Masterpiece Celebrates Tenth Anniversary

Masterpiece Theatre will celebrate its tenth anniversary with a 22-week "Festival of Favorites," a selection of highlights of a decade of programming which will air beginning May 3 at 9 p.m.

"The Golden Bowl," a six-part dramatization of Henry James' psychological novel by Jack Pulham, who also wrote the teleplays for "I, Claudius" and "Crime and Punishment," will kick off the "Festival." "The Golden Bowl," first presented on Masterpiece Theatre in 1973, stars Jill Townsend (she married Francis in "Poldark") as Maggie Verver and Barry Morse as her rich father.

Also on the retrospective schedule is Balzac's "Cousin Bette" (1972), the story of a woman's revenge that is generally considered the first of the naturalistic French novels. Playing the title role in the five-episode drama is Margaret Tyzack, who made her Masterpiece Theatre debut ten years ago in the drama series; first presentation, "The First Churchills." The "Festival of Favorites" will also reprise "Sunset Song" (1976), Lewis Grassie Gibbon's novel about the maturation of a 16-year-old farmer's daughter, Chris Guthrie, one of the great heroines of Scottish literature. Vivian Heilbron stars as Chris, a young girl forced as she grows up to choose between her physical, sensual, emotional instincts and her intellect. Directed by Moira Armstrong, who also directed this season's "Testament of Youth," the six-episode mini-series is set in a small Scottish community in the beautiful windswept hills of Kincardineshire in the early 1900s.

Selected episodes from the multi-Emmy award winning "Upstairs, Downstairs," the series that brought the Bellamys and their below-stairs entourage into American living rooms for four consecutive seasons, will complete the schedule.
