Services will be held nightly at 7:30 p.m. The public is cordially invited.

American Ins. Ass'n To Hear Mayor Lindsay at Annual Meet

NEW YORK — Mayor John V. Lindsay will head a group of government, business and education leaders who will discuss the challenge of making cities livable and the pricing of the insurance product at the American Insurance Association's annual meeting May 18-19 at the Hotel Pierre, New York City.

Mayor Lindsay, speaking at the afternoon session on May 19, will discuss the topic, "The Challenge of Making Our Cities Livable." The two day program will feature a number of other speakers on various aspects of what has come to be one of the leading problems of the present time.

The morning session on May 18 will hear Lorne R. Worthington, Iowa Insurance Commissioner and President of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, speak on the topic, "Measurement of Profitability."

Mr. Worthington will be followed by Sterling Tucker, executive director of the Washington Urban League, who will discuss "Problems of the City Dweller."

The afternoon session on the first day will open with an address on "The Role of Insurance in Making Our Cities Livable" by Richard E. Stewart, former New York Superintendent of Insurance, now senior vice president and general counsel of the First National City Bank.

Mr. Stewart will be followed by Dr. William Haddon, Jr., president of the Insurance

Institute for Highway Safety, whose topic will be, "The Insurance Industry: The Third Force on Environmental Issues?"

The morning of the second day will include an address by Professor Oliver Eaton Williamson, Department of Economics, University of Pennsylvania, on "Pricing Theory with Applications to the American Economy."

An unusual feature of the meeting will be the demonstration of an illustrated talk on safe driving by a young man who was left a quadriplegic by an accident in a drag race when he was 18 years old. The young man, Jack Burnett, 26, has delivered his lecture under the sponsorship of the American Insurance Association to more than 20,000 high school students throughout the greater Cincinnati area.

A panel discussion Tuesday afternoon will have a group of senior executives of member companies discussing the topic, "Insurance Problems of City Areas." William M. Rees, president of Chubb & Son, Inc. and vice chairman of the Association, will moderate.

Sports and games shouldn't be taken too seriously, or they lose their value.

People rarely get mad with anyone who says good things about them.

Publishers to Receive Carl Murphy Award

ATLANTA, Georgia — One of the nation's Black newspaper publishers will be awarded the Coca-Cola Company's annual Carl Murphy award at the National Newspaper Publishers Association's convention to be held in Atlanta in June.

Harold Hamilton, acting manager of the Market Development Department for Coca-Cola USA, made the announcement along with Sherman Briscoe, executive director to the Publishers' Association. He commented that it will be the fourth annual award sponsored in honor of the late Carl Murphy, former publisher of the Afro-American newspapers. The award consists of a specially designed plaque and an award of $1,000.

He further stated that the award is given to encourage and aid the Black press in community service programs - activities which deal directly with the numerous problems facing the Black community such as employment, education, housing, and the communications gap. The award is made to the newspaper judged as having conducted the most useful and effective community service program during the past year. The NNPA awards committee, composed of distinguished journalists, will make the selection of its winning member.

Mr. Murphy was a community leader as well as a newspaperman. He served on the board of directors of the NAACP, Morgan State College, Associated Publishers, Inc. and the National Newspapers Publishers' Association. He also served the NNPA as its president and had interest and active roles in numerous community affairs.

He received numerous awards for his works. Among them were two honorary doctorate degrees, the 40th Springman medal from the NAACP, The National Urban League American Teamwork Award, plus several fraternal and Masonic citations.

Another convention highlight will be the announcement of the NNPA - Coca-Cola USA Scholarship winner.

Give the other man credit for some sincerity of purpose and you might be able to understand him better.
