

Elon College Bests NCCU Eagles 28-14

North Carolina Central University had its bubble burst 28-14 when they were upended by the Elon College Fighting Christians at Durham County Stadium.

Elon (3-1) racked up 343 yards in total offense, while holding the vaunted Eagles offensive unit to 222 yards; only 46 rushing. In what was to be a battle of the halfbacks—Elon's Bobby Hedrick and NCCU's Roscoe Burnette didn't quite pan out that way. Hedrick rushed for 93 yards in 29 carries, while Burnette was able to muster only 54 yards in 23 carries.

Central saw its record drop to 3-1.

Elon scored the first three touchdowns on a Don Ricks fumble recovery in the end zone; a Bobby Hedrick 2 yard run and a 48 yard pass play from John Bangle to Joey Hackett.

Central got on the scoreboard late in the second period when Michael Worthy went seven yards for the score. A 63 yard pass play from senior quarterback Charles Yuille to Carl Sanders set up Worthy's score.

In the third period, Hedrick scored his second touchdown of the game at the 7:14 mark.

Central countered with a fourth stanza touchdown when Yuille tossed the ball 13 yards to sophomore split end Victor Hunter.

The Eagles, who continue to lead the CIAA with a 3-0 conference mark, travel to Fayetteville State this Saturday night to face the Broncos.

Yuille completed 10 of 20 passes for 176 yards and a touchdown.

His favorite receiver Carl Sanders caught 5 passes for 127 yards and Victor Hunter had four catches for 43 yards.

Ready For Fourth Try

LARRY HOLMES: I'm Not Going To Be The One To Get Knocked Out

Undefeated World Boxing Council Heavyweight Champion Larry Holmes says, "It will be a cold day in hell" before Muhammad Ali whips him.

Holmes made the comment while discussing next Thursday's (October 2) title defense against Ali in Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

"I don't see the fight going fifteen rounds," the champion with a 36-0 won-loss record predicts. "I don't see the fight going ten to fifteen rounds. I am not going to be the one to get knocked out. It has to be a cold day in hell if Ali beats me and I don't think Ali can beat me. I will be ready to do what I have to do to win."

More than a million people will watch Muhammad Ali make this comeback attempt against Holmes Thursday for the WBC World Heavyweight Championship.

They will be watching on closed circuit TV in more than 300 arenas, auditoriums, theaters, stadiums, and one strip joint. That's right, even the Cabaret in San Jose, receivers, the quarterback should have these guys shot at sunrise.

Play of the Year (so far): Did you catch this in the Washington-Seattle game? Zorn went back to pass, the ball was deflected into the air, at least fourteen hands from both teams touched it before it finally fell incomplete. That's what makes this game so great.

Calif., which normally offers a fare of male strippers, will be "on line" for the fight. Tickets are $20 and $25.

There will be no home television or radio of this fight.

Why did the champion from Easton, Pa., decide to fight Ali after saying he wouldn't when first approached about meeting the three-time champ?

"There are a lot of reasons," Larry explains, "this is a money proposition because I can't win. If I beat him up, people are going to say he was old. If he whips me, people will say I was never anything. The only thing I can do is make money ($6-8 million). When I whip him, I will remove some of the doubt from the minds of some people. But some people will always ask, 'what would happen if he had met Ali in his prime? I feel if we had both met at the age of thirty, I would have won.'"

It is the opinion of Larry Holmes that he hasn't received the type of publicity he deserves from sports fans.

"An athlete as good as me doesn't usually receive the type of publicity they deserve until they retire," he says seriously. "I don't think I will get my just due until I retire. I don't have things going for me like Ali did. Things like the draft, his becoming a Muslim and them getting behind him. I never had that."

"I just fought my way up the ladder by fighting everyone. I didn't get the ABC or CBS or NBC networks behind me like they did Sugar Ray Leonard. I think action speaks louder than words. That will happen on October 2."

The preliminary bouts include former heavyweight champ Leon Spinks vs. Bernardo Mercado and Saoul Mamby vs. Termitte Watkins for the WBC World Super Lightweight Championship.

Detroit, Buffalo, San Diego, Remain Unbeaten

By Larry Barber
After four weeks of National Football League action, three of the 28 teams remain unbeaten, down from five a week ago.

