

BLACK PRESS HEAD DEMANDS FBI END HARASSMENT OF BLACK LEADERS

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — "We demand a statement from you that under your leadership, the Federal Bureau of Investigation will not be a continuing instrument of oppression against all black leaders, black organizations, and ordinary black citizens who are determined to struggle against the blight of racism."

This demand by Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association - the Black Press of America - was made of Clarence Kelley, director of the FBI, last week during a meeting with him in which Goodlett, Jesse Jackson of PUSH and other black leaders took part.

"We await with some concern such a definitive statement," Goodlett added, pointing out that the NNPA's 143 newspapers in more than 90 cities could serve as a vehicle to convey the message to the black masses.

"Black people," Goodlett continued, "have long been aware of the insensitivity of former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. The long period of covert and overt harassment and character assassination carried on by Hoover and the FBI were not unknown to knowledgeable blacks years prior to Watergate..."

Goodlett then turned to Hoover's vilification and attempted character assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and the reported FBI involvement in the murder of Fred Hampton in Chicago and the killing of four other Black Panther members in Los Angeles.

"These events and many crimes yet undisclosed," the Black Press head charges, "have led to a crisis in the Black-USA." Further, Goodlett said that through the Congressional Black Caucus, efforts will be made to limit the term of office to FBI directors to six to eight years.

"Only when blacks have seen manifestations of this new FBI will it be incumbent upon us, individually and collectively, as spokesmen for 25 million blacks, to elevate the FBI and its associated law enforcement agencies to the high pedestal which it once occupied; a federal agency serving the interests of the people, to preserve the law, to preserve order, under the mandate of justice," Goodlett concluded.

ANALYSIS → Angola

EDITOR'S NOTE: The crisis in the African country of Angola seems remote to many blacks in this country. The effects of the positions taken by Angola cannot be extracted from the total world picture, the superpowers will hit you and me. An understanding of the underlying political themes serve to enlighten, forewarn and hopefully move readers to become actively involved by letting their representatives in Congress know their sentiments.

The following is the position of the New York African Liberation Support Committee on the Angolan situation which was presented at the National ALSC meeting in New York on January 9. The NYALSC position is based on their analysis of the situation in Angola set in the context of the world situation.

PREFACE

Although this article is written about the situation in Angola, readers will note that a great deal of discussion is devoted to the Soviet Union. This is necessary to give the reader some understanding about Soviet Social-Imperialism. It is this position of the Soviet Union — Socialist in words, imperialist in deeds — that must be understood to clearly see why both superpowers (the USA and the Soviet Union) must get out of Angola.

In recent days the question of Angola has been much talked about in the news media. The U.S. sending millions of dollars, Russia sending guns, Cuban troops, an invasion by South Africa. What does this mean for the Angolan people, the American people, and the people of the world?

To answer this question we have to first look at the world situation. The world today is not characterized by detente as the two superpowers, the United States and the Soviet Union would have us believe but by two contending trends, war and revolution.

The U.S. and the U.S.S.R. are the two strongest imperialist powers in the world, and are constantly subjecting other countries everywhere to their control, subversion, interference and aggression. Like all imperialisms, they are constantly driven to expand their influence and control. Thus they are locked in the most deadly contention; each restoring to all forms of coercion to try to maintain and expand its robbery around the world. These two superpowers sometimes collude for their mutual gain, for example: 'handshake in space', mediators in conflict, Cambodia, and the Middle East. Yet the heroic struggles of the great majority of the world's people continue, that is to say oppression breeds resistance.

While the focal point of the contention has been Europe it has been happening in Asia, Latin America and Africa. Today its manifestation can be seen clearly in Angola. As the Angolan people struggle to carry out a revolution the two superpowers are struggling with each other to gain hegemony in strategically important Angola.

The U.S. beset with an economic crisis and its recent defeat in Indo-China is madly scrambling all over the world to maintain its position as the leading imperialist power. The defeat of U.S. imperialism in Indo-China is a lesson to the people of the world that; united in struggle, a small country can defeat a large country if that small country has correct line and can rely on the masses of the people.

Russia, since the restoration of Capitalism in that country, has [as has its enemy, U.S. imperialism] been searching near and far to capture new markets.

All over the world we hear talk of detente, but the (See ANGOLA, Page 10)

Cong. P. J. Mitchell Addresses Durham College Alumni Association Banquet

CONGRESSMAN PARREN J. MITCHELL (D-7-MD.) called for an end to the factionalism in black communities as he addressed Durham College Alumni association's banquet in Durham at the Civic Center on Saturday, January 17. More than 200 people attended.

Mitchell argued that factionalism will be a major impediment as blacks launch their bicentennial effort to end racism and discrimination in America.

"We blacks cannot afford the luxury of pitting class against class; light skin against dark skin; laborers against professionals," Mitchell said. Holding that disunity weakens, the black congressman from Maryland stated. "The recalcitrant part of the power structure knows that we will never again permit ourselves to be intimidated by physical or psychological violence; but it also knows that internal fighters within our community will make us economically and politically impotent."

Throughout his speech Mitchell hammered away at the theme, "Unity is Power, Disunity is Impotence."

The audience was a cross section of North Carolina's black population, with community leaders, elected officials, faculty members, students, black businessmen and ministers in attendance.

Following his presentation, congressman Mitchell was given an award by the minority businessmen of North Carolina for his "Untiring efforts on behalf of minority businessmen not only in the state of North Carolina but in the entire nation."

The award was presented by James Hansley, president, Forsythe County Investment Corporation, Winston-Salem, North Carolina and Mr. Floyd McKissick, president of the Soul City Company, Soul City, North Carolina.

Congressman Mitchell was elected to the ninety-second Congress in November, 1970.

In the House of Representatives the congressman serves on the Budget Committee (Subcommittee - Housing and Community Development) and the General Oversight and Renegotiations Committee.

During the first session of the Ninety-fourth Congress which has just been completed, Congressman Mitchell is credited with being instrumental in several major legislative victories which will benefit minority and economically disadvantaged people across the country. For example, early in the first session Mitchell led the successful fight for inclusion of the SBA Oversight and Minority (See MITCHELL, Page 11)
