

Charles Darwin's Epic Journey Aboard Beagle Recreated

In the 1830's, an energetic young naturalist named Charles Darwin set sail from England on a five-year voyage to the Southern Hemisphere. Darwin's observations of ancient fossils and strange wildlife during that expedition formed the basis for his landmark work, "The Origin of Species," and for the still-controversial theory of evolution.

Darwin's voyage aboard the H.M.S. Beagle is recreated for television in a new seven-part dramatic series, The Voyage of Charles Darwin premiering Tuesday, August 11 at 10 p.m. on Center Channel 4. Based on the great scientist's own journals, the series of hour-long dramas follows Darwin's career from his early university life, through the Beagle expedition and the subsequent controversy surrounding his startling theories of evolution.

Nearly a year in production, the series was filmed on location in England and South America. To achieve authenticity, the show's cast and crew filmed in Darwin's actual homes and schools, sailed the same South American coastline, made the same arduous treks into the Andes Mountains, landed on the Galapagos Islands, and braved the rough seas off the Tierra Del Fuego in an exact, fully functioning replica of H.M.S. Beagle created especially for the series.

Malcolm Stoddard stars as the youthful Charles Darwin, while Andrew Burt is featured as Robert FitzRoy, the aristocratic captain of the Beagle whose adherence to traditional beliefs presented Darwin with the first of many clashes over his controversial theories. The series is hosted by Neil Armstrong, former commander for Apollo 11 and the first man to walk on the moon.

"Stacy Lattisaw Week"

Cotillion recording artist Stacy Lattisaw was recently honored in Washington, D. C. by the National Council of Negro Women. The youngest person ever to be honored by this organization, the 14-year-old singer was presented with the Mary McCloud Bethune Award. Stacy was cited for her musical achievements and was acknowledged as a source of inspiration and encouragement for the youth of Washington, her hometown, as well as for young people across the nation. Last month, Washington Mayor Marion Barry declared

"Stacy Lattisaw Week" in the capital.

Stacy Lattisaw's new Cotillion album, With You, is currently bulleting up the national pop and R&B charts. The LP's first single pick, "Love On A Two Way Street," has hit the Top Ten on the R&B charts, while also moving quickly up the pop listings. With You, Stacy's third album, was produced and arranged by Atlantic recording artist Narada Michael Walden. Miss Lattisaw has just embarked on a major, two-month North American tour with The Jacksons.
