The Rich Also Need Social Work

DENVER, Colo. — Medical social work should not be limited to the poor. Well-to-do patients and doctors need it too, according to Dr. W. Grayburn Davis of the Denver Clinic — the affluent because they can be emotionally prostrated by a serious illness as anyone else and doctors because competent social work can relieve them of much of the burden of helping patients and their families to adjust to new, troubling situations.

"FACED FOR the first time in his life by a life-threatening or mutilating illness, even a highly successful and heretofore brilliantly self-directed individual can urgently need help beyond the medical care provided by his physician," Dr. Davis pointed out.

Cataracts, the clouding of the lens within the eye, account for about 18 per cent of all blindness.
