

N.C. Arts Council Offering Writer Fellowships

The N.C. Arts Council is offering writers fellowships to professional poets and fiction writers. Feb. 1 is the deadline for applications. The agency offers as many as five writers fellowships annually and each carries a grant award of $8,000.

With these fellowships, the N.C. Arts Council hopes to assist writers who have made career commitments to poetry or fiction. Although the fellowship funds may be utilized to buy supplies or equipment, perhaps their most valuable use is that they can allow a writer to set aside time to work. Consequently, the program gives writers the opportunity to devote their full attention to their craft.

To qualify for a writers fellowship, candidates must have been a North Carolina resident since Feb. 1, 1989. Writers enrolled in degree granting programs may not apply for a fellowship and the award may not be used for educational costs. The fellowship monies must be spent between July 1, 1990 and June 30, 1991.

The chief criterion for writers fellowships is the quality of the work. In addition, the Council asks applicants to explain the importance of the fellowship to their career and to submit a resume. All fellowships are decided by an out-of-state panel of distinguished writers, editors and critics. There is no preliminary screening and panel members see every manuscript.

For more information on this program or to request a fellowship application, contact Debbie McGill, Literature Coordinator, N.C. Arts Council, Department of Cultural Resources, Raleigh, 27611 or call 919/733-2111.

Visual Arts Fellowships And Artist Project Grants Offered By N.C. Arts Council

The N.C. Arts Council, a division of the Department of Cultural Resources, is offering visual artist fellowships and artist project grants to eligible professional North Carolina visual artists. The application deadline for both programs is Feb. 1.

Visual artist fellowships recognize professional North Carolina artists who have made career commitments to their art. Besides giving artists a chance to create, these grant monies can help them purchase supplies. The program is designed to assist artists achieve specific career goals and allow them to devote full attention to their art. Visual artist fellowships usually total $8,000.

Visual artist project grants encourage significant development in individual artists, work and support specific artistic ideas. Their purpose is to recognize the contributions professional artists make to North Carolina's creative environment. Artist project grant recipients may receive up to $5,000.

Painters, sculptors, printmakers, photographers, film and videomakers, and craftspeople may apply for either of these awards. Any professional will be considered. Recipients of grant funds may not utilize these monies for educational expenses. Applicants are required to have been state residents for at least one year prior to applying for either fellowships or artist project grants. Award monies must be spent between July 1, 1990 and June 30, 1991.

Criteria for visual artist fellowship awards include artistic excellence, the importance of the fellowship to the artist's career and previous contributions to the art form.

Artist project grant applications will be considered on the basis of consistent quality of the artist's work, the artistic merit and excellence of the proposal, the project's potential impact on the medium and work of the individual artist, and the possibility that a project will be completed within specified time and budget parameters.

For further information or to request a fellowship or visual artist project grant application, contact the visual arts section, N.C. Arts Council, Department of Cultural Resources, Raleigh, N.C. 27601-2807 or call 919/733-2111.
