

Local Pastor Moved To Michigan

SANFORD - Closing out what many proclaimed the most successful annual meeting of the Central N. C. Conference, A. M. E. Zion Church at its 95th session, Bishop W. A. Hilliard, presiding prelate, laid the ground work for the centennial session, which will be held in 1980. The Conference was held at Fair Promise A. M. E. Z. Church here.

The bishop took note of the fact that the leaders had expanded the program extensively, during the past year, with emphasis on community life, directed at rural churches. It was reported that many rural churches were being either built, remodeled or refurbished, in the spirit of the 1975 theme, "No Recession with Christ".

He stressed this with the youth of the church when they met for "Youth Day". He told the adults that there must be a new approach to bringing the youth into the denomination. He charged that criticism was not the key to gaining the youth. He listed participation as the most vital in today's planning.

There were two ministerial changes in the Durham District. The Rev. R. V. Horton, who is known as the dean of active pastors, asked that he be relieved of the pastoral duties of Mitchell Chapel, near Pittsboro, which he pastored for 27 years. His request was granted. The Rev. F. L. Rush was selected as the pastor and moves over from Holland. The Rev. J. B. Roseborough, another veteran, goes to Holland.

The Rev. C. C. Satterfield, Jr., who has pastored Kyles Temple A. M. E. Zion Church in Durham for four years has been transferred to St. Peters in Hamtramck, Michigan, a suburb of Detroit.

Rev. Satterfield went to Durham from Sanford. He has enjoyed successful pastorates in several eastern towns, including Greenville. He is a native of Hertford and a graduate of Hertford High School. He is married to the former Miss Mary Winslow. They have three children. The son, Allen, is with the military in Germany and his daughters, both graduates of Livingstone College are working.

The Rev. William N. Freeman was assigned to the Durham church, replacing Rev. Satterfield.

Rev. Freeman is well known in both educational and religious circles. He has been connected with the Wake County School system and is currently assistant

THE TEMPTATIONS TO APPEAR AT THE COLISEUM

The Temptations will appear at the Coliseum in Greensboro, for one night only, Saturday, November 22nd. "Emperor's of Soul for more than a decade," The Tempts have just returned from a triumphant world-wide tour that took A SONG FOR YOU, the group's current Motown album, to an international audience. The group's new Lp from Motown, due for a November release, is entitled, HOUSE PARTY, and is destined to keep the people dancing through a long, cold winter.

The long-reigning regents of R & B see no pretender to the throne as they continue to enrapture their audiences around the world with their unique blend of supreme artistry and social consciousness. Their music, which has rightfully become an institution, has provided a harmonious soundtrack through the 60's up to the present, and with the release of HOUSE PARTY, the Tempts prove once again that they have their talented fingers on the musical pulse of the people, 'cause the people want to dance.'

Detroit Woman Named To Honor Society In Flint

Geraldine A. Ford, a junior year student attending General Motors Institute under sponsorship of AC-Delco Division, has been appointed to the Institute's Management Honor Society, in Flint, Michigan.

Geraldine is the first woman GMI student at AC-Delco to be given this honor. She was selected because of her fine scholastic record and her enrollment in Fast Track, an accelerated program which will allow her to complete her work one semester earlier than other students in her class. Students are selected for Fast Track based on their scholarship.

Miss Ford is a graduate of Cass Technical High School in her hometown at Detroit, Michigan.

With the work load at GMI during each 6-week period of school and her work at AC-Delco Division during the alternating 6-weeks, she says she has little time for other activities. She does, however, enjoy playing tennis and observing spectator sports such as baseball, football and basketball.

In conferring the Honor Society's certificate of recognition to Miss Ford, W. C. "Bill" Lee, general manager of AC-Delco, stated that he was very pleased to have such an outstanding student in the Division, particularly one with the interest and skills Miss Ford has in the computer programming area. He further stated that the Division will continue to have need for computer skills and there will be many career opportunities in this area in the aftermarket parts industry.

In continuing her education, Geraldine plans to take as much advance computer technology as is available at GMI; and further, hopes to continue her study in this area.

The Veterans Administration's dental training center has produced 230 films for use by dentists and allied personnel throughout the United States.
