

NCCU Chancellor's Installation Speaker is Dr. Samuel Proctor

Dr. Samuel D. Proctor, Professor Emeritus at Rutgers University and Professor Emeritus of New York's Abyssinian Baptist Church, will be the featured speaker for the installation and investiture of Julius L. Chambers as Chancellor of North Carolina Central University at 10 a.m., Friday, October 22, in the McLendon-McDougal Gymnasium at NCCU.

Dr. Proctor is a former president of North Carolina A&T State University and Virginia Union University. He has also been an administrator with the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity, the Institute for Research in Education, the National Council of Churches, and the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Dr. Proctor is currently an adjunct professor at the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio, and at the Schools of Theology of Boston University and Virginia Union University. He is a member of the governing boards of the National Negro College Fund, Colgate-Rochester-Croser Theological Seminary and Union Theological Seminary of New York. He is a member of the National Visiting Committee for the Divinity School of Harvard University.

Dr. Proctor holds degrees from Virginia Union University, Crozer Theological Seminary, and Boston University. He holds honorary doctorates from 38 colleges and universities, as well as special awards and medals from Rutgers, Boston University, and the State University of New York at Albany.

Dr. Proctor is the author of four books: The Young Negro in America; From the Black Pulpit (with Dr. William Wallely); Preaching About the Community; and My Moral Odyssey.

Miss NCCU To Be Crowned Sunday

Dr. Nicole Robinson of Fort Washington, Md., will be crowned Miss North Carolina Central University at 5 p.m. Sunday (October 24) in the University's B.N. Duke Auditorium.

Dr. Robinson's parents, James and Frances Privott Robinson, are NCCU alumni, members of the classes of 1964 and 1965.

Dr. Robinson is a 30-year-old public administration major, Miss Robinson is enrolled in the University Honors Program and a Dean's List student. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society.

Dr. Robinson is presenting a paper at the 7th National Conference on Graduate Research in Salt Lake City. Her paper was entitled, "How to Improve the Quality of Instruction" (Continued On Page 11)

Shuttle Service Provided for NCCU Inaugural Events

Overflow parking spaces will be provided by Durham's Hayti Heritage Center and three churches, with shuttle buses operating for North Carolina Central University's inaugural activities Friday (October 22).

Persons attending activities should go to the campus, where traffic officers will direct them to the nearest available parking locations.

Overflow parking spaces will be provided by Hayti Heritage Center, 804 Old Fayetteville Street; St. Joseph AME Church, 2521 Fayetteville St.; St. Titus Episcopal Church, 400 Moline St.; and White Rock Baptist Church, 3400 Fayetteville St.

EAGLES CALENDAR

OCTOBER 21-23 (Thursday-Saturday), 8:15 p.m., Drama Production, "Fascination Man," University Theatre, Farrison-Newton Building, Call 560-5170 or 560-6242.

OCTOBER 22 (Friday), 10 a.m., Installation of Chancellor Julius L. Chambers, Dr. Samuel Proctor, speaker, McLendon-McDougal Gymnasium. Call 560-6129.

OCTOBER 22 (Friday), 12:30 p.m., Inaugural Reception, L.T. Walker Complex. Call 560-6129.

OCTOBER 22 (Friday), 1:30 p.m., Luncheon for Official Delegates, W.G. Person Cafeteria. Call 560-6129.

OCTOBER 22 (Friday), Volleyball, Elizabeth City State University Tri-Mich, Elizabeth City. Call 560-6573.

OCTOBER 22 (Friday), 7:30 p.m., Inaugural Ball & Reception, Omni Durham Hotel. Call 560-6129.

OCTOBER 23 (Saturday), 1:30 p.m., Football, NCCU at South Carolina State University, Orangeburg, S.C. Call 560-6573.

OCTOBER 24 (Sunday), 2-5 p.m., Art Show, The Joy of Living: Romare Bearden's Late Work, NCCU Art Museum. Call 560-6211.

OCTOBER 24 (Sunday), 3:15 p.m., Drama Production, "Fascination Man," University Theatre, Farrison-Newton Building, Call 560-5170 or 560-6242.

OCTOBER 24 (Sunday), 5 p.m., Coronation of Miss North Carolina Central University. Call 560-6325.

OCTOBER 25 (Monday), 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m., Department of Nursing Career Day, Miller-Morgan Building.

OCTOBER 26 - OCTOBER 29 (Tuesday-Friday), 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Art Show, The Joy of Living: Romare Bearden's Late Work, NCCU Art Museum. Call 560-6211.

OCTOBER 26-30 (Tuesday-Saturday), Motivational Task Force, Career Planning & Placement Center. Call 560-6337.

OCTOBER 26 (Tuesday), Volleyball, NCCU vs. Elon College. Call 560-6129.

OCTOBER 27 (Wednesday), 7:30 p.m., NCCU Eagle Club Executive Committee Meeting, McLendon-McDougal Gymnasium. Call 688-6129.

OCTOBER 29 (Friday), 10:30 a.m., Founder's Day Convocation, Yvonne Person Cafeteria, speaker, B.N. Duke Auditorium. Call 560-6369.

(Continued On Page 11)

Shaw University Establishes Center For Excellence, Receives $1.2 Million

Dr. Talbert O. Shaw, President of Shaw University, has announced a $1.2 million dollar award from the National Science Foundation to Shaw University. Shaw University ranked in the top nine of fifty-six award recipients. The funds will be used to renovate Roberts' Science Building. "This award signals our efforts to develop a Center For Excellence In Science and Technology," according to Dr. Shaw. He further describes the award as, "A testament to the outstanding faculty and students that comprise the University's Science Department." Dr. John Newell, associate professor of biology and physical science, is the project leader.

