Phyllis Y. Campbell Receives Evelyn Dudley Award

Mrs. Phyllis Y. Campbell, a registered nurse who is to receive the Evelyn C. Dudley Award at the annual awards ceremony of the Pi Chapter of Chi Eta Phi Sorority, a nursing sorority, is a member of the Oakwood College, Huntsville, Ala., and received her diploma in professional nursing from North Carolina Central University in May, was given the Evelyn C. Dudley Inspirational Award at Awards Day exercises Friday, April 1 at NCCU.

The award is given by Pi Chapter of Chi Eta Phi Sorority, a nursing sorority. Recipients are selected on the basis of personal traits, clinical competence, and intellectual curiosity from among working health professionals, pursuing the Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree at NCCU.

The award is named for the late Evelyn C. Dudley, a charter member of the chapter (chartered in 1955) and its first basileus (president).

Mrs. Campbell attended Oakwood College, Huntsville, Ala., and received her diploma in professional nursing from the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital School of Nursing, Hinsdale, Ill.

She has worked as a staff nurse in hospitals in Chicago, Nashville, and Durham, most recently at Duke University Hospital. She was an instructor and coordinator at the Riverside Hospital School of Practical Nursing in Nashville.

She is the wife of Dr. Charles E. Campbell, Dental Director of the Orange-Charlotte Comprehensive Health Services, Carrboro. They have lived in Chapel Hill for three years.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raulins L. Maycock of Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Campbell is a member of Immanuel Temple Seventh-Day Adventist Church, the Oakwood College Alumni Association, the Nurses and Nurses' Aide Club of Immanuel Temple, the South Atlantic Conference of Seventh-Day Adventist Health Council, and the Black Adventist Medical and Dental Association Auxiliary.

Local Students Learn Film-making

Students in nine of the state's school systems will have an opportunity to learn film-making during the 1977-78 school year through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

The nine school systems selected to participate in the film-making program are: Reidsville, Durham, Fayetteville, Concord, Shelby, Alamance County, Moore County, Hoke County and Robeson County.

The grant, matched by $1,000 in local funds, will pay the salary of a professional film-maker to work with students in local schools for twenty school days during the 1977-78 school year to teach them the basics of making films.

The program is being made possible through the efforts of the National Endowment for the Arts, the North Carolina Arts Council, and the Department of Public Instruction.

Calendar

Friday, April 1:

8 p.m. — Mrs. Marzella Webb of Marzella's Boutique will present a Fashion Show and Musical Bash in support of the NAACP Fund efforts at the Durham Civic Center. Participants in the "Bash" will include three dance groups from Greensboro. Brother Yusuf Salim will provide music for the Fashion Models. The Boogie Masters will play for dancing after the Fashion Parade. There will be many gifts from downtown stores. Refreshments will be served. Donation for the affair is $5.00.

Saturday, April 2:

8:30 a.m. — A DAY FOR DANCING — One of the first signs of spring in the Triangle area is the arrival of "A Day for Dancing." Sponsored by Dance Associates of the Durham Arts Council, this event, one of the growing traditions in the area, from nine to five p.m. at the Edison Johnson Recreation Center in Durham.

Approximately fifty one hour classes will be taught by local instructors at a cost of fifty cents per class. Though there will be advanced instruction in some classes such as ballet and modern dance, "A Day for Dancing" is designed primarily for those members of the community who would like to experience forms of dance ranging from tap to Tai Chi, or from belly dancing to Balinese.

Paul Hirschfeld, who along with Ann Hesla, is co-chairman of the event said that the day is meant for fun and involvement. "Dance has grown to be one of the most popular art forms. In "A Day for Dancing" we want to invite the community to get together and have a good time through different expressions of dance movement."

Pre-registration forms are available at the Durham Arts Council, 810 Proctor Street in Durham, and the New Performing Dance Studio above the Book Exchange at Five Points in Durham. Forms may also be obtained through Bounds Dance Studio, Chapel Hill, and area Record Bars.

Registration will begin at the Edison Johnson Recreation Center at 8:30 on April 2, and continue until classes are filled. The Center is located on Murray Street, off N. Roxboro St., in Durham — across the street from The Museum of Life and Science. For further information, call 967-5001, 933-5046 or 477-0055.

Sunday, April 3:

3 p.m. — At the N. C. Museum of Art in Raleigh, the Durham Chamber Music Guild presents Sonatas by Telemann, Quantz, Vivaldi, J. S. Bach. Admission is free.

Sunday, April 3:

Saturday, May 14:

Tickets for the annual display of Boy Scout and Cub Scout handicrafts, skills and activities — the Scout-a-Rania — to be held at the Duke University Intramural Gymnasium are on sale for $1 from any Boy or Cub Scout.

The event is sponsored by Durham's Tobaccoland Kiwanis Club. Dr. Harry Tyrer of the Tobaccoland Kiwanians is chairman of the event.

Half the proceeds of the ticket sales go to the Scout units selling the tickets. Troops and packs may finance their special activities for the year through these ticket sales.

Scout leaders whose units have not received tickets may pick them up at D. C. May & Co., 215 Morris St., or call Johnny Finch at 682-2338 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Linwood Long Appointed Planning Chief

RALEIGH — Improving the quality of life through long-range and short-range planning efforts is the responsibility of Linwood Long as he became the Chief of Local Planning and Management for the Community Assistance Division of the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

Long, 32, is responsible for planning efforts conducted for local governments through seven regional offices scattered around the state. The operation is supported by a budget of more than $2.5 million of state and federal funds.

Local governments under 50,000 are able to get planning assistance from Long's office to conduct water and sewer utilization studies, land-use studies and zoning plans and many others that are necessary for policy makers to make wise decisions as they allocate resources.

The studies conducted by the planning staff often provide information, that when utilized by local governments, influences whether industries will locate in the towns or county's planning area.

Questioned about the relationship of planning to industry relocation to North Carolina towns, Long said "when industry locates we still have to determine the impact upon services needed." He says that "industry should do more than raise the per capita income, but also improve the quality of life."

Long is a graduate of Saint Augustine's College where he received a degree in sociology and Georgia State University where he received a master's in Public Administration.

He looks upon his appointment as an instance of blacks moving in non-traditional roles in the Hunt Administration to the N. C. Central U.
