Racism Being Taught in Public Schools Charges Ala. NAACP

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE—The Alabama Field Director of the NAACP has charged that "racism and subversiveness" are being taught in the States' public schools.

In a letter to HEW Secretary Robert M. Finch and Jerris Leonard of the U. S. Justice Department, Rev. K. L. Buford said, "the public schools of Alabama are being used as an instrument to perpetuate ideologies and concepts which not only dehumanize Negroes, but glorifies the Ku Klux Klan."

Rev. Buford asked Secretary Finch and Leonard to do everything possible to eliminate the use of the textbook

"Know Alabama" and other similar textbooks approved by the State Textbook Commission.

"Know Alabama" is a 4th grade history book which Rev. Buford claims "glorifies the KKK and depicts Negroes as being inferior."

Buford also attacked the singing of "Dixie" and flying of the rebel flag at school functions. "This matter was supposedly settled on the banks of the Appamattox in 1865," he pointed out. Buford said the singing of "Dixie" and flying of the rebel flag was not only "unpatriotic," service to the South's heroes of yesteryear.

"Silent Majority Must Become Vocal" Says PTA President

CHICAGO, Ill.—"Since the mass media continues to insist that they give the public what it wants," said National PTA president, Mrs. Leon S. Price, Friday night in Dallas, Texas, "then we must urge our 10 million members to leave that 'vast silent majority' and express their opinions about specific media offerings."

Mrs. Price said that the National PTA wants its members to express their opinions to publishers, producers, sponsors, distributors, and theater and television station managers.

"We want our members to let the decision-makers know what they think about specific media offerings," she explained, "and their reasons for either commending them or finding them objectionable." Mrs. Price explained that the PTA is not a censor of books, magazines, films, plays, radio, or television. The organization does not presume to dictate what adults may read, see, or hear; and she went on to say that it respects the right of every person in every group to choose their own intellectual and entertainment fare.

"Obscenity, however, is not protected by the constitutional guarantees of freedom of (See MAJORITY page 2A)

Court Injunction Restrains Further Student Hostilities

North Carolina Central University President Albert N. Whiting answered sixteen demands of the university's boycotting students on Monday, February 9, and at the same time asked and received a restraining order against student leaders.

President Whiting's reply to the student demands included agreement with four demands in their entirety, partial acceptance of others, promises to consider others, and denial of two demands as contrary to law.

A student boycott, proclaimed in a paper bearing the initials of the Student Government Association, had existed since Thursday, February 5. Not all students had participated in the boycott, and Dr. Whiting cited disruptions of classes in his reply to the demands. He warned that further disruptions, and verbal or physical abuse of instructors, would result in immediate punitive action.

The restraining order, served on 20 students by name, affects the entire student body and non-students. The 20 students named were reportedly not all involved in the boycott, or the marches which accompanied the boycott. They were named as leaders of student organizations, and included officers of the SGA, campus (See NCCU page 2A)

Minority Group Pre-Law Confab is Slated for Capitol

WASHINGTON—Can minority-group students get into law school? Are scholarships available? What opportunities are open to the minority-group lawyer once he graduated? How can law be used most effectively to bring about social change?

These and other questions will be explored on Saturday, February 28, at a pre-law conference for black and other minority-group college students and recent college graduates, to be held at The Catholic University of America Law School in Washington, D. C.

Scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. and run through the afternoon, the conference is being sponsored by approximately twenty law schools, acting in conjunction with the Black American Law Students Association, the Council on Legal Education Opportunity, the Law School Admissions Test Council, as well as bar associations and law firms.

The sponsoring schools have assembled panels of young minority-group attorneys, law students, and law professors to discuss opportunities for minority-group students to attend law school and the legal careers available after graduation. A free exchange of dialogue between students guests and panel participants will be encouraged.

Admissions deans, professors, and students from the sponsoring schools will also be on hand for consultation about admission standards, financial aid, and law school study.
