Richmond To Be Installed As NCCU Chancellor Oct. 17

North Carolina Central University chancellor-emeritus Albert N. Whiting will be the guest speaker, and University of North Carolina President C.D. Spangler, Jr., will preside as NCCU formally installs Dr. Tyroneza R. Richmond as Chancellor Saturday morning, October 17.

The installation ceremony will begin with a procession of delegates from other American universities and colleges at 10 a.m. October 17 at the university's R.L. McDougald Gymnasium.

Chancellor Richmond assumed the post on July 1, 1986, succeeding Dr. LeRoy T. Walker. Walker had been appointed chancellor by UNC President William C. Friday and served during a three-year search for a successor to Dr. Whiting, who retired on June 30, 1983, after 16 years as the last president and first chancellor of the Durham institution.

the season is Wole Soyinka's "The Jero Plays," which will be shown Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday night at 8:15 during the week, and at 3:15 p.m. Sunday, October 18.

A reception for NCCU faculty members, staff members, and students is scheduled at 5 p.m., Wednesday, October 14, at the W.G. Pearson Dining Hall.

A Benefactors Forum honoring donors to the university's program will be held at 3 p.m., Thursday, October 15, at the Alfonso Elder Student Union.

A concert by the NCCU Concert and Touring Choirs is scheduled at 8:15 p.m. Friday, October 16, at B.N. Duke Auditorium. A reception at the Farrison-Newton Communications Building will precede the concert.

The Installation Exercises and speeches by Chancellor-Emeritus Whiting and Chancellor Richmond are the highlights for Saturday. An inaugural reception will follow the exercises at the LeRoy T. Walker Physical Education and Recreation Complex, and official delegates will be guests of the university at a luncheon at 1 p.m. Saturday at the W.G. Pearson Cafeteria.

The inaugural week and the installation exercises have been planned by a committee chaired by Dr. Charles V. Holland of Raleigh, who chaired the Board of Trustees and the Search Committee which nominated Richmond.

FREEDOM FUND HONOREE — Mrs. Florine Roberson (l) poses with R. Kelly Bryant, Durham Branch NAACP 1987 Freedom Fund Honoree and Dr. Caroline Lattimore.

When the University of North Carolina Board of Governors chose Richmond as NCCU Chancellor, he was in his ninth year as dean of the NCCU School of Business. He had been appointed Dean in 1977 by Chancellor Whiting.

The week of October 11 through 17 has been designated Inaugural Week at NCCU. It will begin Sunday, October 11, with an art exhibit entitled "Collecting Fine Art: Collectors' Choices" at the NCCU Art Museum. A symposium on the collection of art is scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Music Recital Hall adjacent to the museum. A reception will follow the symposium.

A reception to introduce Dr. Richmond and his family to the Durham community is scheduled at 7 p.m. Monday, October 12, at the LeRoy T. Walker Physical Education and Recreation Complex.

The opening night black tie gala of the NCCU Dramatic Art Department is scheduled at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, October 13, at the University Theatre of the Farrison-Newton Communications Building. The first play of

St. Augustine's President Get Phi Beta Kappa Award

RALEIGH — Dr. Prezell R. Robinson, president of St.

Augustine's College received the 1987-88 Phi Beta Kappa Award from the Wake County Association (Aplhp of North Carolina). The award was presented during the fall banquet held at the North Carolina Museum of art on Sept. 10.

Dr. Clouston Jenkins, president of St. Mary's College in Raleigh made the presentation.

Robinson was cited for his "superior intellectual qualities dedicated to the advancement of scholarly endeavor, human relations, and the cultural and religious affairs during a distinguished career characterized by diligence, compassion, integrity and wisdom."

Jenkins called Robinson's contribution to education outstanding. He said Robinson upheld all Phi Beta Kappa standards in the area of education, as president of St. Augustine's, as a member of the North Carolina State Board of Education, and at national and international levels.

As a recipient of the award Robinson joins other distinguished citizens of Wake County including Chancellor John T. Caldwell of N.C. State University, former N.C. Supreme Court Justice Susie Sharp, Neil Hirschberg and others.

