Every day a group of Hillsborough's senior citizens meet at the city fire station for the activities of the Outreach Club. The club provides its members with a hot lunch, transportation for medical visits and special interest trips. It is a function of the Joint Orange and Chatham County Community Action Program (JOCCA).

The site manager for the club is Mrs. Alice Payne who is 71. Mrs. Payne coordinates the various activities of the program. She is aided by the Orange Council on Aging which provides transportation. The hot lunches are provided by JOCCA and are federally funded. Durham Technical Institute provides an Arts and Crafts instructor and she is Mrs. Helen Hereford.

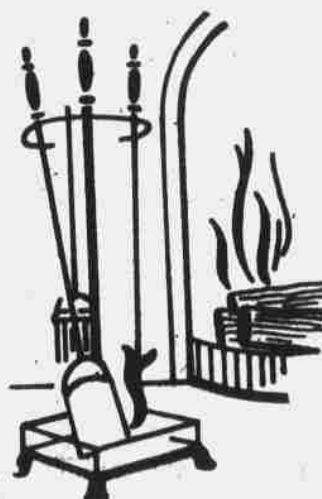

According to Mrs. Hereford, some materials are provided by many are donated by church groups, civic groups and interested citizens. "Some of the crafts have been sold as Christmas presents," Mrs. Hereford said, "and that money will be used to buy more supplies." So, for now, the program is self-sustaining - but donations are always welcome.

Special interest trips to the zoo and shopping malls come up regularly. The main idea of the program is to provide a hot meal and a chance for social interaction for senior citizens. It has been so successful that two of its members recently married.

Of the total public school expenditures for the 1974-75 school year, 67.5% was state funded; 13.3% was federally funded; and 19.2% was funded locally.

A LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS

Young hearts are all aglow with the anticipation of Santa's arrival. There is no doubt that he will leave lots of gifts to bring smiles on Christmas morning. However, some of the best gifts we can give our children are not found underneath a brightly lighted Christmas tree. The following letter written by a child sheds light on the true meaning of Christmas giving - ourselves.

Your Street
Your Town
Today

Dear "Santa Claus":

Could I have for Christmas a stocking full of TIME for my Mummy and Daddy? I don't want any presents for myself, just lots of TIME for Mummy to be with me and for Daddy to be with John. I don't like being an airplane or a horse and I'm tired of screaming like an Indian. Give Daddy TIME to teach John another game, please. I want my Mummy to have TIME to read me nice books. I can't read as fast as she does. I want my Mummy to have TIME to dance with me, she dances a lot along. I want my Mummy to have TIME to take me shopping and buy me a nice pair of black patent leather shoes. You must not bring them to me. I want her to choose them with me. She has a very pretty taste, but no TIME. I want Mummy to have TIME to take my hand and go with me looking at the shops. I want my Mummy to let me show her what I'm learning at school. I want my Mummy to have TIME to see what I do right and not what I do wrong. I want my Mummy to laugh with John and me the way she laughs with her friends.

I want my Mummy to have TIME to be our Mummy. I want her to buy me a book with pretty prayers to that I will have something new to say to God. I want my Mummy to let me help her arrange the flowers. She never does because I take too much TIME doing it. I want my Mummy to dress me like her, not in jeans like my brother John. Mummy says dresses are expensive, but if she taught me to sew I could make them myself, but she has no TIME she says. I want my Mummy to let me brush her hair. She has lots and it is long. It must be fun brushing it but Mummy says it takes too much TIME.

So you see, Santa Claus, all I want for Christmas is a stocking full of TIME for my Mummy and Daddy. We already have everything. A car, a refrigerator, two televisions, a radio, a phonograph, which Mummy never plays when Daddy is not there. We have a telephone, which I'm allowed to answer when Mummy has no TIME to answer it herself. I love doing that. We have lots of food and the doctor says that John and I are very well. So you see, all we need is TIME. Daddy says that TIME IS money. I have no money, but you have, so please, please fill my stocking with plenty of TIME for Mummy and Daddy.

Sincerely,
A Lonely Child
Merry Christmas to you and yours!
