Belafonte To Be Cited By Catholics

CHICAGO — A special award "for continuing commitment to the cause of interracial justice and brotherhood" will be presented to Harry Belafonte by the Catholic Interracial Council on Friday, Aug. 23.

The award presentation will be made at a late-evening reception at the Pick-Congress Hotel following a CIC Benefit, "An Evening with Belafonte," at the Auditorium Theater. All CIC benefit ticket-holders are invited to attend the special reception.

THE AWARD, which includes a quotation from the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., will be presented to Mr. Belafonte by Paul Q. Twine, Sr., CIC President, and the benefit co-chairmen, Bill Lowry (of WBBM-TV's "Opportunity Line") and Barbara O'Connor.

"Mr. Belafonte has never let his show business success divert him from a real concern for racial justice and the problems of his less fortunate brothers," said John A. McDermott, CIC Executive Director, in commenting on the announcement of the award.

THE AWARD was designed by Chicago-area artist Ann Grill, a member of the Catholic Interracial Council.

The Catholic Interracial Council is an independent lay

Latino human relations organization, seeking to promote racial justice and brotherhood in the metropolitan Chicago area since its founding in 1946. Its services and membership are open to all.

Carl Fuller Stars' Signee

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Stars of the American Basketball Association announced they had signed a pair of second round draft choices.

The signing of Ed Leggett, 6-3, from Rocky Mountain College, and Carl Fuller, 6-9 from Bethune-Cookman College, meant that seven of the team's first nine draft choices have inked pacts with the club.

Fuller, a native of St. Augustine, Fla., was an All-Conference selection in each of his three varsity seasons and set a school rebounding record with 579 in his sophomore year.

Leggett, who hails from St. Petersburg, Fla., averaged 25.8 points per game last season and was named to the NAIA honorable mention basketball team.
