"Who Killed King?" Marks Anniversary

On Saturday, April 7th, the 11th anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., public television will air "Who Killed King?" a one-hour program based on 20 days of hearings by the U.S. House of Representatives Select Committee on Assassinations last August and November.

"Who Killed King?" — a production of WETA/26, Washington, D.C. — will be transmitted nationally by the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) at 9 p.m. ET. (Check local listings.) It will be aired by WETA/26 April 7 at 9 p.m. and April 8 at 11 a.m.

The program will consist of edited highlights from the committee hearings, looking to the final report of the committee which will be made public in late April or early May.

Widely regarded as the most influential black leader of this century, Dr. King's theories of non-violent resistance to discrimination were the inspiration of most of the civil rights legislation of the 1960's. His murder sparked the worst riots of the century.

Dr. King was killed by a single bullet as he stood on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel in Memphis, Tenn., where he was preparing to lead a second march in support of striking sanitation workers.

After having led marches in Selma, Montgomery and throughout the South for desegregation of lunch counters and buses and for other civil rights, King now turned his attention to economic survival and attacks on the war in Vietnam.

Evidence at the scene indicated that the shooting had been done by James Earl Ray, a petty criminal escaped from Missouri State Penitentiary, Ray fled and embarked on a long adventure of escape. Finally captured in England and brought back, he pled guilty.

The question of who killed King remained, however. Critics pointed to the fact that security had been removed from King's hotel room, that the FBI had systematically persecuted and discredited him. There were charges of Justice Department and CIA complicity in his murder, and even suspicion of his own group.

Evidence presented to the House Select Committee included three days of testimony by James Earl Ray and testimony by representatives of the FBI, the CIA, the Department of Justice and others.

Denise Baker Coleman of WETA is the reporter for "Who Killed King?" Producer of the program is Elvera Ruby.

"Who Killed King?" is made possible by grants from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and the Ford Foundation.
