

North Carolina Legends Is Out

RALEIGH — North Carolina's rich heritage of yarns, tales of mystery and the supernatural, and stories of the famous and infamous are brought together in a new book by Richard Walser, now available.

North Carolina Legends, the largest collection of its kind, is published by the Historical Publications Section of the Department of Cultural Resources. Story titles such as "The Witch Bride," "Bladenboro's Vampire Beast," "The Moon-Eyed People," and "Siren of the French Broad River" offer insight as to why folklore has added color to North Carolina life. In the 77-page book, the reader will be reminded of the origin of some of the sayings and tales he has heard as a youngster or oldster, and those not heard before will be a special treat. Author Richard Walser is a well-known writer of North Caroliniana, and Bill Ballard, whose drawings illustrate the legends, gives a new and exciting twist to the stories. North Carolina Legends is available at $2.50 a copy at selected bookstores or from the Historical Publications

Section, Division of Archives and History, Department of Cultural Resources, 109 E. Jones St., Raleigh, NC 27611. A $6 hardback edition will be available later in the summer.
