Circle of Girls - Music Discovery Event to Offer Unique Sensory Experience

Some research reveals that people with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) benefit from music therapy and respond well to exposure to music. Increased social interactions, improved behavior and communication are among outcomes revealed in studies. Seeking to explore the power of music, My Circle of GirlsNC has partnered with Kindermusik for a June 2016 event for the group for girls living with autism in the Triangle and beyond.

Attendees will have an opportunity to be involved in group activities and express themselves through music at the upcoming event. According to kindermusik.com, Kindermusik believes in whole-child development. The approach, focused on offering "thoughtfully integrated sequences of activities that set the stage for optimal, multi-sensory learning," will be used to craft the Music and Me session scheduled for Sat., June 11, from 10-11:30 a.m., in Durham.

Girls living with ASD seeking an opportunity to express themselves through music will have the chance at the upcoming session. Girls, ages 2-11, are invited to register for Music and Me by emailing mycircleofgirls@gmail.com. Details about the event will be given once the participant is registered. The registration deadline is June 7.

For more information about My Circle of Girls, visit www.mycircleofgirls.com or www.facebook.com/mycircleofgirls.

SSt. Sya Academy K-12 School is asking artists in the community for help to create their back drops

The ST. Sya Academy K-12 School of Durham is presenting their yearly play and are asking area artists to volunteer and help illustrate and paint their back drops for this year's play. The back drops are about 25 feet in length and is 10 ft. high. This year's play is SUNDIATA, THE LION KING. We are in need of three back drops for three scenes in the play to be painted. We need help to illustrate and paint these three scenes and we are asking for help from area artists to volunteer.

The parents of the students have contributed the paints and brushes and have agreed to provide refreshment during the project. If you would like to help, please call today 919-768-7421 or 919-358-8037 ask for Nonie.

The play is on June 3, 2016 at the Holton Career Center located on 401 N. Driver Street, Durham, NC. The backdrop will be painted on each Saturday at Holton Career & Resource Center, beginning May 7, 2016 from 9am to 5Pm. The project will continue on each Saturday of the month leading up to the event. Thank you in advance through your help as community artist we know we can paint the backdrops and have good time working together to support the youth of this great community of Durham.

Durham County Library Presents: Maurice White, Earth, Wind & Fire: The Soundtrack of a Generation

Program: Maurice White, Earth, Wind & Fire: The Soundtrack of a Generation

Date: Tuesday, June 7

Time: 7 p.m.

Location: Stanford L. Warren Branch Library, 1201 Fayetteville Rd.

Cost: Free and open to the public

About: Durham County Library will host radio personality and music historian, Howard Burchette, at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, June 7 at Stanford L. Warren Branch Library (1201 Fayetteville Rd.) to discuss Maurice White, Earth, Wind & Fire: The Soundtrack of a Generation.

The band Earth, Wind & Fire spanned such diverse genres as R&B, soul, funk, jazz, disco and rock. For a generation of Americans and international audiences in the 1970s and 1980s, this dynamic musical group spread a message of spiritual brotherhood, beauty, love and African American uplift. In this interactive presentation, Howard Burchette will discuss the history, legacy and implications of Earth, Wind & Fire on American popular culture.

This program is sponsored by Durham Library Foundation. For more information, call Carter B. Cue at 919-560-0282 or visit durhamcountylibrary.org.

Durham County Library Celebrates the Grand Opening of MakerLab @ Main

Program: Grand Opening of MakerLab @ Main

Date: Saturday, June 4

Time: 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Location: Main Library, 300 N. Roxboro St.

Cost: Free and open to the public

About: Durham County Library will celebrate the Grand Opening of the MakerLab @ Main on Saturday, June 4 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Main Library, 300 N. Roxboro St.

Introductory comments and speakers will be at 10 a.m. followed by an Open House. Enjoy robotics, 3D printer demonstrations, a take-home craft—make a light-up card for Father's Day or to give to someone else who is important to you—and light refreshments while learning about all the MakerLab has to offer.

The MakerLab @ Main is a hybrid, creative space—think art studio meets technology meets community learning lab. The lab works to connect the community with new and emerging technologies while encouraging creative and artistic discovery. It is designed to create broad access across the community to opportunities for lifelong engagement with science, technology, engineering, arts and math.

The MakerLab @ Main is a resource for instructor- and librarian-led discovery as well as self-directed exploration. The lab functions as a space for library programs and will also feature programs led by community partners. The lab will have open hours every third Saturday of the month from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. unless posted otherwise. These open hours will allow for independent exploration of featured technologies.

While registration is not required to attend the Grand Opening, registration will be required for most programs at the MakerLab. Upcoming programs include: Go Green: Eco Lanterns, Basket Weaving, Intro

DCL Grand Opening of MakerLab @ Main 2016 - Page 2 of 2 to Arduino and more. For details about these and other MakerLab programs, visit the library's online events calendar or speak to a library staff member to sign up.

Many of the programs in the MakerLab @ Main are supported by grant funds from the Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the federal Library Services and Technology Act as administered by the State Library of North Carolina, a division of the Department of Cultural Resources. For more information about MakerLab @ Main, contact Teen Librarian Faith Burns at (919) 560-0122 or visit durhamcountylibrary.org.

Find Deals on Appliances, Furniture, Household Goods and More at TROSA Sale

Bargain hunters will find a bigger-than-usual selection of large appliances, including gently used refrigerators, washing machines and stoves, at TROSA's annual fundraising sale Wednesday-Saturday, June 1-4, at Oxford Commons shopping center, 3500 N. Roxboro St., Durham.

The mega sale runs from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily in the TROSA Thrift Store at Oxford Commons and under 50,000 square feet of tented space in the parking lot.

More than 30 trailer loads of furniture, construction items, appliances and household goods will be offered at bargain prices in the outdoor space. These include items not normally available in the thrift store. Clothing, small electronics and much more will be on sale at big discounts inside the store.

The sale supports the core operations of Triangle Residential Options for Substance Abusers. The long-term residential program has been in operation for 22 years, helping men and women overcome drug and alcohol dependence.

TROSA provides evidence-based treatment, work-based vocational training and access to education to prepare residents for success after they complete the program. Residents will be available to assist shoppers during the sale.

TROSA is a nonprofit and does not charge individuals to participate. It derives revenue from donations, including items generously donated for the annual sale and thrift store by individual supporters, businesses and other organizations. During the sale, TROSA will be accepting donations from the public at its onsite donation center.

TROSA also operates a moving company, lawn care service, Christmas tree lots and a frame shop, all of which provide job training for residents.

To learn more about TROSA, call 919-419-1059 or visit www.trosainc.org.