The Science and Technology Division is chaired by Dr. Eugene N. Baskerville, the recipient of the Education Enhancement Curriculum Grants Program of the North Carolina Biotechnology Center. As a part of this grant, Dr. Baskerville designed and introduced the biomolecular studies component into the University's curriculum. Dr. Baskerville is also the recipient of an ongoing faculty fellowship from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation. This fellowship promotes minority advancement in the Biomolecular Sciences and offers a student fellowship agreement between the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Shaw University. The two institutions are engaged in collaborative research in the field of biotechnology.

"The National Science Foundation award allows Shaw University to offer its students a facility that fosters a quality academic environment," comments Dr. McLouis Clayton, vice president for Academic Affairs.

The new renovation project provides faculty and students with new lecture rooms, physics and computer labs, research labs, and faculty offices.

A Center for Excellence in Science and Technology is destined to help to fill the void of minority researchers in the sciences. Over the past five years, faculty members in the Division of Science and Technology have initiated several innovative and substantive programs.

These efforts have benefited Shaw University undergraduates who aspire to research and professional scientific careers.

Such efforts include research that is currently underway with the Army Corp of Engineers in Vicksburg, Mississippi. Shaw University professor Dr. Mohammed Qasim, the author of the manual "Simplified Concepts Spectroscopy and Photochemistry", is using this study in conducting environmental research needed to solve problems associated with groundwater contaminated with hazardous waste. This information will be vital to engineers and others in their attempts to detect and degrade hazardous waste and other soil contaminants. Environmental research in spectroscopy and photochemistry will help to identify alternatives for remediation of affected soils and groundwaters.

Physics professor, Dr. Vladimir Rosenhaus, hopes that his work will impact the way physicists employ algebraic and geometrical methods to find exact solutions to some physically interesting non-linear differential equations. Dr. Rosenhaus is also investigating symmetries and relations between Conservation Laws for Differential

NORFOLK (Va.) State University seniors Rochelle Brown, Norfolk; Lisa Roach, Trinidad, West Indies; Natasha Johnson-Harvey, Richmond; and Annette Burris of Baltimore, Md., are the "cornerstones" for the Spartans' volleyball team this year, in quest of their first CIAA volleyball championship.

Research and Community education programs are central to the efforts of Shaw University's Science and Technology efforts: Dr. Lillie M. Boyd, supervises the at 8 a.m. at Bryan Park, an 8 a.m. tennis tournament will be held at Oka Hester Park, and the third annual "Aggie No Tap" bowling tournament 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. at Buffalo Lanes.

(Continued On Page 11)

The A&T National Alumni Association will present Gladys Knight "I Fell in Love" on Friday, October 22 at 9 p.m. The concert, featuring Knight and her orchestra,

(Continued On Page 11)

Gladys Knight Coming 30,000 to Take Part In A&T's Homecoming Events

GREENSBORO — Homecoming at A&T State University has always been big. But with superb songstress Gladys Knight, a nationally ranked football team, and more than two dozen social and sports activities scheduled, this celebration is expected to attract 30,000 persons.

On Oct. 21, the coronation of Tangular Graves as "Miss A&T State University" will be held at 7 p.m. in Corbett Sports Center, followed by the coronation reception/ball at 9:30 p.m. in Moore Gym.

The Homecoming Step-show and Pre-dawn dance will be held on Friday, October 22 from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. in Corbett Sports Center. The featured performer will be Brian McKnight.

A concert/pre dawn show, featuring Ice Cub, Yo-Yo, 2 Pac Shakur and MC Lyte, will be held on Saturday, October 23 from 8 p.m. to 3 a.m. in Corbett Center.

The alumni homecoming events will include the Aggie golf tournament on Friday, October 22

Miss ASU Coronation Held

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Lovely Vincigar Bond, Ala., native Nicole Holloway was crowned Miss Alabama State University in a coronation pageant Oct. 15.

Ms. Holloway was elected Miss ASU by her fellow students during an election held late in the spring 1993 semester.

And while she has already begun fulfilling her official duties as Miss ASU the petite beauty will receive her crown, scepter and train during a coronation pageant that she has planned around the theme "Remember the Times."

Nicole's coronation will have an Egyptian motif to emphasize the importance of black women during that time period.

Nicole says, "From the research that I have conducted, we find that women of that time had the same authority that men had, and even ruled nations. They had courage and determination and showed great leadership for their people. These are some things that seem to be lacking in today's society. Many women are afraid and don't think they can have as much power as men."

Waukegan, Ill., resident Rosalyn Daniels is the first attendant to Miss ASU. The 22-year-old senior is a radio/television broadcast major.

Second attendant to Miss ASU is Poitellia Latrice Kirk, a 27-year-old senior marketing major born in Bessemer, Ala., and reared in Boston, Mass.

A Night To Remember

STARRING

PEABO BRYSON

— Special Guest —

Sweet Dreams

Friday, October 29 - 8 PM

at the

McDougal-McLendon Gymnasium

At N.C.C.U. Campus

Tickets on sale now at All Ticketmaster Outlets. To charge by phone call (919) 852-1100.

Presented by N.C.C.U. Foundation, Harris Incorporated and Anheuser-Busch Companies. Proceeds benefit N.C.C.U. Foundation.
