Howard Announces $100,000 Grant in Insurance

Howard University has announced a four-year $100,000 grant to its Center for Insurance Education from the Travelers Insurance Companies.

In accepting a first installment check for $25,000 from Travelers Senior Vice President Robert W. Feagles, Dr. Roger D. Estep, vice president for development and university relations, said, "Through the support of the Travelers and other insurance companies, we are training highly qualified, highly motivated and academically well balanced professionals who will be capable of stepping into any insurance specialty."

Students must have at least half of their credits in liberal arts, a third in general business and the rest in specialized courses on insurance, Dr. Estep explained.

"We are pleased to expand our involvement in the Center through this unrestricted grant," said Feagles. "This funding will make it possible for more students to prepare for the many career opportunities in our industry."

This summer The Travelers also will provide on-the-job experience for nine students as part of the Center's summer intern program. This year, the Center will have approximately 70 summer interns. Last year, it had 10 summer interns.

Before the students start their assignments, they will attend an intensive orientation session from May 13 to 25 at the University of Hartford. The training staffs of The Travelers and other Hartford insurers participating in the intern program will familiarize the students with the operations to which they will be assigned.
