December 1955 and came out without a scratch. However, I am now disabled as a result of an accident. Am I entitled to a pension?

A.—Not according to the facts stated. One of the requirements for a non-service-connected pension is that the veteran have at least 90 days of continuous active duty, any part of it during a wartime period, or be separated from wartime service for a disability incurred in service in the line of duty. Your period of service was not during wartime, so you are not eligible for a non-service-connected pension under existing law.

Q.—Last summer a buddy of mine, who served in Vietnam, was discharged and applied for G.I. Bill apprenticeship training. He was told that there was no apprenticeship program. I'll soon be getting out of service and have been told that I can enter apprenticeship training and receive G.I. Bill benefits. What's the story? A.—The story is that both your buddy and you are eligible for G.I. Bill education and training benefits, including apprenticeship training. What undoubtedly happened is that your friend applied for apprenticeship training benefits before the new law authorizing this type of training was signed by the President last August 31. Since Oct. 1, 1967, when the new or expanded education and training benefits provided by this law went into effect, apprenticeship training has been authorized for veterans who served after Jan. 31, 1955. Your buddy may be already aware of this fact. If he isn't, however, tell him to get in touch with his nearest VA office and reapply for apprenticeship training approval and benefits from VA.

WSSC Retires 2 of Faculty And Fireman

WINSTON-SALEM — Two faculty members and a boiler room fireman were honored recently by the faculty and staff of Winston-Salem State College during an evening of Retrospective Reveries.

Honored at the dinner meeting were John F. Lewis who has served for 21 years at the college as professor of education and William Click, a boiler room fireman for 15 years. Both men will retire at the end of the current school year. Tribute was paid also to Clarence E. (Bighouse) Gaines, basketball coach, who was inducted into the Helms Foundation Hall of Fame during the year.

Mrs. Ruth M. Greene who served as chairman of the committee which planned the affair made introductory remarks and presented the toastmaster, Rev. Henry S. Lewis, college chaplain.

Dr. Joseph N. Patterson, professor of education, spoke on behalf of Mr. Lewis and T. J. Duncan, college engineer, spoke on behalf of Mr. Click. Dean Lafayette Parker and Lewis Turner, president of the student body, paid tribute to Coach Gaines.

Dr. C. B. Hauser, chairman of the department of education and psychology, presented a plaque to Mr. Lewis on behalf of the faculty and staff

Hedgepeth, Barbara Holman, Evelyn Mack, Brenda Parker, Stanley Parker, Betty Richmond, Sandra Roberts, Esther Shelton, Cunthia Stanfield, and Mae Tabron.

After the installation, the group received an inspiring address by Father E. N. Porter of St. Titus Episcopal Church, Durham.

Five sophomores were named as probationary members. They were Rita Edwards, Dovie Glenn, Sylvia Glenn, Betty Holman, and Brenda Jones.

What Makes the Piedmont Great

Daring Dacey Langston

In the Revolutionary War, South Carolina was a trouble spot for the British and Tories. And one of the biggest troublemakers was Dacey Langston of the Laurens and Greenville areas. Dacey spent the entire revolution harassing the enemy and providing valuable information to the Patriots.

Once, when a group of ruthless Tories called the Bloody Scout was planning to attack the village of her brother and friends, she set out to warn them.

It was dark when she left. And the longer she travelled, the darker it seemed to get. The road ahead was barely discernible. And the creeks and swamps held unseen dangers. But her greatest threat came at the Tyger River.

Swollen by rain, it was wide and deep. Difficult to cross in daylight. Almost impossible in darkness. But Dacey Langston was not to be denied. She waded in. The water swirled up to her neck, and almost covered her.

But she made it. The villagers received the warning in time and made their escape.

That incident should have been enough excitement for her. But it wasn't.

Another time, when the Bloody Scout was about to kill her father, Dacey sprang in front of a soldier's cocked weapon and informed the assailants that they would have to kill her first.

Her courage was too much for the enemy. Cold-blooded as they were, they could not bring themselves to shoot. So they left.

Dacey's courageous spirit was not reserved entirely for the enemy. Once, a group of Whigs came to her cabin to pick up a gun left for them by her brother. Before giving them the gun, she asked for the password. "It's too late for that," said one. "Do you think so?" she replied, casually cocking the gun and aiming it at the speaker's head. The Whig quickly gave the password. And, as the tension eased, the entire group congratulated Dacey on her courageous stand.

The determination and loyalty of Dacey Langston helped make this area great. And it is in that spirit that Duke Power is working for an even greater Piedmont.

Working for the Piedmont in the spirit that made it great.
