

I LOOKED AND I SAW

By Rev. C. R. Stone

THE SOUL OF MAN

The soul of man is the like image of God found in every human being. If every man is made in the image of God, and he is, man has the likeness of God sealed from within, thus surrounded by human flesh. Anything which is like our God must possess a spiritual nature because God is a spirit. In other words, the soul of man is the dynamic spirit of God sealed within the sinful flesh. The seal in every man's body has been in danger of hell's fire because of the great fall of Adam. Sin has caused a stain in every man's life which can only be removed by the spirit of God made possible to every man as found through the shed blood of Jesus the Christ.

Some people use different words to explain who really saved their souls from hell's fire. One person may say that God saved him; another may say that our Lord saved him, yet another person reveals that the Spirit saved him, but all three individuals are referring to the same channel of our God concerning the processes of the Holy Trinity. The Holy Trinity channel is the only channel whereby the children of man can ever be saved, thus finding their prepared places with our everlasting God. The channel of which your humble servant speaks is a divine way and needs to be considered by every individual. Others may aid an individual in some way, but it is an individual matter of consideration left open until the end of the individual's world.

The truth of the whole matter is this, no other individual has power to cause one to lose his soul altogether. If an individual should reside in hell as his permanent residence, he does so on his own account. Others can tamper with an individual's soul account, but it is within the power of that individual to hold on to his soul account or it is his power to close out his soul account.

The second truth of the whole matter is that God would never be foolish enough to risk an individual's soul for complete salvation in the hand of other sinful men. Since God never has been and cannot be foolish, there are some among us who would not be foolish either. For example, there are some of us who know what we must do in order to retain our sure places with our Father.

God did not intend to burn the likeness of Himself to eternal damnation from the beginning but He will certainly suffer it to be done because of the fall of man as in Adam. If man does not believe that he will burn, let him fail to do his soul work through the Holy Trinity of our God.

He who hath ears to hear—let him hear.

NCHMDP Sponsors Fourth Self-Instructional Material Workshop

The North Carolina Health Manpower Development Program, through its membership in the Health Sciences Consortium, sponsored its fourth Self-Instructional Materials Workshop February 6-7, at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Dr. E. Lavonia Allison, Director of the North Carolina Health Manpower Program, stated that a systematic approach to developing health sciences self-instructional materials was presented at the workshop. The two-day session trained faculty members in the development of competency-based health sciences enrichment materials.

The self-instructional units that was developed will assist in the implementation of health sciences academic enrichment and reinforcement experiences for minority students. Through the use of the enrichment materials the students will have an opportunity to strengthen their backgrounds in the health sciences, thereby becoming more competitive for admission to the health professional school of their choice.

Instructors from 18 predominantly minority institutions in North Carolina and Virginia attended the workshop. These faculty members represented the departments of biology, chemistry, physics and mathematics at their respective schools.

Consultants for the workshop—Dr. Frank R. Penta, Jerry L. Haynes, and Bron Skinner—are members of the Health Sciences Consortium staff. The Consortium is a non-profit organization of thirty health professional schools founded to facilitate the development and sharing of instructional materials in health sciences education.

Only two-billionths of this radiation reaches earth.
