Important That Parents Prepare Children For Move

Child psychologists agree that youngsters often do not adjust to change readily, especially if they are rushed into it. Can Craft Craze Soars

In less than two hours, this conductor created his own engine, using TreeSweet juice cans, a tomato or berry container, a half gallon milk carton, cardboard, glue and black paint.

The Great American Can Crafts Contest, a nationwide competition to create the most innovative, humorous and useful items made out of emptied tin and aluminum cans, has been announced by TreeSweet Products Co. and Creative Crafts Magazine, in cooperation with The Hobby Industry of America.

The event is one of the features of October, National Hobby Month, proposed by a Resolution of the U.S. Congress.

Can Crafts can be entered in one of four categories: decorative, humorous, functional, or in keeping with the U.S. Bicentennial. Prizes will be awarded in three age groups: under 12, 13-17, and 18 and above.

Recycling an aluminum can saves 95% of the energy required to produce a new one; and a recycled "tin" can saves at least 70% of the needed energy.

The Sweepstake prize is a $1000 U.S. Government Savings Bond. Hundreds of other prizes include: Samsonite two piece luggage ensembles, Grandinetti Coffee Makers and Casserole Crockery Cookpots, Koss Stereophones, Shindana "J. J." Talking Dolls and many more.

The deadline for the contest is Nov. 30, 1975. No purchase is necessary and any tin or aluminum can may be used.

Imaginative suggestions and free entry blanks are available at most hobby and craft stores and also at supermarkets where TreeSweet products are sold. Mail a snapshot of your can craft with an entry blank or facsimile to Can Crafts Contest, Creative Crafts Magazine, P.O. Box 700, Newton, New Jersey, 07860.

Gifts, holiday decorations, centerpieces, floral arrangements, candle holders, puppets, planters, toys such as railroad trains, and figures such as policemen and firemen are easy to make from empty aluminum cans, such as TreeSweet juice cans. Simply wash the can, and then paint it, or cover it with glue and some material found around the house such as felt or shelf paper. Then by using glue, styrofoam balls, felt, scraps of material, ribbon, crayons, yarn, cotton, buttons and other odds and ends, fun and unusual crafts are easy to make.

Also show them the school they will attend and the play facilities available. If the youngsters have lived in the same house as far back as they can remember, then the new neighborhood will need a tremendous build-up. Moving should be something that is looked forward to rather than feared. Portray it as a great adventure.

Other Tips

Here are additional suggestions provided by Aero Mayflower counselors to help smooth the transition for children:

—If you are moving to a distant place help your youngsters learn about the new area. Chambers of commerce, tourist bureaus and state agencies can supply information.

—Encourage play-acting. By using dolls, boxes and a wagon children can get a feeling for the concept of moving.

—Let the children help decide how their new rooms are to be arranged and decorated.

—Make a last visit to places of which your family is fond.

—Encourage them to exchange addresses with friends. Allow them to have old chums visit at the new home, if practical. A telephone call to a favorite acquaintance is a low-cost way to relieve post-move depression.

—Prepare a package for each child containing favorite toys, clothing and snacks. Label it with the child's name.

Spend Time with Children

—Take a break with the family as soon as major unpacking is completed.

—Both mother and father should spend time with all their children after the move, listening to what they're discovering about the new school, friends and play areas.

—The first few weeks in a new school may be difficult for your child. So follow his progress closely and don't hesitate to visit with his teacher if problems arise. You may ease both his and your own mind by accompanying him to school the first few days.

Moving is a big change for all family members. Fatigue and confusion can cause emotions to run high and tempers to run short. But careful preparation and attention to individual needs can smooth the moving of your most precious possessions—your children.