My prognostications called for two to fall, but not the two that did. Philadelphia, 24-14 losers to St. Louis, and San Francisco, which lost 20-17 to Atlanta, fell from the undefeated ranks, while Detroit roared by Minnesota 27-7, Buffalo roped the Raiders 24-7, to maintain unblemished worksheets.

Last week's predictions had Buffalo and Detroit losing, but these two teams have shown that they are for real. On Sunday, Billy Sims, Detroit's brilliant rookie, ran through Minnesota for 157 yards, Gary Danielson threw two touchdown passes, and the Lions' defense allowed only seven points for the third straight week. Buffalo's rookie Joe Cribbs rushed for ninety yards, ran for a score, and scored on a pass play to lead the Bills. San Diego took advantage of Chiefs mistakes, and Kellen Winslow caught two TD passes to send the Chargers to 4-0, and drop K.C. to 0-4. St. Louis's upset win was its first victory of the season, while Atlanta evened its mark at 2-2.

In other games, Pittsburgh got back on the winning track with a 38-3 blast over Chicago, Cleveland beat Tampa Bay 34-27, Dallas downed Green Bay 28-7, Los Angeles jumped the N.Y. Giants by the same score, Miami left New Orleans 0-4 with a 21-16 win, Baltimore kept the N.Y. Jets winless, crushing them 35-21, Seattle shut Washington out 14-0, and New England leveled Denver 23-14 Monday night.

Until last weekend, the NFC and AFC stood 4-4 in interconference play, but the AFC swept four games Sunday.

The top contest this Sunday will be a battle of unbeaten, Buffalo at San Diego, look for the home team to pull it out. However, it will be a rough day for most homeanders with Miami losing to Baltimore, Green Bay to Cincinnati, Cleveland to Denver, Atlanta to Detroit, the N.Y. Jets to New England, Minnesota to Pittsburgh, New Orleans to St. Louis, and Tampa Bay to Chicago Monday night.

Other than San Diego winning at home, Houston should hold off Seattle. It will be Philadelphia over Washington, Oakland over K.C., Dallas over the Giants, and Los Angeles over San Francisco.

Last week's predictions went 9-5, bringing this season's record to 34-22.

Elson's Crazy NFL Weekly Top Ten

By Elson Armstrong
The 1980 NFL season seems like it's going to be the most unpredictable ever and it's really great to see teams like Detroit and Buffalo finally become legitimate contenders. After four weeks here's a ranking of what I consider as the best of the NFL.

1. Pittsburgh — The awesome Steelers can lose sometimes only when they beat themselves which is what happened against the Bengals, Chicago found out that it's not good to play them after an embarrassing defeat.

2. Houston — Bum Phillips, Ken Stabler, and Earl Campbell make quite a "marriage" and the entire city of Houston is celebrating the honeymoon.

3. San Diego — It's hard to believe that seven years ago, the Chargers hired a head shrink to counter a losing attitude, now other NFL teams may hire shrink, to find ways to stop the Chargers.

4. Dallas — Last Sunday the Cowboys may have found the ultimate way to get revenge on Green Bay's Bart Starr (who beat them in two NFL Title games in 1966 and 67) by pounding the 'Pack, they may have cost old Bart his job.

5. Buffalo — The City

on Lake Erie is jumping as Chuck Knox has finally brought them a winner and they love it.

6. Detroit — They're singing "Another one Bites the Dust" in the Silver Dome and for Lion opponents have done just that.

7. Philadelphia — So the Eagles lost to St. Louis, they'll be flying high real soon.

8. Los Angeles — The NFL's version of a soap opera seems to have finally settled down enough to play some real football for a change.

9. Miami — The Dolphins seem to play at their best when they are more than ten points behind in the fourth quarter.

10. San Francisco — In California the 49ers are the rage from Fresno to the Oregon border. They call them the Roaring back 49ers and they almost roared from way behind to catch Atlanta but alas the time ran out.

Flop teams of the Year: 1. New York (Jets) — Jimmy "The Greek's" Super Bowl team, Ha!!!

2. Washington — The Redskins appear to be headed for the Toilet Bowl.
