Progressive Baptist Convention Pledges To Fight Pres. Nixon

President Is Scored By More Than 4,500 Delegates

MIAMI — The Progressive National Baptist Convention closed today with a rousing vote to fight President Nixon's most recent appointment to the Supreme Court. At its Eight Annual Session meeting at the Barcelona Hotel in Miami Beach, the militant wing of black Baptists pledged to fight confirmation of Judge C. Haynsworth of Greenville, South Carolina, with direct action, if necessary. The resolutions committee detailed the judicial record of the Nixon appointee that revealed "racist tendencies." The progressive convention pledged itself to accept the challenge of the "substance of the Black Manifesto" that has created such an uproar in white church circles in recent months. More than 4,500 delegates, messengers and observers converged on the famous vacation strip along the Atlantic from

Former NCC University Prof Takes Part in Research Program

Mrs. Sandra Wray McAfee, former instructor in mathematics at North Carolina Central University was one of the professors participating in a research program at the Thomas J. Watson Research Center this summer. She worked with Alan H. Weis Computing System, on time sharing systems. Faculty from Hampton Institute, Savannah State College and Southern University worked at the Research Center, participating in a summer faculty program, sponsored by the Research Division. The purpose was to establish a technical liaison between the predominantly Negro Colleges and Universities and the Research Division. The program will permit the faculty members to apply the knowledge of their related disciplines to a laboratory environment as well

Mothers Demonstrate; Welfare Centers Closed

DETROIT — Welfare operations have been shut down "indefinitely" in sprawling Wayne County, which includes Detroit, by officials fed up with "harassment" by welfare mothers demanding more money to clothe their children. Closing of the department of social services headquarters in Detroit and its 17 branch offices has thrown 1,800 employees out of work and suspended service to thousands of families in the Detroit area. AMONG THE services halted is the distribution of food stamps to 14,000 households in the county. However, relief checks to 45,000 persons on welfare rolls will continue to be mailed from Lansing where they are issued by Michigan Department of Social Services. The order to close the wel-

NEW YORK — In a joint press conference here, Sept. 3, NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins and Director for Labor Programs Herbert Hill announced that the Association is launching a series of legal actions aimed at stopping work on Government-financed construction programs unless qualified Negroes are employed on the projects. Possibly the most far-reaching of these actions is aimed at the Charlotte Model Cities program. The agency will be charged with failure to implement requirements which prohibit racial discrimination in all federally-assisted programs. Preparatory to filing a lawsuit, the NAACP and the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc., jointly filed a complaint Wednesday afternoon addressed to George Romney, Secretary of HUD, and Charlotte officials as required by Federal administrative procedures. It serves notice that within 45 days a lawsuit will be filed in the Federal District Court. Hill stated, "It is clear that Nixon Administration has failed in its legal obligations to satisfy the statutory requirements of the Model Cities Act in relation to employment. It is the intention of the NAACP to prevent the continued use of Federal and state funds to directly subsidize racial discrimination in the construction

Omegas Launch Plan To Aid All-Black Town Of Mississippi

Fayette To Be Supported By National Drive

FAYETTE, Miss. — A national college fraternity last week launched a campaign aimed at easing the financial problems facing this small town headed by a black mayor and an all black city council. The Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, with national headquarters at Washington, D. C., and which has more than 300 local chapters with nearly 20,000 members in principal cities across the nation is supporting the effort.

Ellis F. Corbett, associate director of Planning and Development at A&T State University, Greensboro, and national president of the Fraternity, came here on Saturday to present a check for $500 to the City of Fayette. Receiving the check for Fayette was Negro Mayor Charles Evers.

When Evers, brother of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers, was elected mayor of Fayette last July, he found the small community had municipal debts totaling more than $8,000.

The city badly needs money to help pay its public service employees and to provide the basic community facilities. Shortly after taking office last July, Mayor Evers and his five-man, all black City Council, announced a nation-wide appeal for funds.

In making his presentation, Corbett told Evers the Omegas, whose membership totals more than 20,000, consider their gift a challenge to inspire other individuals and organizations to give.

"The Omegas," he said, "hope to conduct a nationwide campaign among their membership to raise funds needed by Fayette for operations during the balance of the calendar year."

The effort is to be conducted by the fraternity's Social Action Committee, headed by Samuel C. Coleman of Newburgh, N. Y.

Hillside High School Girl One Of 75 Chosen for Duke U. Project

Cynthia B. Manuel of Linwood Avenue, Durham, a student at Hillside High School, has been doing research this summer in the chemistry laboratory at Duke University. She is one of 75 high school students chosen to participate in Project Catalyst, a unique nationwide program sponsored by the American Chemical Society to help motivate young people from disadvantaged families.

