Lilly Endowment Supporting Black Church Studies at Duke

By Earl Wolslagel

The Duke University Divinity School has received a two-year, $40,000 grant from the Lilly Endowment, Inc., of Indianapolis, Ind., to expand its program of educational leadership in the Black church.

Dr. Thomas A. Langford, dean of the Divinity School, said that grant will enable the school to set up programs with eight Black churches in Durham to aid in training Black ministerial students.

The churches, he said, would be invited 'into partnership with the school in developing the ministry skills of a growing number of Black students at Duke.'

N.C. Garden Club Holds Meeting

The N.C. area Garden Club held its first meeting on Monday, January 19. Mrs. Nettie Easterling, president was hostess.

The meeting was opened with a song, "This Is My Story" and everyone recited the 23 Psalm, and prayer was by Mrs. Johnson. The minutes were read and adopted.

Mrs. Easterling presided. She stated that "We have a large project to face. Each member should readily do all they can to accomplish it." After the meeting a repass was served.

Mrs. Duciel Markham thanked the hostess for her warm hospitality.

Duke's program in Black Church Studies was established in June 1972. In its first year, 12 black students were enrolled.

Enrollment increased to 21 the next year, and in 1974-75 there were 30 students in the program.

Today, there are 29 men and six women in the Divinity School's master of divinity degree program who are preparing for the ministries and mission of the Black church.

The Lilly Endowment award, with Duke adding $10,000 to the program over the two-year period of the grant, is part of the Endowment's continuing grants-in-aid to the theological education. It counts also toward Duke's Epoch Campaign to raise $162-million. The campaign total as of January 1 was $85 million.

Freezer Loading

If you have a 12-cubic-foot freezer, you can put in 36 pounds of frozen food. When you've added that amount, wait 24 hours before adding more—for maximum efficiency. Keep the same foods together in baskets or on shelves. Foods also may be organized in heavy plastic or mesh bags. Rules for loading a freezer are designed to keep the freezer temperature at zero degrees or lower and to keep food rotating properly for maximum flavor and nutrition.

ROSALIE SCOTT, STAFF ASSISTANT

from CARNATION FOOD SERVICE CENTER

Here's a tasty do-ahead salad you can make to go with most any entree. Crunchy Salad Mold features celery, carrots and cabbage in a gelatin base. Stir in extra nutrition with evaporated milk. The salad looks good, and better still, is good for you.

CRUNCHY SALAD MOLD
(Makes 10 1/2-cup servings)

- 2 packages (3 ounces each) lemon flavored gelatin
- 4 beef bouillon cubes
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 1/2 cups undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 3/4 cup very finely chopped celery
- 3/4 cup very finely chopped carrots
- 3/4 cup very finely chopped red or white cabbage
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped green onion

Dissolve gelatin and bouillon cubes in boiling water. Cool slightly. Beat in evaporated milk and mayonnaise with rotary beater. Chill in refrigerator until consistency of unbeaten egg whites; stir occasionally while chilling. Fold in vegetables. Pour mixture into 5-cup mold. Chill 2 to 3 hours or until firm. Unmold and serve.

Canned Fruits

For desserts, you may prefer fruit canned in heavy syrup. For salads, fruit canned in light syrup or in its own juice is just as good. The syrup or liquid can be used in gelatin salads or desserts without adding too much sweetness. Water-pack fruits and fruits canned with non-nutritive sweeteners help dieters cut calories.

Buying Poultry

When buying poultry, look for the official USDA grade mark on poultry—it is your assurance of quality. U.S. grade A poultry is the finest poultry available, but all inspected poultry is nutritious and wholesome food. The inspection mark of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in the form of a circle is required on all poultry sold across state lines.
