ALL-CAMPUS CARNIVAL—Old-fashioned fun for children of all ages will abound when Duke University presents the second annual All-Campus Carnival. From 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, March 29, Duke's West Campus Quad will be filled with colorful clowns, big balloons, cotton candy, hot dogs, games, and contests.

The carnival is a joint effort among forty student organizations at Duke to raise money for Camp Kaleidoscope - Duke Medical Center's new summer camp for chronically ill children. This year, with your help, about sixty children with cancer, leukemia, hemophilia, and cystic fibrosis who could never attend the camps most of us enjoyed as kids, may be given a once in a lifetime chance.

Come celebrate spring with your children at the Carnival. Listen to Mary Lou Williams, the Duke Wind Symphony, blue grass bands, and other student groups perform on stage. Win hats, goldfish, and stuffed animals in the game booths designed by student groups. The kids get a balloon from Miss Wendy, and you can win a free trip for two to England.

Admission is free and there's plenty of parking space.
