Duplex Black Gold Music Program Enters Nat'l Scene

By Yolanda Mitchell

Attention Music Lovers! Jimmy Liggins, who has been involved with phonograph records and the entertainment business for the past 28 years as a top recording artist, manager of recording artists, owner of a booking agency for bands, is owner of Duplex Record Label and chief executive of the Duplex Black Gold Music Program (DBGMP).

The DBGMP is designed to assist Black artists to own, sell and distribute the music and talent that they produce. Liggins keeps his popularity rolling as the new national program begins to take hold to the trend of the times by joining with The Carolina Times, which will be carrying exclusive coverage of the Black Gold Music Program and will be distributed through record shops nationally through Duplex National Black Record Distributors, according to Liggins.

The format planned will include news about new artists, independent black-owned record labels, black radio stations and disc jockeys, the records they play, records they pick to be hits, pictures of black clubs, the big and small black operators put together under Duplex National Black Record Distributors and Duplex National Black Record Pool. By buying Duplex-distributed records and products, the purchasers will be getting the best owned by blacks. Says Liggins, "we can't corner the market, but we want a piece of it" — at the same time, helping the advancement of black you.

The public is invited to attend a Black Gold Show and by so doing, you can say out loud, "I'm black and I'm proud" — apologies to Mr. James Brown.
