

'Fatha' Hines to Cut Record For Dropouts

WASHINGTON — Earl "Fatha" Hines, who has thrilled audiences throughout the world since the 20's with his jazz piano, is doing his part to encourage young people to get a good education.

He will be asking young people to stay in school on a recording that he is doing for the Stay-in-School Campaign conducted by the Department of Labor in conjunction with the President's Council on Youth Opportunity.

"Young people are the leaders of tomorrow," Mr. Hines said. "Certainly, education is the only step they can take to put them in a position to be able to handle the problems of the future." Mr. Hines, whose own schooling included study of classical piano, has won many honors as one of the world's foremost jazz pianists. He traveled to Russia in 1967 with his band to do a musical tour for the State Department.

The famous musician visited the Department of Labor recently while performing in the Nation's Capital and met with Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson.

"I have followed your music for years," Secretary Hodgson said, extending a warm welcome to Mr. Hines, who agreed to pitch in and help cut the Nation's school dropout rate.

The goal of the Stay-in-School campaign is to encourage young people to remain in school and get all the education they can.

"Fatha" Hines joins a long list of popular performers who have done recordings for the Stay-in-School Program. They include James Brown, Tony Bennett, Pearl Bailey, Greg Morris, Roger Williams, Dionne Warwick, Johnny Mathis, O.C. Smith and Tom Jones.

A new travel tool kit is so compact it can be slipped into the car glove compartment, along with a warning beacon for road emergencies and burglar alarms for domestic and foreign cars. (Dynamic Classics, Ltd., 230 E. 23rd St., New York, N.Y.).

TIPS ON CAR CARE

Winter's on the Way

From Bangor, Me. to Columbus, Ga. it's that time of year again—time to winterize your car.

Depending on where you live, winterizing can mean anything from a tune-up to the full treatment, including anti-freeze to your cooling system and checking the condition and tread depth of your snow tires.

To avoid a cracked engine block in severe winter weather, B.F. Goodrich car care specialists advise having your car's cooling system backflushed and checked for leaks. Enough anti-freeze should be added for temperature conditions in your area.

Even if you have permanent anti-freeze, you should have the cooling system checked before the first frost to determine the temperature level to which your car is safe. Why? Because a simple loss of pressure, due to a worn radiator cap, could mean the evaporation of coolants and the subsequent replacement with water during the summer months. This dilution makes your anti-freeze less effective.

A tune-up is also a wise move — in both North and South — as winter approaches. Even in Columbus, Ga., the nights can get pretty cold, making it difficult to fire up the family car in the morning.

A good pre-winter tune-up will make your car more responsive on those cold mornings and prevent you from cranking the life out of your battery.

If you live in the snow belt, now is the time to check your snow tires for wear and damage. B.F.G. safety specialists recommend using the same criteria that you apply to your regular tires — less than 1/16 inch thickness of tread rubber means tires should be replaced.

Most states now allow safety studs to be used during the winter months as an aid to braking and accelerating on ice and packed snow. A study by Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory showed that studs used on the rear will reduce stopping distance by approximately 30 per cent at temperatures around freezing.

The same report indicated that stopping distances on glare ice are reduced by nearly 50 per cent when all four wheels have safety studs. Recently B.F. Goodrich began marketing a winter tire suitable for the installation of safety studs and use on all four wheels.

One last bit of advice: if your car is equipped with windshield washers, make sure you add the anti-freeze made for them or you'll find that nothing will happen when you try to clear some of that turnpike film from your windows.

Price Of Pinto Is Set By Ford

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Wednesday its subcompact Pinto will sell for $1,919, over $170 less than the price announced for the Chevrolet Vega Tuesday and only $80 more than the price of the basic 1970 Volkswagen Beetle.

The announcement of a $2,001 suggested retail price for the Vega caught most industry observers off guard, since it had been expected that the car would sell for under $2,000. The price of the Pinto is slightly lower than most experts had predicted.

The 1970 VW, the car the Detroit minicars were primarily created to challenge, sells for $1,899. No pricing information has been released for 1971 VW models.

THE "PINTO"

will sell for $170. less than the price announced for the Chev. Vega as this Associated Press news release read in the Durham Morning Herald Sept. 10, 1970.
