UDI Receives $300,000 Check To Help Start Builders Factory

The United Durham, Inc. (UDI) has received a check for $300,000, but president Nilas Thompson says he is more concerned now about some photographs.

The $300,000 will help the UDI start a factory to build modular homes. These are factory-built houses that can be built sturdily and inexpensively, thus helping solve the problem of finding homes for ownership by low-income families.

Thompson says UDI's housing consultant, M. L. Harris, and an industrial engineer, Sam Jones, are at work on designing plant lay-out, locating a site for the enterprise and developing ways to transport the homes to sites throughout North Carolina.

"Yes, it took us a little longer than we expected to get the OEO check," Thompson said, "but our plans for the supermarket are pretty much on schedule."

The UDI president said he is most concerned that Class A (low-income) UDI shareholders get their pictures taken some time during the next two weeks.

"The pictures will be used for identification cards for the supermarket," Thompson (See UDI, page 8A)

DETROIT — Joe Louis fans crowded Cobo Arena 12,000-strong Wednesday night to pay a tribute to the champion, who is "not down, but only on the ropes," according to the count, Billy Eckstine, a longtime friend of Louis.

They paid prices ranging from $5 to $1,000 per seat to make up a total box office of $150,000 for the benefit of the ailing champ, who was temporarily floored recently by an illness which caused his confinement to the Denver, Colo., Veteran Administration Hospital for psychiatric treatment.

Louis himself, was unable to attend the tribute, under advice of his physicians that the trip to Detroit "would not be in his best interests."

Among the luminaries to appear on the program, billed as "A Salute to the Champ," was Bill Cosby, who recalled that Joe Louis was America's "first real black hero."

Other celebrities present at ringside were Bill Russell, former basketball great, and Sugar Ray Robinson, former middleweight champion.
