

Sensational New Recording Artists (Blind)
To Appear At Club Baby Grand Feb. 6

Cal Brandon and Jap Jackson two blind musicians, that like Ray Charles, Lemond Jefferson, Stevie Wonder and other entertainers, who would not let a handicap stop them, has appeared on the music ladder on the way to the top. Riding on a two sided record hit "Keep on Smiling" backed by "24 Hour Love Man", Cal Brandon, who does the singing and playing the electric piano, and is the leader of the group LOVE, JOY and PEACE, told Jimmy Liggins, chief executive of Duplex Black Gold Music Program that he and Jap Jackson had been playing music from the time they were six years old. They traveled with Clarence Carter, now they are out on their own and plan on staying together. The group recorded on Hit Man Record label owned by a black man. Liggins says the the podium for these two performances which feature the talents of world-renowned pianist Andre Watts.

Maestro Gosling, artistic director and conductor of the state's orchestra, has recently returned from guest conducting appearances in Europe and Scandinavia.

Guest soloist Watts, the son of an American Negro GI and his Hungarian wife, has earned an international reputation for keyboard excellence. At age 29, he already has performed with the major orchestras of the world and in solo recitals throughout the Soviet Union, Japan, the United States, Israel, and South America.

Watts began his career before the age of 10 when he performed with the Philadelphia Orchesta. He received national attention when Leonard Bernstein introduced him to millions of television viewers on a New York Philharmonic "Young People's Concert." Later Bernstein engaged the talented young instrumentalist to substitute at the last minute for the ailing Glenn Gould, further enhancing Watts' reputation as one of the keyboard giants of the century. In the ensuing years he continued his piano studies with Leon Fleisher at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore.

His 1966 European debut with the London Symphony and a debut with the Berlin Philharmonic a year later were followed by a world tour for the United States Department of State. Since that time, Watts has had such honors as playing a state, and giving a concert at the coronation festivitie for the Shah of Iran. On Lincoln Center's "Great Performers" series, Watts is the only artist to have been re-engaged nine years in succession, always performing to capacity crowds. He has been the subject of an hour-long documentary on the National Educational Television Network and also of a CBS "Camera Three" show.

A student of the piano who originally took lessons from his mother, Watts also holds an honorary doctorate from Yale University, the youngest person to be so distinguished in more than 200 years.