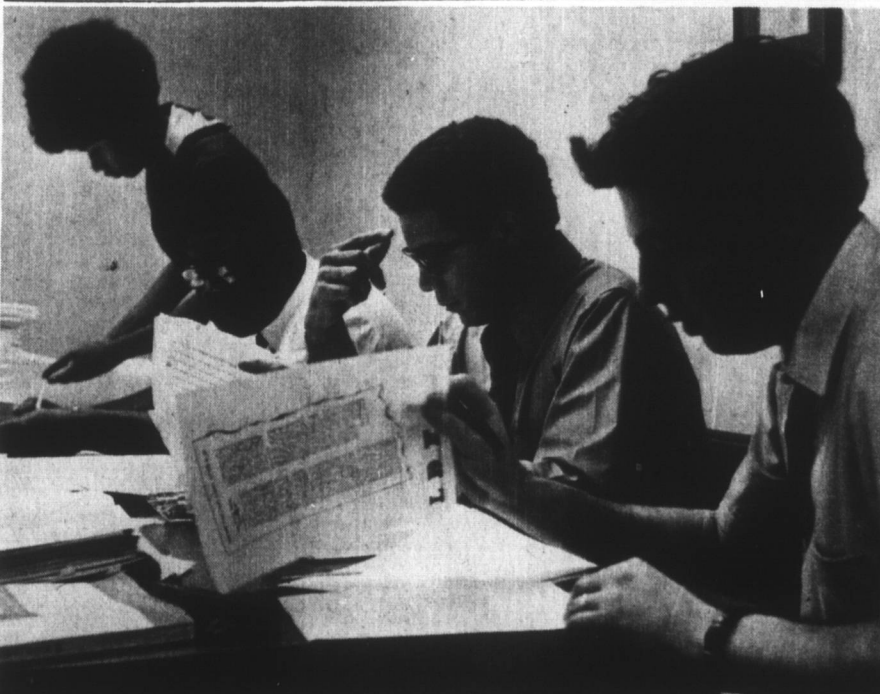

Miss Manuel has worked with Professor Louis D. Quin of the university's chemistry faculty on a research project to study chromatography.

Project Catalyst was conceived by the Chemical Society to motivate disadvantaged young people and give them the incentive to continue their education. Now in its second summer, Project Catalyst brings promising high school students, principally juniors, into university chemistry research laboratories where they work for two

First Anniversary Of the Women-In-Action Held Mon.

The Washington Duke Ballroom of the Durham Hotel and Motel was the setting here Monday night for the First Anniversary Dinner of the Women In Action for the Prevention of Violence and its Causes.

With Dr. Rose Butler Browne presiding, the session got underway at 7:00 p.m. with the invocation by the Reverend Howard C. Wilkinson, chaplain of Duke University. The welcome address was by Mrs. E. C. Thompson, vice president, followed by Honorable R. Wense Grabarek, mayor of the city.

Following a most delectable dinner, served to over 300 persons, the History of the Organization was brought by Mrs. John Wilson, secretary.

Speaker for the evening was Mrs. Mattie Rice Coney, Executive Director, Citizens Forum of that city.

The address delivered by Mrs. Coney was acclaimed by an overwhelming majority who heard her as most dynamic and penetrating. The speaker warned the Women In Action group not to spread themselves too thin but to direct their attack at one problem at a time. "If you try to do too much all at once you're going to get killed in the action," she warned.

"You can't solve problems of the present by living in the past." She urged most emphatically that those present quit so much talk and so many discussions and "get out and get to work." She emphasized that problems of the future cannot be solved by living in the past.

The speaker directed her address at both the militants and the conservatives. To the latter she advised, "Don't tear it down, build it up. See what you can do to make your city a better place."

At the close of the address presentations were made by Mrs. James B. Wyngaarden, co-chairman of the Sub-Com-

Miss Gwendolyn Bowick, Pittsburgh, Pa., was chosen to head the Youth Department and Aaron Boykin, Portsmouth, Va., received the honor of leading the Layman's League. Mrs. T. H. Slater, Philadelphia, Pa., will supervise the Youth Division assisted by Mrs. C. E. Griffin of Norfolk, Va.

Black Manifesto President Wilson, in his second annual address, praised the Black Manifesto, recently read by Mr. Forman at Riverside Church and suggested that the same should be read in Black churches as well.

New U. N. President to be, Miss Angie Brooks, U. N. delegate from Liberia, to the United Nations paid a surprise visit to the convention on Friday morning and expressed her appreciation to the convention for the assistance that they have given her.

Ninety-two churches gave over $1,000.00 to the organization to balance out a total of $294,017.29 for the fiscal year from all sources, which is the largest amount in Lott Carey's history.

Dr. W. C. Somerville, Executive Secretary, of Washington, D. C., in his annual report, stated that 75% of all funds raised was sent to the mission field and appealing for a return to the teachings of Jesus as an answer to world crisis.
