

ANOTHER SIFFORD — The Swing may not be the same, but the name has a familiar ring—Miss Eddie Sifford, a

Bennett College junior from Charlotte, shows off her form with a hefty practice swing. She is the cousin to Charlie

Sifford, winner of the Los Angeles Open golf tournament and one of the PGA's leading money winners on the pro golf circuit.

Vets Questions and Answers

Q — I enrolled in college this spring under the G. I. Bill and intend to re-enter the same school and take the same course of study this fall. Must I tell the Veterans Administration about my fall enrollment plans?

A — Before the end of your present enrollment period you will receive a certification of attendance card from the VA.

The primary purpose of this card is to confirm the training for which you have been paid an educational assistance allowance.

However, the card also has a section relating to re-enrollment plans. By completing this section you will help VA anticipate your future educational assistance allowance needs.

Q — What are the maximum charges allowed by the Veterans Administration on a G. I. loan?

A — The veteran-borrower is permitted to pay reasonable closing costs customarily paid by borrowers in home mortgage financing. These include fees and a lender's origination fee not to exceed one per cent of the loan amount instead of any other fees for the lender's services.

The initial installments of such recurring expenses as property taxes and hazard insurance must also be paid at the time the loan is closed.

In addition, a veteran separated from service after Jan. 31, 1955, must pay a statutory fee of one-half of one per cent of the loan amount. This is a one-time payment which may be included in the loan amount.

Q — May a veteran receive Social Security retirement credit for military service during World War II?

A — Generally yes — a veteran may receive $160 wage credit for each month of World War II duty if he was released from service under other than dishonorable conditions and had at least 30 days of active service.

However, there are exceptions. The government will not give the veteran double credit. For example, if a veteran's World War II time is counted for military or civil service retirement he cannot also receive Social Security wage credit for the time. Your nearest Social Security office will be glad to answer any questions you may have.

Q — My son will soon be discharged from the Army after two years of service. He received his college education under the War Orphans Education Assistance program. Will he be entitled to any additional education assistance under the G. I. Bill?

A — Yes. A recent law increased the aggregate amount of Veterans may receive under two or more programs from 36 to 48 months. Assuming your son received 36 months of VA benefits under the War Orphans program, he will be entitled to 12 months of additional aid under the G. I. Bill. He should make application for a Certificate of Eligibility from the VA regional office where his veteran records will be on file.

Q — I am a World War II veteran who financed my home with a G. I. loan. I am being transferred to another city by my employer.

By 1970, the number of American women in the 20-29 age bracket will have jumped 40 per cent over 1960, to 15.4 million.

HANDS ACROSS the film are not only a symbolic black and white, but also those of (at right) A. Philip Randolph, noted labor leader, and Theodore W. Kheel, president of the American Foundation on Automation and Employment. They hold an artist's rendering of the award to be presented to the winning films entered in the Job Film Fair, the first international film festival on jobs, training and the ghetto. The festival will be held at the Hotel Americana on May 21 and 22 under the foundation's sponsorship. Over 250 films have been submitted in the competition, including entries from Puerto Rico, Great Britain and Canada. The A. Philip Randolph Award design, with a strip of film running through hands into a symbolic "factory," was executed by Romare Bearden, a Negro artist whose works have recently appeared on the covers of the New York Times Magazine, Time magazine and Fortune magazine.
