INTERNECINE PROJECT

When a prominent economist is offered a high-level government post, he turns to murder to eliminate the skeletons in his closet, in 'The Internecine Project,' suspense movie starring James Coburn (pictured) and Lee Grant, to be broadcast for the first time on television on 'The CBS Tuesday Night Movies,' Tuesday, June 19.

Robert Elliot (Coburn) is a sophisticated and brilliant economist working for an international conglomerate, supervising and arranging industrial spying and political sabotage. But, to the public, he is the epitome of the distinguished academic. To the great satisfaction of his employers, he is up for a high-level post as a Presidential advisor.

Miss Grant stars as a reporter, once in love with Elliot, who is aware of how far he has let power corrupt him. Keenan Wynn plays a wheeling-dealing lawyer behind the corporate manipulations.
