John T. Holloway Joins General Business Service as Assoc. Dir.

WASHINGTON—Those professional management services that have been saving large corporations thousands of dollars each year have at last found their way down to the man who runs the little shop on

HOLLOWAY

Main Street USA.

General Business Services, Inc., a national consulting firm which specializes in helping small business and professional people, has appointed John T. Holloway as Associate Director for Durham and Durham County.

Based on the established fact that success in any business is dependent upon how the owners keep their records, one of the services provided by GBS is a unique record system that eliminates most of the drudgery traditionally required.

Additionally, the small business owner who subscribes to GBS will have access to a top-flight tax staff for consultation, guidance, and preparation of business and personal income tax returns. Holloway claims that since GBS keeps tabs on the thousands of new tax rulings passed each year, it is often possible to effect tax savings which the average businessman would have no way of knowing about.

It has been reliably estimated, Holloway said, that seven out of ten tax returns filed are overpaid because the taxpayer doesn't know the maximum benefits and deductions he is entitled to take under current tax laws. GBS says it is striving to cut down on these business fatalities by providing proper management records.

Holloway, a native of Durham, is 36 years old. He attended Mill Grove High School (now Merrick - Moore High School); he went into military service November 1951 and was honorably discharged in June 1955. He is an Accountant, having graduated from Durham Business College. He is married to the former Linn Elmore, also a native of Durham. They have three children. The Holloways reside at 205 East Geer Street, which is also the business address. Before entering his own business, Holloway was a machinist at Wright Machinery Company, Durham.

SCOUTS VISIT GOVERNOR—These Boy Scouts presented petitions to Governor Scott here Thursday from persons pledging to fight litter bugs in their four-county Tuscumora Council area, and also told him of the scouts' plans to clean up roadways in

Scouts Set Sights on Litter Bugs

Boy Scouts of the four-county Tuscumora Council will conduct a giant cleanup campaign along the highways of the four counties Saturday.

Governor Scott received eight of the scouts in his office Thursday and gave his blessing to the campaign to clear litter from the highways.

The eight scouts presented the Governor with some 15,000 signatures from citizens who pledged to help keep the highways clean.

There was a tragic note to the presentation of the signatures. The Governor saw that one of them was by 13-year-old Jackie Stone of Wallace, who was kidnapped while on the way home from school last Tuesday.

She was murdered and her body was found Wednesday. She had signed the cleanup pledge a short time before she left school Tuesday. "That may have been the last time she ever signed her name," Governor Scott said.

5,000 Scouts

Dick Auger of Goldsboro, scout executive of the Tuscumora Council, said that 200 troops with a total of about 5,000 scouts would participate in the cleanup campaign in Wayne, Johnston, Sampson and Duplin counties. "Each troop will clean up a mile or more of highway," said Auger.

After being collected, the trash will be piled up at various points where signs will indicate the project. The trash piles will then be collected and disposed of by the State Highway Department, Auger said.

The cleanup campaign is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. and some of the principal highways where the scouts will work will be U. S. 70 in the Goldsboro area, U. S. 117 also in the Goldsboro area, and old U. S. 301 south of Smithfield.

The boys will work through much of the afternoon, Auger said.

IRS Director Urges Prompt Returns Filing

GREENSBORO—IRS Director J. E. Wall issued a request today for taxpayers who have not yet filed their 1968 tax returns to file them as soon as possible.

"In the past," Wall said, "40% of taxpayers have waited until the last two weeks to file their returns. This causes a real log-jam at our Service Center where as many as 150,000 returns are received each day from those who wait until the last few days to send in their returns."

Wall also said that error-rate skyrocketed in the returns filed during the last few days. "Those who rush to file their returns at the last minute make many more errors than those who file early and give themselves plenty of time to check and double-check their returns for accuracy," he said.

