Mrs. Griffin and Dr. Boulware Poll Highest in Council Race

Former N. C. Mutual President, Asa T. Spaulding, the first Negro elected to the Durham County Commission, topped a three-way mayoral race here Saturday in the Durham City primary election. Spaulding polled 4,057 votes to eke past realtor James R. Hawkins by 26 votes. The two were well ahead of the third candidate, Lloyd Jacobs, who has run unsuccessfully in the past three mayoral races, tallying only 250 votes.

Hawkins and Spaulding will pair off in the May 15 general municipal election which will also include races for three city council ward seats and three at large council positions.

Spaulding said following the election, "I think the results of this primary gave ample evidence that there are numerous pools of goodwill in this community anxious to be joined together to form one great lake of goodwill, which could be more beneficial and refreshing to the total community. I believe Durham really wants more unity in the community. I would like to be an instrument for the accomplishment of this as the next mayor."

Although only some 22 per cent of the total number of city registered voters went to the polls Saturday, heaviest turnouts were recorded in predominantly black precincts.

Spaulding ran on a "unity" platform. He is a native of Columbus County, and graduated from New York University School of Commerce and received a master's degree from the University of Michigan. He serves on the City Board of Adjustment and the Mayor's Human Relations Committee. He is married and has four children.

NEW YORK — Atlantic Richfield Company will deposit $1,000,000 in minority-owned or managed commercial or savings banks in cities from coast-to-coast to help provide funding for minority businesses in those areas, Robert O. Anderson, chairman, announced here today.

Approximately $600,000 of the total already has been committed in certificates of deposit or time deposits in 19 institutions in 12 areas where the company has operations or interests, and the remainder will be deposited in the near future, according to Anderson.

Anderson said funds were deposited in amounts ranging from $10,000 to $100,000 in minority-owned or managed institutions in these cities:

Chicago; Compton, Calif.; Danville, Va.; Durham; Houston; Los Angeles; Memphis; New York; Portland, Ore.; Seattle; Springfield, Ill.; and Washington, D. C.

(In Durham, a check for $50,000 was deposited in the Mechanics & Farmers Bank.) The Atlantic Richfield executive commented:

"By this action, we hope to tangibly encourage new business enterprise by minority residents in each of these areas. We feel that the deposits will have a substantial multiplier effect, helping to foster economic growth in both businesses and the communities involved."

Anderson said that Atlantic Richfield has deposited smaller amounts in a few minority banks in the past, but never in the range or numbers of institutions announced today.

"It is important, we feel, that major companies help finance minority self-reliance and economic advancement through some deposits.

Annual Law Day Celebrated at North Carolina Central Univ.

JOHN MYERS, Staff Writer

The annual Law Day celebrations for North Carolina Central University was launched Friday, April 30 at Duke Auditorium on the NCCU campus. This year's theme was "Channel Change Through Law and Reason."

The guest speaker for the morning activities was Attorney Allie Latimer Weeden, Chief Counsel, Office of Chief Counsel, Office of General Counsel, General Services Administration, Washington, D. C. and National Secretary of National Bar Association.

Mrs. Weeden's address was on sexual discrimination. She cited the national wage scale from highest to lowest as: white men, black men, white women, and black women. She stated the public accommodations section of the Civil Rights Act as being completely void of concern for women. Some of the discrimination practices she noted were different sentences for the same crime according to sex, different salaries for the same job, restrictions on jobs, and the fact that a man's income is considered the main source, while a woman's is looked on as substitution. Prior to the Civil Rights Act of 1964 sex was completely left out of the terms race, creed, and color.

At a luncheon at the Down-towner at 1:30 p.m. Friday, Miss Sheliah Parrish, Chair-
