

ECSU Plans New Degree Program

ELIZABETH CITY — Earlier granted "Authorization to Plan," Elizabeth City State University is now in the process of planning to establish four new degree-granting programs in the arts and sciences. With approval from the General Administration of The University of North Carolina system, ECSU plans to expand its career-oriented curriculum with programs in Accounting, Computer Science, Applied Mathematics, and Music (non-teaching). Three of the new programs are targeted for implementation by August, 1981.

"We are very appreciative of these new developments and of the support that we have received from the UNC-General Administration as we seek to become 'The University of Northeastern North Carolina,'" Dr. Jimmy R. Jenkins, vice chancellor for Academic Affairs, said in making the announcement.

Dr. Jenkins indicated that the request to change the title of Police Science Technology to Criminal Justice was also approved. The proposed new programs, when implemented, will impact significantly on ECSU's minority (white) enrollment.

The Accounting program fulfills a statewide need for accountants in that the demand is expected to exceed supply into the 1980's, projected Dr. John H. Carson, chairman, Department of Business and Economics. The new program, formerly an Accounting Concentration, is designed to increase the levels of excellence and proficiency as students train for positions in the accounting profession, for successful admission to professional schools, or for successful completion of the Uniform Certified Public Accountants Examination.

Observing that only two universities provide programs in mathematical and theoretical statistics, Dr. Sohinder Sachdev, chairman, Department of Mathematical Sciences, noted that the new program in Applied Mathematics, when implemented, will be the first in the state. Careful consultation with the Mathematical Association of America and other similar associations, and formulation of the proposed curriculum extends the planning process at least through September, 1981.

In documenting the need for the new program in Applied Mathematics, and during the process of writing this proposal, Dr. Sachdev also discovered a high level of interest among ECSU students in a new program in Computer Science. Designed to be similar to the Computer and Information Science program at five other state universities, the ECSU program will stress "application of computers and computing to physical, biological, social, managerial and behavioral sciences."

The proposed new non-teaching program in Music leads to the BA degree. Assessing that "music is the eight largest industry in the country," Dr. Edna L. Davis, chairman, Department of Music, revealed that the program will include a track in music merchandising and a track in music and related arts. These are designed primarily to prepare persons for various positions in music businesses and community arts management. The department hopes to be able to accept enrollees in August, 1981.

Insure 2B teeth

Some 60 million Americans are covered by dental insurance — more than 10 times the total insured a decade ago — according to the Health Insurance Institute.

By 1985, the American Dental Association predicts, dental insurance will be extended to cover 95 million persons.
