

PLEASE NOTE

Due to the current newsprint shortage, we are printing this week's edition in living color.

The Carolina Times

THE TRUTH UNBIASED

WORDS OF WISDOM

The whole world and every human being in it is everybody's business. —William Saroyan
The greatest satisfaction we can get out of life comes from . . . making the pathway of those who follow a little less bumpy. —William Feather

VOLUME 53 — No. 44

DURHAM, N. C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1973

PRICE: 20 CENTS

RECREATION PROJECT WORK UNDERWAY IN CITY

Year Long Diamond Jubilee Observance Begun By NCM

BEWITCHING BEAUTIES — These two lovely Fayetteville State University coeds are not afraid of the "Great Pumpkin" as they pose between classes for the camera lens. The pretty coeds are (left) Angelika Tibensky and Sabrina Green, both of Fayetteville.

Ernie Barnes to Spend Much Time Working with Local Area Youth

When Ernie Barnes was growing up in Durham, his artistic interests earned him more than his share of ridicule from his peers.

He took lessons in piano, trombone, saxophone, and violin, and found his first art outlets in tracing Dick Tracy comic strips and designing bulletin boards in schools. Later, his mother's encouragement of his interests was supportive; by that of art teachers. But in between, Barnes found that because of his interest in drawing and music he had to prove his masculinity. He had to fight the neighborhood bully, and he had to play football to prove himself. He played football so well at Hillside High and North Carolina Central that he wound up with a pro contract.

Perhaps because of his own experience as a youngster,

Barnes feels he owes his support and help to other youngsters. During a recent show in Atlanta, he conducted art classes for three weeks. He'll only be in Durham for a few days when his show, "The Beauty of the Ghetto," is at the North Carolina Central University Art Museum.

He will spend much of that time working with Durham area youngsters in art. Jim McIntyre at Allied Arts of Durham has arranged to schedule for him that includes sessions at Little River School, Holt School, and Morehead School with youngsters in the Durham County Public School System's creative Arts Program, and sessions at Allied Arts for elementary, junior high, and senior high students.

He will work with second graders at Little River School from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, November 1, and from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. that afternoon ill work at Allied Arts with any elementary school pupil in the Durham city school system.

Barnes will be at Holt School Friday, November 2, from 8:45 to 9:45 a.m. working with fifth graders in the Creative Arts Program. From 3:30 to 4:30 Friday he will work with junior high students at Allied Arts. From 12:30 to 2:30 Monday, November 5, Barnes will work with third and fourth graders at Morehead School. He will work with senior high students from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. that afternoon at Allied Arts.

NEA Pres. Says Elected Officials Must Reorder Nation's Priorities

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There is a "sad correlation" between scandal in high places-Watergate and former Vice President Agnew's resignation-and education. "Each bears directly and dramatically on the questions of what we have become, as individuals and as a nation, and what we hope to be," NEA President Helen D. Wise today illustrated before the Washington press corps.

Speaking on behalf of the nation's teachers and children, Dr. Wise called for accountability of elected officials, announcing that "from this day forward, we are holding to strict account those who have demanded and received our trust as leaders."

As the first non-Administration spokesperson for education to speak at the prestigious National Press Club, the NEA leader preparing young for their place in American society. She also chastised the Nixon Administration for its failure to treat education as a priority and its "gamesmanship" with education statistics, urged legislators to stop playing power games and instead respond to the needs of the people, and warned politicians at all levels that it will never again be politically safe to ignore the needs of 46 million children because "2 million teachers as a political force to be reckoned with."

The educator described some of today's pressures on teachers and students: disciplinary problems, drug abuse, integration, reading problems, lack of textbooks, emotional problems, the overwhelming feeling to teaching 150 youngsters a day, the responsibility of guiding

(See LEADER Page 7A)

Durham League of Women Voters Sponsors Candidates Meeting

Hill Center Is Major Project Now Underway

A major new neighborhood center, picnic areas and several ball fields as well as resurfaced tennis play areas will be well on its way to completion for Durham's citizenry use by next summer and even earlier in some instances.

Some of the recreation spots are new and others will replace or upgrade the facilities formerly in use.

However, none of the current improvements will use monies approved for recreation by Durham voters in the $17 million bond referendum September 8. The recreation thrust will see about $700,000 appropriated by the city and the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban

Council candidates were permitted 2 minute summaries to voice their views on issues (See SPONSORS Page 9A)

Mayor James R. Hawkins and Rev. Lorenzo A. Lynch, opponents for the top post in Durham, as well as other council aspirants spoke on varying issues as they saw it when the Durham League of Women Voters presented their Meet The Candidates session. A small audience heard the goup as they voiced their views on pertinent issues relating to successful city government.

The incumbent, Mayor Hawkins called attention to his record and experiences the past 2 years as the stressed the need for experience in dealing with the many governmental problems facing the city today. Lynch emphasized the need for long-ranging planning and urged the need for greater participation by all residents in the city's government.

All candidates were present for the forum except J. Bruce Lawson, who is running for a Ward 1 seat.

Council candidates were permitted 2 minute summaries to voice their views on issues (See SPONSORS Page 9A)

75th Birthday Celebrated By Local Ins. Co.

The 75th Birthday of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company was celebrated on October 20 with several events by its founders, past presidents and current president, W. J. Kennedy III and employees to mark the beginning of a year long Diamond Jubilee celebration of the company. The company was organized on October 20, 1898 and now has offices in thirteen states and the District of Columbia.

N. C. Mutual Life Insurance at age 75 is currently listed as the Oldest black owned and managed financial institution in the world.

