Daughters of Isis Works on Plans for Youth

A new youth organization, known as the Isiserettes of Goldsboro, has gotten off to a wonderful start. The Isiserettes, a youth group, comprised of a group of girls coming forth from the Imperial Court, Daughters of Isis, ranging in ages seven through seventeen years of age.

The lessons of the Isiserettes are cultural. Its teachings are moral, and its purposes are beneficial, educational, charitable, and civic.

The local group is composed of a Senior and Junior department. The officers of the Senior Group are as follows: President: Thea Bernadine Bryant, Vice President, Raydell Uzzell, Secretary, Adriene Holt.

The officers of the Junior Group are: Edwenda Hughes, President, Joyce Smith, Vice President, Sandra Jefferson, Chaplain, Delores Green, Reporter, Brenda Royal, and Chairman of the Program and Planning Committee, Sherry Raiford.

The other charter members are: Camille Bryant, Wilma Ford, Cathy D. Gray, Sandra L. Gray, Gloria Heith, Theresa Hughes, Miriam Walker, Carmelle Lewis, Stephanie Matthews, Shavaughn Scales, Patricia A. Smith, Clarissa Washington, Doris Renee Washington, Shroeder Williams, Vanita Willis, Courtrene Cowan, Antonette Williams, Thomasina Britt, and Jacqueline Everette.

Directors are: Mrs. Eloise Pate and Mrs. Lucille J. Bryant, Assistant Directors: Mrs. Rosa Edwards, Rose Green, Shirley Scales, Loree Durham, Rose Smith, Helen Harris, Helena Lewis, Helen U. Harris, Sylvia Everett, and Miss Thelma Coley.

After meeting for only three times, the girls began an active schedule. The first service is a clean up drive to collect soda bottles over the city and county. On Wednesday, they attended a preview of films on drugs at Saint Stephens Episcopal Church. There were sixteen girls present, and four adult leaders.

Monday, they are to start group bowling, and the next scheduled group activities will be to form a drill team, a chorus, and participate in a First-Aids-Course.

We shall strive to live up to our pledge, "by lifting as we climb."

House Okays New River Resolution

RALEIGH — The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a resolution against water-level drawdown and shoreline controls on the proposed Appalachian Power Co. project on New River.

If acted on favorably by the Senate, the resolution would put the General Assembly on record as being opposed to drawing the upper reservoir down to flush out pollution in West Virginia.

The measure was sponsored by Rep. P. C. Collins Jr., D-Alleghany, Rep. J. Worth Gentry, D-Stokes, and Rep. George Marion, D-Surry, whose House district includes Ashe and Alleghany counties.

The resolution calls on Gov. Robert Scott and Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan to join with Virginia and West Virginia in opposing the proposed drawdown and shoreline controls.

House Gives First Approval To Bill on Drunken Driving

RALEIGH — Turning aside arguments that it would result in an "administrative impossibility," the House voted 65-35 yesterday afternoon to give preliminary approval to a once-killed bill setting stiffer fines for drunken driving but allowing suspended sentences in second and third convictions.

Under the legislation which was killed by the House last week but later revived, courts would be allowed to grant defendants the suspended sentences provided they agreed to voluntarily undergo treatment for alcoholism.

Sponsor Rep. William B. Kemp, D-Wayne, made an emotional plea for the legislation, saying that it would grant an additional option to courts and would help in reducing the number of drinking drivers.

"The House isn't afraid of passing stiff legislation on juvenile delinquents, because nobody in this House plans on becoming a juvenile delinquent," he said. He noted, however, that "80 per cent of the membership of this House drinks."

He told fellow legislators the measure was "the very best bill we could get" to cut down on the number of drunken drivers.

During his argument for the bill, he admitted that he himself drinks and at times, had "too much" on himself.

Rep. Sneed High, D-Cumberland, led the opposition to the measure, saying it was too idealistic and presented "an administrative impossibility." He said there would not be enough space in existing alcoholism treatment centers for the influx that would be created by the legislation.