Wall said that he was hopeful that all North Carolinians would complete their tax filing chores before April 1 this year.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S COLLEGE ALL "A" STUDENTS—Misses Nydia Malone, a freshman biology major from Philadelphia, Pa., and Lillian Burrus, a senior English major from Fairfield, are caught in a familiar role as students. They earned all "A" grades during the first semester at Saint Augustine's College.

Miss Malone hopes to do laboratory work in graduate school, and Miss Burrus would like to teach in New York.

Two NYC Trainees Nominated To Annapolis and West Point

Two North Carolina high school seniors, who gained work experience under the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) program, have been nominated for appointment to U. S. service academies.

William Daniel Rose, Jr., 17, of Smithfield, and George Ira Stancil III, 18, of Kenly, were nominated from North Carolina's Third Electoral District by Congressman David N. Henderson. Both have worked as school maintenance aides and preparation of the school plant for the fall term. Summer wages of $1.20 an hour provided clothing and spending money during the school year.

Stancil is a senior at North Johnston High School, Kenly, N. C. and Rose is in his senior year at Princeton High School, Princeton, N. C.

The young men are from low-income families. They have earned money for their education as participants in the NYC in-school program operating in Johnston County, N. C.

Rose has worked as a part-time school maintenance aide since September, 1967. Since the death of his father, a farmer, two years ago, Rose has used his $1.30 per hour wages to help support his mother and meet school expenses.

Stancil is the son of a retired Navy chief. He enrolled in the Youth Corp's 10-week summer program in 1968 and assisted in general maintenance and preparation of the school plant for the fall term. Summer wages of $1.20 an hour provided clothing and spending money during the school year.

Stancil is a senior at North Johnston High School, Kenly, N. C. and Rose is in his senior year at Princeton High School, Princeton, N. C.

Sirhan's Story Called 'Absurd' But True by Last Defense Witness

LOS ANGELES —The defense rested its case Thursday at the trial of Sirhan B. Sirhan, now in its 12th week, after calling 29 witnesses in an attempt to save the 25-year-old Arab from the gas chamber for the slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The trial, which started Jan. 7, is expected to go to the jury next week after closing arguments. The final defense witness, called at the afternoon session, was Dr. George deVoss, a psychologist from the University of California at Berkeley.

During the morning session, Dr. Bernard Diamond, a psychiatrist from UCB, wound up his testimony by describing the story that Sirhan wandered into the Ambassador Hotel in a self-induced trance as "absurd and preposterous" but nevertheless true.

"To me, this is a script which would never be acceptable in a Class B movie but yet these are the classical psychiatric findings," he said.

At another point, Diamond, a lawyer as well as a psychiatrist, said: "Sirhan lacks the mental capacity required by the legal definition of the crime of murder."

Another morning witness, Dr. Georgene E. Seward, University of Southern California psychologist, backed the findings of two earlier witnesses, stating that Sirhan showed "a clear case of schizophrenic reaction of the paranoid type."

Dr. Seward reviewed mental and personality tests made on Sirhan by two other psychologists, Drs. Martin Schorr and Roderick Richardson.

Associate prosecutor John Howard drew from the witness an admission that Sirhan's reactions to some tests were normal. She said, however, that the finding of mental illness was based on not just one but on at least five tests.

In discussing Sirhan's reaction to a picture test—called the Thematic Apperception test—she said his response may have indicated "latent homosexuality" since he was confused about the sex of one of the figures shown.

Health Director Livingstone Col. Named to Task Force No. One

SALISBURY—Mrs. Lois H. Reeves, director of health services at Livingstone College, has been appointed to Task Force 1 of the American College Health Association, according to an announcement this week from James W. Dilley, executive secretary of the association in Evanston, Ill.

Mrs. Reeves will be working with one of eight task forces being formed to present position papers to the Fifth National Conference on Health in College Communities set for the spring of 1970 in Boston, Mass. The task forces will be concerned with giving detailed attention to eight important segments of a comprehensive health program for an academic community.

The Livingstone health director has been appointed to the task force on Program Development and Planning and is scheduled to meet with the steering committee of ACHA on April 20 at the Sheraton-Oklahoma Hotel, Oklahoma City, Okla. The annual meeting of ACHA is set for April 22-25 at the same site.