The association noted that Robinson deserves to be among this company because during his career he has made the right choices rather than the easy choices and has steadfastly stood for quality in education both as St. Augustine's president and as a member of the State Board of Education.

In accepting the award, Robinson said the education of our young people was important, because, he added, "I know that education is a tremendous equalizer. It not only provides all of youth an opportunity to become contributing members of our society, but it helps to keep this country of ours great."

"I am both proud and humbled by such a recognition," he said. Robinson becomes the first black educator to be honored with the award by the Wake County Chapter.

The Wake County Phi Beta Kappa Association is affiliated with the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa and established its Phi Beta Kappa Award in 1978.

Canada Should Remain White, Ex-Judge Says

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Canada should remain predominantly white to safeguard its heritage, says a former British Columbia Supreme Court judge and chancellor of the University of British Columbia.

For Justice J.V. Clyne says clumsy and ill-defined federal immigration policies could create a Canada where the English and French are minorities.

"I don't think that should happen, quite frankly," Clyne said Friday. "I'd not want to see us cease to be a white country."

"We certainly should put a stop to illegal immigrants and, also, immigrants should be quantified," Clyne continued. "I'm not opposed to people coming from Third World countries but we should not have too much of

ECSU To Dedicate New Building In Honor of Marion Thorpe

ELIZABETH CITY — The Board of Trustees of Elizabeth City State University has announced the dedication on Sat., Oct. 3, of the new Marion D. Thorpe Administration Building. The ceremony will be held at 2 p.m.

The late Dr. Thorpe was a Durham native. He was chancellor of ECSU at the time of his death.

Jackson Calls Attention To Constitution's Unfinished Business

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — As the bicentennial pomp of the Constitution waned, Jesse Jackson pointed to the "unfinished business" of economic and civil rights and the dangers of corporate "multinational slavemasters."

Jackson addressed about 400 people Friday night at a forum titled "To Form A More Perfect Union," after festivities earlier in the day returned the state Legislature to Philadelphia for its first session here in 175 years.

The celebration of the signing of the Constitution on Sept. 17, 1787 wrapped up Saturday and Sunday with a picnic on the city's restored waterfront.

Speaking with Jackson at Friday night's forum were Eleanor Smeal, former president of the National Organization for Women, and Ramsey Clark, former U.S. attorney general.

Clark accused the Reagan administration of military interventionism, while Ms. Smeal denounced Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork and told the crowd not to give up on liberal causes such as the Equal Rights Amendment.

"We've been ignored so many times that we ourselves forget we're the majority," she said, adding that three of four Americans favor the ERA.

Packwood To Fight Bork Nomination: Others Undecided

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bob Packwood on Monday became the first Northwest senator to take a stand on Robert Bork's nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court, saying he opposes the appointment because he thinks the federal appeals judge would work to limit individual rights.

"I will vote and fight against Judge Bork's nomination," the Oregon Republican told a news conference, adding he would be willing to join in a filibuster to block Senate confirmation of Bork.

Other Northwest senator have said they will wait until the Senate Judiciary Committee completes hearings before making a decision on the Bork nomination.

Packwood said it was too early to say whether the full Senate will approve the nomination, but added he would be talking to up to 10 other Republican senators to gain his opposition.

Packwood said Bork's testimony last week before the Senate Judiciary Committee made it clear he remains a harsh critic of privacy rights as defined by the Supreme Court over the last six decades.

"I had decided I would vote against him unless he convinced me otherwise, and he didn't," Packwood said.

"After listening to Judge Bork in the hearings, and more importantly, after meeting with him twice personally, I am convinced that Judge Bork feels so strongly opposed to the right of privacy that he will do everything possible to cut and trim the liberties that the right of privacy protects," Packwood said.

A strong advocate of abortion rights, Packwood said he is convinced that Bork "will do everything he can to reverse the private right of an individual woman to choose whether or not to have an abortion."

Packwood said that during his 25 years in elected office he has seen a "consistent pattern" of government trying to limit individual rights and that he would support a Supreme Court nominee "who would not only defend existing liberties, but expand them."

Bork fails that litmus test, Packwood said.

"Given my view that we should preserve and protect those liberties we now have so that we, in turn, can pass them on to our children a bit more secure than we received them from our parents, I have no choice but to
