FOR THE MINERVA.

THE avocations of a planter at this season, ne cessarily call him off from the recollection of the abuses and negligence of our public servants, or I should have continued my remarks in your last

As you did not publish the law requiring the governor to reside permanently at Raleigh, I have taken it for granted that I have not misconstrued it as represented to me.

It must be a poor excuse indeed to the chief magistrate of our state, for wilfully neglecting the requisites of a law, because that law may specify no penalty for the infringement. Although the statute does not point out the fine and punishment for its violation, yet I presume the legislature deemed it as binding upon the executive, as th ugh he were liable to forfeit his salary for refusing to perform the business of his office. They never dreamt that the head of the government, would hesitate to observe rigidly a law relating solely to himself, while he enforced every other upon the people. They little believed that because out of delicacy to the governor, they had affixed no penalty, he would feel himself the less bound in honor to comply with it. They considered that penalties were affixed to deter the bad from violating their solemn injunctions. Although I rank among my neighbors as a reublican, yet Mr. Printer, I am no jacobin, and one regardless of his duty, merely because he takes to himself the title of republican. I am not so blinded to my party, as to shut my eyes to the glaring and palpable neglect of a high public officer because he is considered a republican. But such is the zeal of some men of our county, and such their hostility to you and your press, that I fear my remarks will not be rightly considered. For I find my first number has excited considerable enmity against an innocent man, once considered federal, who is accused of being the writer ; and much of the common slang of the day is poured out against you for publishing it. But I will not flatter you; I did not of choice select your paper; it was from necessity. For I well knew that the public printers would publish nothing which informed the people of a neglect in the governor; while the governor continued the favorite of the legislature. I have long seen with regret, that the Register, like the federal presses during Adam's administration, will publish no thing however true, which may not please a majority of that body. This miserable state of the republican presses, has become a subject of regret to more republicans than myself. For sengret to more republicans than myself. For sen-sible we are that the public mind is never to be 8026, 3280, 7483, 1026, 2624, 1009, 516, 5060, 696, 1881, deligencer and the Aurora have gallant- corrected, while the truth cannot be published, 5805, 10267, 4470, 2801, 6581, 7590, 6329, 1623, 7120, and the lists against each other. Will you please to give the following a place in your next Thursday's paper : A publication some few days past appeared in your Minerva, with the signature of A Franklin Farmer, and I have been told by some friends of Wake and Franklin counties, that this 'bagatelle' has been ascribed to me. Motives and feelings of gratitude urge me to disavow any knowledge of the author; and by no means am I envious to claim the merit if any, of this trifle, especially when the writer promises, thereafter, that the members of the late General Assembly shall not escape his animadversion. If those who for a moment suspected me would reflect that, that Assembly gave me all I asked the place of an engrossing clerk and assistant no aristocrat in republican disguise.
