"Every Day People - Every Day Creator"

How many among us can know for sure what we will do in the near future? As a matter of consideration, it may be better for all people that we choose the short term concept with regard to planning. For example, there are so many matters of interest which cannot be changed once they have been set in motion by man. With reference to some matters which cannot be changed, time is one matter far beyond our changing. Enough time changes things but things do not change time. In addition, people do not change certain events or patterns which occur because of time. Time happens to be an eternal glory. If the idea expressed here is true, and I would rather think so, it becomes a must that people engage in work according to the time element.

Wherever one may choose to visit for a short while, he finds every day people struggling to maintain existence with every day problems, but with an every day God. No people should feel down-trodden because of usual situations which tend to move against them. It should be remembered here that evil situations are usual situations for the most part. Because of our evil nature, any group of people is subject to use its direction. In spite of evils, men need to be faced with certain challenges that they may continue to know how to overcome life at it worse for future reference. However, our every day Creator will not help his people as they had anticipated unless they change their wrongful direction. Further, we realize very well that earth has no sorrows that heaven cannot cure, but earth does have some sorrows that heaven will not cure immediately. Here again time is important but no man has power to rush God into making a decision.

Basically, our Creator requires of all that we remember Him in all that we do. He has never required of all of us to do the same things all day long nor in degrees of like manner. Remembering our Creator is not accomplished through our efforts to cause cause all actions to cease for a long time period. However, there are times when people can remember the Father better by being somewhere on the move rather than sitting somewhere gazing. The real God whom some of us serve for real is a moving spirit. In fact, when He sits down, He is still moving.

He who hath ears to hear - let him hear.

World Famous Boychoir In Concert Here Sunday

The world famous Columbus Boychoir will be presented in concert Sunday, November 9 at 4 p.m. at Durham High School Auditorium sponsored by the Durham Boys Choir. The Columbus Boychoir is the country's oldest and only professional-resident boychoir with headquarters located at Princeton, New Jersey; the Musical Director is Donal Hanson. This is a benefit concert for the local Durham Boys Choir, and funds from the sale of tickets will aid the work of the Durham Boys Choir. Tickets are available in advance or at the door for $2, and group rates are available in advance.

Agas of boys in the Columbus Boychoir range from 9-14. So rare is a vocal ensemble of their high quality - whatever the ages of its singers - that these youngsters' concerts are in constant demand. In addition to their highly successful annual tour of the United States, they have thrilled audiences in Europe, South and Central America, and the Far East. Performances at New York's Lincoln Center, the White House, and an audience with Pope Paul VI at the Vatican have proven their singular prominence.

Like all professional artists of stature, these boys work very hard at their art - perhaps harder than most - for they combine their task of learning music with the task of growing up. Each member of the choir is a product of the extraordinary Columbus Boychoir School. Students are selected by audition from hundreds of talented applicants. As they live and play together, they receive intensive instruction not only in music and related performance techniques, but in a complete academic discipline, as well.

Columbus Boychoir audiences are assured a deeply satisfying musical experience. Hanson, the group's young director, has communicated to his singers the joy of performing the best music in the best possible way. The ensemble is one of sensitive, intelligent young musicians. Their earnestness and zeal, fused by the musical genius of their director, creates one of the world's great vocal instruments, full of life and beauty.

Atlanta University Official To Speak

Dr. Richard A. Long, director of the Center for African and African-American Studies at Atlanta University, will speak at 3 p.m. Thursday in the auditorium of the James T. Taylor Building at North Carolina Central University on "African Continuities in the New World."

The public lecture at 3 p.m. is part of a two-day lecture series sponsored by the North Carolina Central University Humanities Program. The Humanities Program, directed by Dr. Mary Ann Witt, is funded by the Kean Trust to create a cross-disciplinary humanities curriculum at NCCU.

Dr. Long will speak six times during his two-day visit. He will discuss "African Continuities: An Historical Perspective" at 9:25 in Room 201 of NCCU's Classroom Building.

At 11:35 Thursday morning, Dr. Long will speak on "African Continuities: Music and Dance" in room 201 of the Classroom Building. "African Continuities and the Oral Tradition" is the subject of Dr. Long's lecture at 9 a.m. Friday in Room 207 of the Classroom Building.

At 10 a.m. Friday, he will speak on the topic, "From Africa to the New World: A Linguistic Continuum," in room 201 of the Classroom Building.

At 11 a.m. Friday, "The Significance of African Sculpture" will be Dr. Long's topic in room 301 of the Classroom Building.

Students have been invited to attend all lectures. The general public is invited to the lecture at 3 p.m. in the Taylor Building auditorium.

He is employed with the Durham Police Department as a Traffic Supervisor. He has been with the Police Department for sixteen years.