Mrs. Reeves will be concerned with reviewing and commenting upon statements and other work of the task force and will be expected to suggest additional areas for exploration. Dr. Leona B. Yeager will serve as chairman of the task force.

A graduate of Hampton Institute School of Nursing with an RN degree, Mrs. Reeves received the B. S. degree in Public Health Nursing from Simmons College, Boston, Mass. She has engaged in summer studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Forces Still at Work Attempting To Solve President JFK Murder

Millions of persons in the United States have never been satisfied with official explanations of the murder of President John F. Kennedy, and there are forces at work right now attempting to solve the murder.

In its April issue, SEPIA magazine quotes an Indianapolis astrologer as saying Mrs. Jackie Kennedy will "solve" the case—and sometime this year. The astrologer points out that this is one of the reasons Jackie consented to marry Aristotle Onassis—to gain a podium and financial power from which to carry on her investigation of her husband's murder.

Also, the magazine features a story on the newest racist threat to the world, an Englishman named Enoch Powell. Racism is catching on like wildfire on the tight little Isle of Britain as thousands of immigrants flock into the country every year. Powell's political appeal is such that his ravings about black interlopers" gained him up to 90 per cent of support of his white constituency.

This man Powell is obviously a dangerous man, for it's demagoguery like this that sways men's minds, much as George Wallace has done in the United States.

Barber-Scotia's Second Little All-American

CONCORD—Louis Jefferies, a 6' 5" senior from Salisbury, North Carolina, has been chosen to the third team of the National Little College All-Americans. Captain of the Sabers, Jefferies finished the season with a 20 point scoring average and an average of fifteen rebounds a game. Not only was he elected as an All-American, but also to the All Tournament team during the EIAC Tournament, which was held at Barber-Scotia College this year. In this tournament, he performed amazingly, with a 20 point average and 18 rebounds per game. The students at Barber-Scotia College would like to congratulate Louis Jefferies on a very fine season.

Iry Herbert and Willie Ragesdale are not Little All-Americans but they, too, received awards. Iry Herbert, originally from Pompano Beach, Florida, was chosen to the EIAC All-Tournament Team. Not an All-American, not elected to the All-Tournament team, but just as happy is Willie Ragesdale, a sophomore from Rock Hill, South Carolina, received the sportsmanship trophy. Ragesdale, noted for his unusual quietness and expressionless gestures on the court, won this trophy for a man in the eyes of all involved in such a tournament that is played.

Willie Ragesdale and Iry Herbert, the students of Barber-Scotia would like to congratulate you, too. Coach Coefield also has something other than the championship to be proud of, for he was appointed Coach of the Year for the second year in a row. Coefield was very happy and surprised when he received the honor as Coach of the Year, primarily because the Championship came as a surprise. But he is very happy, and we, the students of Barber-Scotia, are also very happy for him.

Dahmer Slayer Suspects Face Trial April 28

HATTIESBURG, Miss.—U. S. District Judge Dan Russell has set April 28 as the date for the trial of former Ku Klux Klan chieftain Samuel H. Bowers, Jr., and 15 other men on Federal conspiracy charges in the 1966 firebomb slaying of Vernon Dahmer, NAACP civil 1966 firebomb slaying of

Under the 1965 Voting Rights Act, the 16 defendants, most of whom were identified by the FBI as past or present Klansmen, were indicted in March, 1966, for allegedly conspiring to violate Dahmer's civil rights because of his activities in aiding Negroes to vote.

Three of the defendants have been convicted of murder in circuit court and sentenced to life imprisonment. Another was given a 10-year sentence following an arson conviction in the state courts.

Hounshell Gets NSTA Post

CHAPEL HILL — Paul B. Hounshell, director of the National Science Foundation Institute in Science and assistant professor at the University of North Carolina here, has been elected to a one-year term as a district director in the National Science Teachers Association.