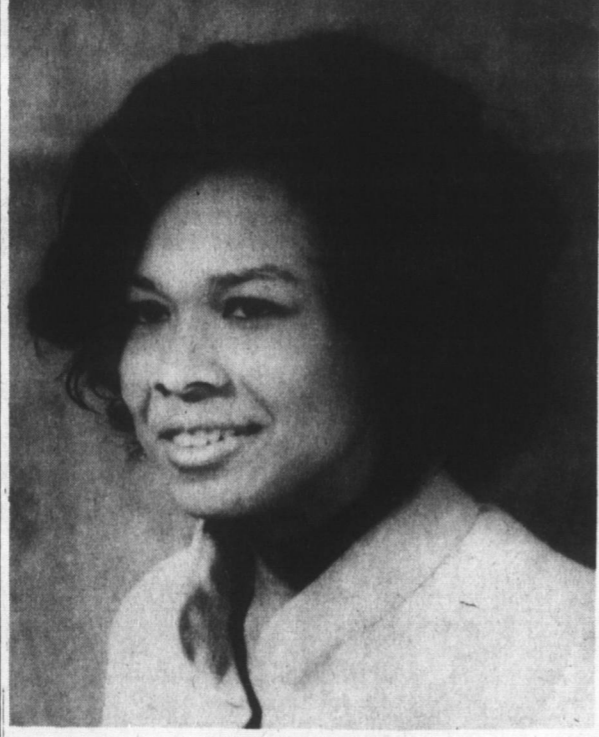

In addition, he said, the revisions in the drunken driving statutes would not help the people "who drink and drive who are not chronic alcoholics."

Rep. Joy Johnson, D-Robeson, came to Kemp's defense, asking, "Wouldn't someone be just as dead if he were killed by a chronic alcoholic" than by a person who happened to drink too much on just one occasion?

away from his job for the time required at an alcoholism treatment center.

After the vote, High objected to third reading, putting off final consideration of the measure until today.

MISS EMMA MOSBY

Youth Day Celebration to be Held New Bethel Bapt. Church

The annual youth day celebration will be held at the New Bethel Baptist Church, West Durham, North Carolina, Sunday, July 18, 1971. Miss Emma Lovetta Mosby will bring the youth day address at 11:00.

MRS. MAE GRIER

Mrs. Mae Clanton Grier, Retired Belmont Teacher is Honoree

Mrs. Mae Clanton Grier, a career teacher in the Belmont System of Gaston County, retired at the end of the 1970-71 school year. Her career spanned many years of service with the school systems where she developed and put into practice many new and innovative programs.

A native of Winston-Salem, she is the daughter of the late John and Callie Scales Clanton. Her husband was the late Thomas E. Grier. Her educational training included attendance at the elementary and graduation from high school in Winston-Salem. The B. A. degree was earned at Winston-Salem State University and the M. A. degree was earned from Columbia University. Many activities in educational enrichment were further pursued by Mrs. Grier. Mrs. Grier is a member of several professional organizations and holds membership in the College Women's Association and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

School activities have been quite varied for Mrs. Grier. She developed and set up the Student Council Program of her school. She served as an assistant in Dramatics, art, music and was the coach of the basketball team. Her community services have included work with the Girl Scouts, PTA groups, and religious work with the State Baptist Missionary Society. She also serves as a member of the Board of Deaconesses of her church. Mrs. Grier will direct a group of state wide choirs at the State-wide Missionary convention to be held in Durham during August.

Former students and faculty members of the Central School, along with members of the County School Board, P. T. A. officers and many others tendered parties in honor of Mrs. Grier upon her retirement. Gifts to her included a silver bowl and tray.

Mrs. Grier's future plans include travel to old Mexico, the Holy Land and other points of interest.

Children's Class Participates in EPDA Program

RALEIGH — Members of the Children's Literature class at Saint Augustine's College participate in the EPDA-BCP program at the college by meeting twice a week for twenty minutes with integrated children whose ages range from 8 to 13. During these sessions student members of the class present a story hour and puppetry show. Mrs. D. E. Ball is instructor.

The multi-age group of children are enrolled as volunteers in an experimental reading project now being conducted at Saint Augustine's College.

The 64 teachers enrolled in the EPDA-BCP program come from all of the eastern section of North Carolina. They observe and get ideas from instructors to take back to their schools.

Selected experts in the teaching of developmental and remedial reading serve as consultants and lecturers.

