Area Girls In Race for "Miss Jabberwock"

The Durham Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., will present its annual seasonal event, the "Delta Jabberwock", Friday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. in Hillside High School, auditorium. Tickets are being sold by "Miss Jabberwock" contestants.

Plans for the event call for the participation of one hundred girls from high schools in Durham, Hillsborough, and Roxboro compete for the title of "Miss Jabberwock".

Included in the evening's festivities will be an appearance by the famed Ligon Jubilee Singers of Ligon High School, Raleigh who will render its production, "Black Music in Historical Perspective." The group is under the direction of Mrs. Ann Jones.

The Jabberwock, and entertainment event, is sponsored annually by the Deltas to support its scholarship fund and public service projects. Since 1962 the local Durham Chapter has contributed over $10,000 in scholarships to more than fifty high school senior girls who have continued their education at some of the major colleges and universities in North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and District of Columbia.

Recipients for the scholarship are chosen on the basis of their scholastic excellence, citizenship, and display of high ideals and finer womanhood. In addition to this assistance to high school girls, the Durham chapter has also made substantial contribution to the community center, John Avery Boys Club, United Organization for Community Improvement March of Dimes, The Golden Agers and other organizations.

These projects have been supported by funds received from the Jabberwock.

Howard University To Open Business School Next Term

Cheek Sees Keener Need For Trained Black Business Men

WASHINGTON — The Board of Trustees and President James E. Cheek announced recently plans to establish a School of Business Administration at Howard University, effective September, 1970.

Dr. Cheek stated that "In view of the importance of the business sector in the American economy, Howard must accept the responsibility of preparing its students to share significantly in the leadership role in this ever expanding field."

Dr. Cheek stated further that the demand for well-trained Black business graduates is keener than ever before and that the opportunities available to them cover a wide spectrum (See HOWARD 2A)

"May The Truth Unbridled Continue Free"—Colonel Mills

COL. MILLS

Colonel Mary Mills of the United States Public Health Service is a remarkable woman in more ways than one. She demonstrated this very well when she spoke during the testimonial dinner recently held in honor of Louis E. Austin, veteran publisher of the Carolina Times.

In her speech, Miss Mills painted a poignant picture of the loathsome situation of black people in this country. She described a vicious cycle of inadequate education that causes black people to have limited opportunities, along with certain inhumane treatments, she called them, that trend to restrain Negroes from ever exerting any dominance.

"We are on the bottom rung of the ladder," she said, "caught up in the poverty cycle marked by unemployment, chronic underemployment, still more than adequate and improper food, poor (See MILLS page 2A)

Nation's Noted Business Leaders To Attend Two-Day Exhibition Highlighting Success

RICHMOND, Va.—Businesses from across the country are set to exhibit their products and services at the First Annual Black is Beautiful Business Expo set for the Richmond Arena, March 29 and 30. The Expo is scheduled to open at 2 P.M. Sunday the 29th with Mayor Phil Begley of Richmond joining in the ribbon cutting ceremonies with Berkeley Burrell, President of the National Business League; Richmond City Councilman, Henry L. Marsh III; State Senator L. Douglas Wilder; Delegate W. Ferguson Reid; Miss Black America, Miss G. O. Smith of Detroit; Miss Glamour of Radford College, Miss Ava Campbell; and several other national, state and local dignitaries.

One unique feature of this year's Expo is a "Wear Your Own Thing" Fashion Show to follow the Ribbon Cutting. Participants will model their own creations.

The B-3 Expo will feature many black owned and operated businesses from the Richmond area, along with national black owned concerns. Several top corporations will have exhibit space and will demonstrate what they have done to upgrade their "Black Market" image. (See EXPO page 2A)

Frank Render, Jr. is Jaycees "Man of Year" at Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Frank W. Render II, son of North Carolina Central University professor Mrs. Sylvia Lyons Render, was named recently as the Syracuse Jaycees' "Outstanding Young Man of Onondaga County" for 1969.

Render, now a senior research fellow at Syracuse University Research Corporation's Policy Institute, is a former executive director of the Syracuse and Onondaga County Human Rights Commission. He was recommended for the Jaycee award by the Very Rev. Msgr. William J. Reilly, S. J., of Lemoyne College, where Render teaches English and journalism.

Jaycees awards chairman James Enus introduced Render as "the man who has endeavored to build bridges across the many rivers of misunderstanding in our community." The Syracuse Post Standard, in commenting editorially upon the award, said it was good news for the entire community, not because Frank Render is the first of his race to achieve this distinction but because he is so eminently qualified for the award."

Racial Separation No Answer Declares Black Fed. Judge

GREENSBORO — The major problems facing this nation during the 1970's will not be solved by racial separation, according to A. Leon Higginbotham, a black Federal District Court Judge from Philadelphia.

"Black consciousness does not mean being anti-white," Higginbotham said. One of the reasons he gave for this statement is that isolation limits one's options. He noted that the only ethnic group that has a separate society is the American Indian, and he said they are five times worse off than the lowest black. (See JUDGE page 2A)

DISCUSSING PROGRAM FOR MAT—Ruby Dee, famed Broadway, television and movie actress, is shown discussing the program format with Dr. Thurman W. Stanback, Director, Tra-Co-Dram, the college dramatic club before her appearance at Bethune-Cookman College. Dr. Stanback served as host during the Fine Arts Festival Week. The final day of the Fine Arts Festival was held last Friday, March 20, highlighting excerpts from Broadway productions and black poets including Leroi Jones, James Weldon Johnson and Langston Hughes. The final day of the Fine Arts Festival was held last Friday, March 20, highlighting excerpts from Broadway

REPUBLICAN MEETING

Black GOP'S Meet To Discuss Party's Present Success And Future Direction

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Thirty-eight Black Elected Republican Officials convened in Washington, D. C., to meet with Rogers C. B. Morton, Republican National Committee Chairman, and Nixon Administration officials about the existing federal programs affecting Black citizens, the future direction of these programs, the involvement of Black leaders in the development of Black programs and to express their deep concern over the failure of the Administration to take positive steps to improve its image among Black voters.

The public officials, who came to Washington at their own expense, spent two full days in conference with officials from the Departments of Agriculture, Justice, Housing and Urban Development, Transportation, Health, Education and Welfare, Labor, the Office of Economic Opportunity, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Bureau of the Budget, United States Civil Service Commission, the House and Senate Minorities Leaders and Special Assistants from the White House.

In attendance were one State Senator, six State representatives (See REPUBLICANS 2A)

Masonic Holy Day Set For Gethsemane

Durham's Consistory 218 will observe Maundy Thursday, March 26 at Gethsemane Baptist Church. Services begin at 7:30 p.m.

Maundy Thursday is a Masonic Holy Day that corresponds roughly with the ancient Jewish Observance of Passover, commemorating the crucifixion of Christ. An explanation of the day from a Masonic bulletin reads: "Maundy is derived from the word mandatum which is the first word chanted at the washing of the feet of the pilgrims on that day. Mandatum means command. The washing of the feet of the pilgrims is of very ancient usage, it was followed by the distribution of doles which were handed to the pilgrims in small baskets then called Maunds. This continued until 1838, those receiving them were known as Maundy men and women."

James A. Carter, commander in Chief, of the local consistory, 218, will preside (See MASONS page 2A)
