

Hauser Cousins Gather After Long Absence

WINSTON-SALEM—Much family history was discussed and reviewed when Doctors C. Brady, William M. and Harold L. Hauser gathered at 2072 K Court Avenue during the Christmas holidays.

William came to town from North Andover, Mass., where he is Supervisor of Digital Systems Outside Plant Group for Bell Laboratories. He visited Brady and other relatives.

Harold came from Orangeburg, S.C., where he is Professor of Chemistry and Associate Coordinator of Research, Planning and Extension at South Carolina State College. He was visiting his father and other family members and relatives.

Brady who lives at 2072 K Court, is a retired Administrator and Professor of Education at Winston-Salem State University. In retirement, he pursues a number of hobbies and engages in "community betterment work."

The Housers are the grandsons of the late Martin L. Hauser who was born on the plantation of the late T. C. Hauser near Yadkinville two years after the end of slavery. He was the father of seven children, four of whom survive. He was the community butcher prior to his death.

This was the first time that the Hauser cousins had been together since childhood. A large part of their conversation dealt with their struggles to secure their education. Brady grew up in Yadkinville but had to go to Lexington to high school as Yadkin County, at that time, provided no education for blacks beyond elementary school. He received his undergraduate education at Winston-Salem State University, and a master's and a Doctor of Education degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

William and Harold are natives of and received their public schooling in Winston-Salem. William did is undergraduate work at Swarthmore College and earned the master's and Ph.D. degrees at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Harold is a graduate of North Carolina Central University with a master's and a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Wayne University.

During their conversations, the Civil Rights Movement came in for much consideration. Brady shared with the group some articles with pictures showing his arrest in 1947 for civil disobedience which resulted in his collecting $2,000 from the Greyhound Bus Co.

While they discussed family roots, Brady, who is president of the family clan, showed some slides of past family reunions which the clan has held, and he pointed out older family members who are now deceased. Harold's two daughters, Sonya and Karen, found the discussion and slides very interesting and enlightening.

The group was reminded that the idea of a family reunion originated with, and was held at the home of, their grandfather, Martin Hauser. Also, that in the early fifties, the reunion got national coverage in Ebony Magazine as the descendants of the slave master, the late T.C. Hauser, and the descendants of his slaves were holding joint reunions. This was unprecedented, and evoked nationwide

Wachovia Offers 30-Month Savings Certificate

Wachovia Bank and Trust Company offers a new high yielding 30-month savings certificate. It became effective January 2. The certificate has a minimum deposit of $500 and a rate which will be based on Treasury instruments.

The rate will be guaranteed for the 2 1/2-year term. "This new certificate offers an opportunity for consumers to assure themselves a high return for an extended period of time," said James T. Brewer, head of curiosity. Much pride was expressed in Fay's role in "Roots II, The Second Generation," and "Christmas Lilies of the Fields." Fay is Brady's daughter.

Other items of conversation included the Hauser Student Union building at Winston-Salem State University, and plans for a more definitive family history. The group plans more frequent "get togethers."

Wachovia's Retail Banking Department. "Based on the recent yields on treasury instruments, our certificate would currently have an effective yield of more than 11 percent."

Brewer said the new certificate will also appeal to consumers who have less than the $10,000 required to invest in the popular six-month certificate.

The new certificate was created December 14, 1979 by federal regulatory authorities to replace a four-year money market certificate which has been offered since July. The Treasury Department will announce monthly the maximum rate that can be paid on certificates issued during that month.

The federal action also included a 1/4 percent increase in rates which financial institutions are allowed to pay on 90-day certificates of deposit. Wachovia will offer 5 3/4 percent interest on its three-month certificates which began January 2.

Dolly Dewey to Hold Press Conference Fri.

A press conference will be held by Dolly Dewey, Republican Chairman, Fourth Congressional District, Friday, January 4 at 10 a.m. at the Holiday Inn Downtown, 320 Hillsborough St., Raleigh.

Announcement of the press conference follows speculation that Republican Thurman R. Hogan, a member of the Randolph County Commissioners, will run against Democrat U. S. Representative Ike Andrews in the Fourth District in 1980.

"My phone has been ringing off the hook since an article about Hogan appeared in Under the Dome this week," Dewey said. "Republicans and Democrats, from throughout the district, have called to offer their support to Hogan. Our district is one of the most important in the state, encompassing the Capitol area. We just have not had the positive leadership in Washington that our district warrants, so voters are very interested in this race."

Hogan will let his decision be known at the press conference. In addition to Dewey and Hogan, the press conference will be attended by Stock Car Race Driver Richard Petty; U. S. Senator Jesse Helms; GOP State Chairman Jackson Lee; GOP gubernatorial hopeful Beverly Lake; GOP Senatorial Candidate John East; Randolph County GOP Chairman Alan Pugh; Wake County GOP Chairman William Stuckey and other prominent leaders from across the state.

The Fourth Congressional District includes Wake, Chatham, Durham and Randolph counties.

Grant Received For Reading Program

North Carolina's first statewide children's summer reading program has received a $10,000 grant from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation, according to an announcement today by Secretary Sara W. Hodgkins of the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources.

"From Hatteras to Cherokee; Polktales and Legends of North Carolina" is the title of the program scheduled for summer 1980 and administered by the State Library of North Carolina. The program is designed to enhance children's interest in North Carolina history and in local history and legends as well. In addition, the theme is broad enough to lend itself easily to individuality in each library's program, according to Diana Young, consultant for children's services for the State Library, and coordinator of the program. The program was planned by a committee of ten children's librarians from public libraries across the state, and will be the first in an annual statewide event.

The theme features a map of North Carolina that will be crossed by tiny Tarheels (via a rubber stamp) as a child reads various books. The package includes posters, reading folders, record of books read, booklists and completion certificates. The certificate will bear the signature of Governor James B. Hunt Jr.

These materials are being offered without charge to North Carolina public libraries, who will then tailor the program to fit their own needs and localities, according to Ms. Young.

Ron Jones of the Wake County Department of Library is art designer for the project.

The Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation was established in 1936 as a memorial to the younger son of the founder of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company to provide a trust for the benefit of the people of North Carolina. The Foundation, drawing on the income from the Zachary Smith Reynolds Trust and the William Neal Reynolds Trust, has now made grants totaling more than $88 million to recipients in almost all of North Carolina's 100 counties. Major attention has been given to education and health care, with increased interest in recent years in recreational services, cultural activities, rural life, the handicapped and some twenty other fields of concern.
