

Rev. Joseph C. Sawyer, AME Zion Pastor Mourned in Kinston

The circles of the church life of this eastern town began to realize Wednesday, when the funeral of Rev. Joseph Clinton Sawyer, 48, was held at St. Augustus AME Zion Church, at 11:00 a.m., that his sudden death on Saturday night, Sept. 12, had cast a gloom over the community that would not soon move away.

The news of his death spread quickly, but it was not recognized as such a blow until Bishops W. A. Stewart and A. G. Dunston, followed by other clergymen, led the procession into the church, to pay last respects to the fallen pastor, former farm agent, NAACP leader, civic personality and champion of human rights.

Once the solemn procession began its slow movement into the church, he had pastored for 11 years, and the strains of the funeral dirge echoed back, the crowd slowly took its seat to hear the last sad rites. Even though the two prelates, with whom he had worked, since resigning from the position of farm agent in Chowan County, were to say the least words, the mute evidence of how he had wrought, spoke in glowing terms.

The farmers he had aided in bringing forth better yield, and towns people, he had worked so hard for, to bring to a fuller life of human rights and dignity, the city planters and officials, with whom he had worked to make Kinston a better place to live, with bowed heads, all realized that a great servant had gone.

Rev. Sawyer was born in Edenton and after finishing the prescribed courses of Edenton High School, he attended A & T College, where he received a degree in agricultural science.

He went back to his native county and married the former Etta Turner in 1943. He had shown a unique interest in church work and decided to enter the ministry. He had built a background for same, as a child, at Caanan Temple AME Zion Church. He moved quickly up and on. He pastored in Jamesville and Williamston, taking over the pastorate of St. Augustus, in 1961.

He soon found that the congregation needed a new edifice and started plans to build one. The building stands as a credit to his administrative ability and the leadership he gave his parishners. He served on the Board of Education, the Recreation Committee and as a chaplain at Lenoir County Hospital. He worked diligently on voter registration and by so doing gave the Black community much stature in the affairs in Kinston. When it was apparent that the local branch of the NAACP was losing its viability, he led the reorganization to a more viable