W. J. Kennedy III, its 7th president points up that N. C. Mutual continues to have the potential to remain and build (See JUBILEE Page 7A)

NEW MAYOR CELEBRATES — Atlanta Mayor-elect Maynard Jackson and wife, Bunie, at victory celebration after Jackson won a runoff election to become the first Black to be elected mayor of a major Southern city. Jackson, a 35-year-old lawyer and Vice Mayor, defeated incumbent Sam Massell.

NEWS BRIEFS

FIRST BLACK

NEW YORK — Frank M. McIver, Jr. has become the first Black to take over managerial duties at a midtown branch of New York's oldest savings bank. The Assistant Vice President and former Manager of The New York Bank For Savings' office in Harlem is now manager of the bank's 43rd Street and Broadway office.

$28,000 A YEAR FOR LIFE

Former Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery has retired on a disability pension of about $28,000 a year for life based on a 1967 accident. Lt. Victor Collymore was sworn in Monday as a $28,000-a-year Assistant Fire Commissioner after serving for several years as Lowery's confidential assistant.

HARLEM'S MOST PROLIFIC

Loften Mitchell, one of Harlem's most prolific writers, has his newest book out. It's "The Stubborn Old Lady Who Resisted Change," published by Emerson Hall—a story about welfare clients and social workers.

BANKER DIES

Jesse W. Lewis, Sr., founder and former director of the Industrial Bank of Washington, one of the nation's first black financial institutions died at age 71.

LEASES BUSINESS

Famed beauty salon owner Rose Morgan has leased her longtime location on West 145th Street to the Board of Education and opened her new Rose Morgan's House of Beauty and Health Salon in the Esplanade Gardens at 148th Street and Seventh Avenue.

OBSERVATION: Discrimination against women is much easier to overcome than discrimination against racial minorities, the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburg, former chairman of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights said. "It is an illusion to equate the problems of Blacks and Chicanos with those of women," he stated.

Rev. Harold James Cobb Named By Gov. to Nursing Home Board

WILLIAM F. HINES, SR.

Last Rites Held Saturday For Fred Hines, Sr.

William Frederick Hines, Sr., the son of the late Frederick and Lulista Wayne Hines, was born July 7, 1900 in Goldsboro, N. C. He departed this life at 9:35 p.m. Tuesday, October 16 at Hill Haven Orange Nursing Home.

Fred Hines, as he was affectionately known, was married to the late Ethelne Jordan Hines in 1919. They moved to Durham in 1920 and to this union three children were born.

His education was only to the fourth grade school level, but he had the initiative to resume training during his adulthood. He attended night classes for the skilled courses that were offered during World War II.

Immediately after moving to this city, Mr. Hines joined the St. Mark AME Zion Church under the pastorage of Rev. Paschall.

In December of 1951, Fred Hines was united in marriage to the former Annie Lee Wilson. Mr. Hines was a very busy figure in the churches, community, schools and civic (See HINES Page 7A)

A Black Durham minister, the Rev. Harold James Cobb, 43, has been named by Governor James E. Holshouser, Jr. to the State Board of Examiners for Nursing Home Administrators. Dr. Larnie G. Horton, Special Assistant to the Governor, made the announcement Monday.

The Rev. Mr. Cobb is a native of Winston-Salem, North Carolina. He graduated from Shaw University with AB and BD degrees in 1953. He received his Master of Divinity degree at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary this year. He studied in the spring of this year at North Carolina State University at Raleigh. Friendship College in Rock Hill, South Carolina provided him with his Doctor of Divinity degree.

Dr. Cobb was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Burlington, North Carolina for 19 years. During that time, he led the congregation in building a new church at a cost of more than $200,000. Presently pastor of the West Durham Baptist Church, Cobb has served as president of the Ministerial Association.

The State Board of Examiners oversees and enforces rules and regulations setting standards which must be met by individuals in order to receive and hold a license as a nursing home administrator. The Board consists of eight members, one of whom, the Secretary of Human Resources or his designee, has no vote.

REV. COBB

The Rev. Mr. Cobb is married to the former Armada B. Goodson of Wendell and is the father of two sons, Harold, Jr., 15, and Timothy Fitzgerald, 8. The family lives in Emerywoods Estates in Durham, North Carolina.

62nd Annual Session Cape Fear Conference Convenes In Wilson

WILSON — The 62nd annual session of the Cape Fear Conference, AME Zion Church, presided over by Bishop Herbert Bell Shaw, and composed of four districts, Wilmington, Clarkton, Goldsboro and Wilson got underway at St. John AME Zion Church; Pender at Smith Street, 10:00 a.m., October 23.

The meet will be church leaders from throughout the area, for the six-day meet, whose theme is "Why tarry here". The pastor, Rev. A. F. Hooper, said Monday, that all phases of church life will be touched on. The meet opened officially Tuesday night, when the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered.

The keynote address, by Bishop Shaw, Tuesday, stressed, the vitality of the Christian religion and how the effects of it could bring a fuller life for believers. A welcome program with the pastor in charge, was scheduled for Wednesday night.

The "Laymen's Hour" presided over by the president of the Laymen's Council, W. A. Foster, will take place at 11:00 a.m., Thursday. District presidents, Welbon Cox, Sr., G.C. Baughm, Richard Miller and J. T. McPhail, will report on the programs they have (See WILSON Page 7A)

WANTS TO BE MAYOR — Pulaski, Tenn.: Like many a small town politician, James Brown strolls around town asking folks to support him for mayor. Here, he pauses beside a plaque on wall of a barber shop that reads: "Ku Klux Klan organized in this, the law office of Judge Thomas M. Jones, Dec. 24th 1865.

BISHOP SHELTON MEETS WITH DANISH AMBASSADOR — Here we see His Eminence Bishop S. McDowell Shelton, leader of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ, in Copenhagen, meeting with His Excellency Phillip Crowe, U. S. Ambassador to Denmark as his goodwill trip to Europe continues.