Dr. Frissell W. Jones is director of the project. Dr. Thelma Roundtree is the adjunct professor of reading, representing N. C. State University for six graduate credits in reading that the participants will receive upon completion of the program.

Mrs. Rita Roberts is reading instructor and coordinator of the practicum. Other instructors are Mr. Henry M. Funderburk, Mrs. Esther Em-

STUDENTS DISPLAY THEIR REACTIONS—Fayetteville State University's Sociology Department tried an innovative idea in their Culture and Personality Class during the first six-week session of the 1971 Summer School. Students enrolled in the course were

Grenade Blast Kills Man In Cuban Air Hijack Try

MIAMI — A grenade exploded as two men battled passengers in an attempt to hijack a plane inside Cuba, killing a Communist party official, Havana radio reported Monday.

The broadcast, monitored here, said three other people were wounded, including the unsuccessful hijackers, but the plane managed to land safely at Havana after the incident.

It was the first recent report of a hijack attempt in Cuba, although there were several such incidents in the early 1960s.

The Havana radio broadcast, citing a ministry of interior communique, failed to say how many passengers were aboard the plane or where the hijackers wanted to go in the Sunday incident.

The broadcast said the would-be hijackers made their move when Cubana Airlines, the Cuban national airline, was about 25 minutes out of Havana on Flight 740 to Cienfuegos.

"Being Free"

BY DONALD LOVE

There are two ways of being free, one is spiritual freedom and the other is social freedom. Which of the two means more to you? Which of the two do you value the most? You have to make a choice, the decision is yours to make.

Our social lives seemingly bothers us most. We can not go places we would like to and do things we like doing. So we have a yoke on us or we have limited borders.

When a bou, all winter we wore shoes; which was a natural thing to do. The first of March, we were permitted to pull off shoes and go bare-foot. All of us kids looked forward for this. When the time came, and we shed shoes, socks, and all. Our feet were tender, Rocks, gravel and the ground itself seemed to have hurt. We felt that we could fly. We ran almost all day. We were free of shoes. Shoes had been a yoke on our feet but now our feet are free. What a feeling.

An animal housed-in for a long period of time, when it is to go out, he is carried on a leash due to the danger, such as being run down by a car. All the while, he is pulling with all his might. I don't know who is tired, the animal or the master. When he is carried to open country and turned loose, he seems to go crazy.

You have heard stories about eagles raised in the barnyard. There are sides and it was a must to put a cover on as well, he would fly away. When the eagle becomes grown, he is given his freedom. He does the things of an eagle, flies high.

A child at a very young and tender age desires to get away from his parents. After a child learns to crawl, he slips from the mother into another room and as he does he is constantly looking back to see whether he is being successful in his escape. He, that young in life, is wanting to be free. There are innumerable illustrations that could be used along with many you already know, how we as human beings, animals, fowls, and all manner of things work to be free. Being spiritual free seems to be harder for us than the other. We have so much to give up. The spiritual way of life is far different from the materialistic way of life. The flesh of ours craves for one thing and the spirit craves for something different. The two never agree. There is a way at all times with them and each of us possess them both.

The rich lawyer desired eternal life but wasn't willing to give up his material wealth. He had the wealth, he could see that, but what it took to get eternal life, he didn't see. Judas, when betraying Christ, could see the $33.00; if it was that much or even more, but to wait on the Holy Ghost was too far fetched. How St. Paul was given freedom to punish all Christians or those believing in the teaching of Jesus.

When St. Paul went to Galatia, he was able to get the believers from the unbelievers to begin a mission, a church. He gave them all he had. After leaving, it wasn't too long that word reached him concerning these believers. He wrote them a letter to keep them together. In the Galatians, 5th Chapter and 13th verse, he stated in the letter: "Brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love, serve one another. He was trying to get over to them, law has control over flesh. The flesh craves many things, law is necessary to try to keep it under some kind of a control. He mentioned just a few of the things, it was a must, law must be applied. Galatians 5:19-21 and the same chapter verses 21-23-reference. In the latter part of verse 23, he stated "You do not need law for love, joy, peace, long-suffering and all positive attributes.

Matt. 6:33. Christ said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

When we do as is outlined for us, we too can say what Martin Luther King so often said, "Thank God Almighty, I'm free at last."
