

NEW COLOR SLIDE THEATER

Everything except cold beer is the way many people describe Sylvania's new Color Slide Theater that presents color television programs, color photography slides, or pre-recorded and home-made tapes on the same instrument.

The Color Slide Theater can be operated as a black and white or color television set; an "all-in-one" slide projection system with the photographs showing on the screen of the TV set, or as a tape recorder and player.

The unique feature of the theater is that the tape recorder and the slide projection system can be synchronized to prepare slide presentations with taped narrations that also change the slides electronically on cue. The slides also can be changed manually with a remote-control switch held by the viewer.

The slide system uses a circular slide tray which can accommodate eighty 2 x 2-inch color or black and white slides. A small cathode ray tube, called a "flying spot scanner," is used to transmit the photograph from the slide to the screen of the TV set.

Focusing of the slide is done automatically by the spot scanner. However, it is possible for a viewer to adjust the color control of a TV set to enhance certain hues in a color slide. He also can increase or decrease the brightness of a slide with the brightness control of the TV set.

An additional feature of the slide projection system is that the slides, like color television, can be viewed comfortably in a lighted room. The unit can be changed from television to slide projection operation by a simple push-pull switch and without rearranging furniture or setting up additional equipment for slide viewing.

A microphone provided with the unit permits users to produce a coordinated slide-tape presentation. To accomplish this, the user describes the slides being shown and then presses a button when he wants the next slide to appear. This "change slide" signal remains on the tape and triggers a slide change during the playback.

The cassette-type cartridge tape recorder contains a record and playback feature; a recording level meter; a microphone, and the control which provides the means to electronically change slides.

The color TV receiver features Sylvania's advanced Color Bright 85" picture tube with a 295-square-inch screen and an automatic fine tuning control for ease of color tuning.

The Color Slide Theater is available in a Traditional style design in butternut veneers and select solids, or in a Contemporary classic style finished in walnut veneers and select solids.

The One-Piece Bathroom

NEW YORK (ED)—In the not-too-distant future, if you want to have another bathroom, you'll be able to sip down to your shopping center and buy one—complete, intact, molded from one piece of plastic. Prefabricated, and pre-wired with all sorts of gadgets, it will be possible to order this room in the morning and have it installed in the afternoon—provided reliability of delivery is better than it is now!

In the future, luxury features will be standard items. Proximity faucets will turn themselves on as your hand approaches and shut off when you withdraw. The tub will be contoured with a head and foot rest, and after you leave it, little electronic brushes will take care of the inevitable rings and things.

The shower will be an experience. One's trusty little computer attachment, you'll be able to dial-a-shower and have it programmed just to your taste—so many minutes of warm water, a few jets of sauna steam, a nee-dly spray to wake up the circulation, while all the time strategic little jets are squirting scented soap on you. Warm blowers will take the place of the bath towel and you'll step out of your shower delightfully fresh and dry.

Cleaning the bathroom of the future will be a breeze. You'll simply seal it, push a cleaning button and hidden jets will hose the whole plastic room down and then start the warm air circulating to dry it off. Until this super-sonic bathroom is available, today's homemaker still has to cope with cleaning her current one, and many women have discovered that Handi Wipes, the all-purpose reusable cloth is a perfect cleaning tool for bathrooms. The soft yet sturdy cloth quickly cleans tubs and sinks and is very effective for washing and shining up bathroom tiles. A rapid rinse out and it's ready to tackle another job like polish the medicine cabinet mirror.

When the self-cleaning, one-piece, molded bathrooms become a real saleable item in the future, you'll be able to surprise your husband by saying: "Darling, I bought the cutest pair of bathrooms today!"

Ocean waves are caused mainly by the wind, although submarine earthquakes, volcanic eruptions and tides are contributing factors.

Unicef to Sponsor 'Trick or Treat' Program of Spooks

Halloween will bring ghosts and goblins knocking at the doors of Durham with scares and bags for treats. But among the annual spooks this October 31 will be some representing a special cause—UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund. Under the auspices of the League of Women Voters of Durham, local sponsors for the campaign, these Trick or Treaters will be seeking pennies, nickels and dimes for the UNICEF cause.

"There are 900 million children in the developing countries living in the shadow of hunger, disease and ignorance," said Mrs. Robert Tate, chairman of the project for the League. "During its twenty-one years UNICEF has fostered the vaccination of 225 million young persons against tuberculosis, and since 1961 it has helped equip over 9,000 schools and teachers training institutions, among many other projects."

The Nobel Peace Prize-winning Fund operates on an annual budget totaling less than what is spent on world armament in two hours of any day. Its money comes entirely from voluntary contributions from governments and individuals.

UNICEF Trick or Treaters will be identified by their official collection box: an orange and black container with a small symbol of a mother and child. "Only children carrying this carton will be authorized to collect for UNICEF," Mrs. Tate pointed out.

Children or groups interested in participating in the program this year should contact

Mrs. Tate at 2311 Prince Street so that she can provide adequate materials for all. Among those participating will be The Jack and Jill Club, Duches of Utopia, Baptist Junior Missionaries, St Titus Episcopal Church and Pearson Town School.

Official collection cartons will be distributed from Mrs. Tate's home on Friday, October 25, until 8:00 p.m. The Fellowship Hall of the Education Building of Duke Memorial Methodist Church will be the collection center on Halloween.

How can I get someone to help pay my taxes?

Build a jet age airport that can attract new business and industry that will bring new jobs, new payrolls, new taxpayers. A good example: The annual county taxes of just one new industry in the Raleigh-Durham area are enough to pay that county's yearly cost of the proposed Airport Bond Issue!

If you're looking for someone to help shoulder your tax burdens, vote FOR the Airport Bonds on November 5th. There's no better way to bring new taxpayers to the Raleigh-Durham area.
