Industrial Economist Blasts Present Economy of America

GREENVILLE, S. C. — An industrial economist declared here today that you can't have international free trade along with full employment, a high minimum wage, and galloping inflation in an economy undertaking the expense of training millions of unskilled workers.

Speaking to an audience of about 200 at an American Textile Manufacturers Institution cotton situation seminar, Louis A. Babbitt, manager of economic and market analysis for Eastman Chemical Products, Inc., Kingsport, Tenn., said that inflation, imports, and full employment are all parts of the same basic problem.

"Inflation increases imports and reduces exports," he said, "so it greatly affects our international balance of payments... For this country imports rise fastest in products with a high labor content, so a rise in imports intensifies our urban problem."

He said that under the administration's present free trade policy, the U. S. is exporting highly technical products like jet aircraft and importing products with high labor content "at the cost of jobs for those least able to make the sacrifice."

Inflation, he said, has increased our international trade deficit because it has raised the prices of goods which could be exported and made the prices of foreign goods more attractive here. The U. S. share of world exports dropped in eight years from 18.2 to 16.5 per cent while its share of imports rose from 13.7 to 15.9 per cent.

"Realistically," he said, "our trade policy must be tied with our international balance of payments - and to the fact of that balance, not to some idealistic theory... A seven per cent increase in exports arrayed against a 22 per cent increase in imports has now brought our trade balance down from $1-billion a quarter to $13-million, a drop of 98.7 per cent... Does our total

New Foundation For Negro Affairs Holds Philly Meet

Black Leaders Throughout Nation Attend

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Black leaders throughout the nation met in Philadelphia, Monday Sept. 9, for a week-long Convention at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel, under the auspices of the newly formed American Foundation for Negro Affairs. Delegates from all walks of life were represented at the conclave to embark upon an entirely new approach to solving the overall plight of some 25 million American Negroes.

The huge undertaking to launch the American Foundation for Negro Affairs (AFNA) organization Ten Year Play of total Afro American involvement is being headed by Samuel L. Evans, of Philadelphia, Chairman of the Board of the organization. Virtually every prominent name from all categories of Negro activity will be represented at the blue-ribbon gathering.

According to Evans, "The time has come for the Negro American, whatever his station in life, to state clearly what he thinks or believes his responsibilities are in relieving the plight of Black Americans. With this first meeting of the Convention plans were launched to catalogue American Ne-

Atlanta Dean Says Students To Take Over In The Future

The dean of Atlanta University, Dr. Richard G. Barksdale, this weekend (September 6 & 7) described a future in which students will have the ultimate power in higher education to North Carolina College faculty members in their annual Faculty Institute.

Dr. Albert N. Whiting, president of North Carolina College, said Dr. Barksdale's vision of the future is "frightening."

Dr. Barksdale, who spoke twice during the two-day institute, reminisced of the time when college presidents held such power in their institutions that nothing happened without their knowledge and direction. He described approvingly the shift of power from the president to the faculty, and warned the faculty members that they will have to learn to live with the prospect of student power.

"1968 is a year of Revolution," Dr. Barksdale said. "The thing about revolutions is that revolutionaries are never satisfied, and we'll have to live in that atmosphere."

"The university is now public property. Activists swarm over campus, and they are followed by the TV camera. The TV camera is not interested in 'action.' A faculty member smoking a pipe or reading a book is of no interest, but let a student knock a professor down, or a professor knock a student down, and the

DR. CORDICE

Dr. Cordice, Jr. Victim of Rabid Treatment in NY

NEW YORK — What many have labelled as the rawest deal ever administered a hospital staff member was disclosed here last week when it was learned that Dr. John V. Cordice Jr., chief of thoracic and vascular surgery at Harlem Hospital, had been the victim of highly underhand administrative action on the part of the hospital's administration.

Without giving Dr. Cordice the courtesy of a formal notice that his position as chief of the department of thoracic and vascular surgery was being taken over by others, the administrator, Dr. Houston Merritt of Columbia University P & S is reported to have merely announced that two other physicians were taking over the thoracic and vascular departments.

Dr. Cordice was later told that he could stay on the staff at the hospital if he desired, which he refused. His associates claimed that he was ousted from his position merely because he was not a member of the club.

Dr. Cordice is a native of Durham, North Carolina where his father, the late Dr. J. W. V.