"UNCF Never More Needed Than It Is Today": V.P.

MILWAUKEE - Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller told more than one thousand persons attending the United Negro College Fund National Convocation Dinner last Friday here that because of the quest for human dignity and equal opportunity, the work of the UNCF was "never more needed than it is today."

For 31 years, the UNCF has been raising money for its member colleges and universities so that they could provide an opportunity for higher education to all Americans.

Speaking before a gathering of government, corporate, foundation and education leaders including the 41 presidents of the UNCF member institutions, Rockefeller said that as this country approaches its Bicentennial year, "there still exists a struggle of fulfillment, equal opportunity, respect and human dignity."

The Vice President praised the UNCF for its work in providing educational opportunity and noted that the results can be seen throughout the country.

"There are 3,500 elected Black officials in this country - in the Congress, in the State houses, in local government. One hundred and thirty-five of our cities are led by Black Mayors - elected in every part of the country, in the East, in the West, in the North and in the South as well. We find countless examples of leadership in such other significant areas as the Christian ministry, the professions, the communications media, sports, in business and in the arts. And in almost every case, we note with pride that these are the people who came up the stairway of educational opportunity," the Vice President said.

Rockefeller noted the work of the UNCF is proven success. He continued "your work for the future was never more needed than it is today." He said it "deserves and must get ever-broadening support from the American people and such organized groups as labor and industry."

In addition to the Vice President, other guest attending the dinner included Patrick J. Lucey, Governor of Wisconsin; Henry W. Maier, Mayor of Milwaukee and John L. Doyno, Milwaukee County Executive.

Prior to the dinner the home run record-holder of baseball, Hank Aaron presented the Vice President with two autographed baseballs and three baseball caps for his two sons. Willie Davis of the Green Bay Packers gave Rockefeller a football autographed by the players.

The dinner highlighted the UNCF's annual fall meeting of the members and board of directors. Several organizations announced their annual contribution to the UNCF. The Joseph Schlotz Brewing Company presented $15,000 to the College Fund and the Milwaukee Foundation made a presentation of $6,000. National sororities also made presentations.

Christopher F. Edley, UNCF executive director, said the two-day dinner meeting in Milwaukee was one of the most encouraging ever. He said the black community displayed an impressive volunteer and financial support in rallying to the UNCF cause.

The Pentecostal Fellowship

The Pentecostal Fellowship is a religious organization which is comprised of members from many denominations and faiths. Presently there are 65 members enrolled in the organization. The Pentecostal Fellowship had its beginning in the early 1960's. During this period the Fellowship was organized and chartered as an official organization of the University. The Fellowship made steady progress during this time. In the late 1960's the Pentecostal Fellowship was reorganized by the Rev. J. H. Bradley. Under his leadership the Fellowship membership increased. Many new activities were initiated during his tenure. The Pentecostal Fellowship choir was started during his administration. The Pentecostal Fellowship Choir traveled extensively and the campus became more aware of the existence of the Fellowship by the concerts given by the choir in the state and out-of-state. Recently the choir recorded an album with Shirley Caesar and will be recording their second album with her in January. Prayer meetings are held weekly, also Sunday morning church services. The Fellowship also publishes a monthly newsletter. Following the successful administration of Rev. Bradley, Milton Lewis served as president of the Fellowship. He was succeeded by Rev. Larry Wilson. The membership continued to increase as well as the spiritual growth. In 1972 a soul-stirring revival was held on campus. It was conducted by Rev. Melender, a former New York City gangster. Through his ministry many souls were saved and thus the Pentecostal Fellowship membership increased. Rev. Wilson was succeeded by Mary Crudrup as president. The Fellowship took on new dimensions during her tenure. She was the first woman president that the Fellowship had elected. During her administration the National Pentecostal Fellowship was held on the campus. It was a great convocation in which many souls were saved and rededicated. Many outstanding speakers came to the campus and delivered soul-stirring stirring sermons. Among them was Shirley Caesar, Rev. Lettie Cohen and many others. During this particular convocation a music workshop was conducted by Mary Tigran, vice-president of the D. C. chapter of the James Cleveland Gospel Music Workshop. The Pentecostal Fellowship Choir added many new songs to their repertoire as a result of the workshop. The highlight of the convocation was the Sunday morning services in which representatives from Howard University conducted the services.

The Pentecostal Fellowship is continuing to move ahead the leadership of Rev. Paulette Everett. Already in the making is plans for our annual revival and singing engagements for the choir. Through the years the theme of the organization has been "I'M DETERMINED TO GO THRU". With these words to inspire us and the guidance of God we shall strive to march forward in the advancement of Kingdom building.
