Spoletto Festival To Be Aired On Channel 4

Highlights of the 1980 Spoletto Festival, held in Charleston, South Carolina, will be broadcast on UNC-TV each weekday evening on Channel 4 at 6:30 p.m. beginning Monday, May 26.

The ten half-hour programs capture all the flavor and excitement of this annual cultural arts festival. Each program focuses on a different aspect of the festival, offering interviews as well as excerpts of ballet, theatre, cinema and music events.

In the three years that the Spoletto Festival has been held in Charleston it has grown from a regional event to one of national prominence.

This year's festival features the world premiere of Arthur Miller's new play, "The American Clock." Filmmaker Orson Welles is profiled as an actor, director and producer in a tribute to his work. For dance fans there are performances by the Alwin Nikolais Dance Theatre, the Joyce Trisler Danscompany, and Maria Benitez and Estampa Flamenca.

Census Bureau Reports On Nursing Homes

A recent U.S. Census Bureau report showed that 90 percent of Americans in nursing homes are satisfied with the care they receive and with their environment. The same survey also showed that more than 90 percent of residents' next-of-kin were satisfied with the care being provided to their relatives in nursing homes.

Many aged and ill Americans have found a place where they can be comfortable and well cared for.

According to Don Brewer, President of the American Health Care Association, the nation's largest federation of nursing homes and allied long term health care providers, "this report should convince any fair-minded person that America's nursing homes are providing the best possible care to their consumers."

Brewer added, "Those who continue to condemn this vital sector of our nation's health care delivery system for the past and well-prosecuted sins of a few only contribute to the fear of aging and perpetuate unwarranted guilt feelings among those who must seek professional help for their loved ones."

Remove hard callus skin without cutting, scraping!

From feet, hands, elbows. Doctors find that hard, thick calluses often can be softened and removed medically. The same ingredient doctors find so effective is available in DERMA+SOFT™ Medical Formula for Hard Callused Skin.
